2 STATES TEST ROOSEVELT RULE AT POLLS TODAY

New Deal Gets Slap in South Carolina.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The effectiveness of Roosevelt's opposition will be tested in the South Carolina Democratic primary tomorrow. At the same time voters in California will determine the value of enough Roosevelt pats on the back to constitute a massage.

Edgar A. Brown Assails Gov. Johnston. [(AP) Wirephoto.]

Interest centers chiefly in the South Carolina senatorial primary, where Gov. Olin D. Johnston, a 100 per center who has been blessed by President Roosevelt, is opposing the veteran Senator Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith, who has screamed his contempt for coat-tailers throughout the length and breadth of the state.

The South Carolina campaign closed tonight with Senator Smith, chairman of the important agriculture committee, an odds-on-favorite.

Blasts Roosevelt Coat-Tailer.

Smith's prospects were enhanced this evening when State Senator Edgar A. Brown issued a statement blasting Gov. Johnston and indicating clearly his preference for "Cotton Ed."

Three other Democratic senators on the President's purge list have been renominated, but Smith is the first of those repudiated personally by Mr. Roosevelt to face the test.

Hence the results of the South Carolina primary are awaited anxiously for their possible bearing on the fate of Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, and Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, chairman of the house rules committee. All three have been excoriated by Mr. Roosevelt.

The sudden withdrawal of State Senator Brown from the three-cornered race on Saturday gave President Roosevelt his opportunity yesterday to declare that the issue had been clarified.

Two Policies Far Apart.

Mr. Brown, like Gov. Johnston, had been running as a yes-man, and there was danger of splitting the rubber stamp vote. Brown's withdrawal, the President said, would give the voters their choice between "two candidates representing entirely different political schools of thought."

Then, without mentioning any names, the President condemned Senator Smith as a man who "thinks in terms of the past and governs his actions accordingly," and blessed Gov. Johnston as a man who "thinks in terms of 1938 and 1948 and 1958 as well."

But if Mr. Roosevelt hoped that State Senator Brown would take his following into the Johnston camp, disillusionment was in store for him.

Before Mr. Brown's withdrawal, a test poll of the state registered Smith's strength at 51 per cent, Johnston's at 36 per cent, and Brown's at 13 per cent. The same polling service today sent checkers into the Columbia region. Results of this resurvey gave Smith 57 per cent and Johnston 43 per cent of tomorrow's ballots.

Leads State Opposition.

Mr. Brown is the leader of the opposition to Gov. Johnston in the state legislature. His chief backer in the senate race was Ben Sawyer, head of the state highway department, with 40,000 votes in his pocket. Mr. Sawyer is Gov. Johnston's most outspoken enemy in South Carolina.

Today Mr. Brown denounced as "insolent" a demand by Gov. Johnston that he take a stand between the two remaining senatorial candidates.

In a withering statement, Brown accused Johnston of opposing a resolution in the 1932 state Democratic convention indorsing Mr. Roosevelt. He said Johnston had given aid and comfort to the late Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana and former Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, loud

BICYCLES NOT BUILT FOR TWO, NEW LAW HOLDS

Bicycle trafic in Waukegan is so heavy that the city council decided something had to be done about it. An ordinance was passed last night. It limits passengers to one per cycle, sets a speed limit of 15 miles per hour and requires lights after sundown. Only two bicycles can be ridden parallel at one time and all such vehicles must be registered with the chief of police. Penalties for violations run from $2 to $200 for each offense.

4 MORE TESTIFY TO SEEING HINES WITH RACKETEER

Hotel Workers Tell of Meeting.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Four witnesses today pointed at Tammany Leader James J. [Jimmy] Hines as the man they had seen with the late Dutch Schultz, gang leader, at two hotels during the summer of 1935. At that time the hoodlum was hiding from income tax investigators. One of the group swore he witnessed Hines parading in his undershirt in the gangster's suite.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey drew out the story of the alleged rendevous between the politician and gangster from a retired prize fighter and three hotel employés. Hines, charged with being the political "fixer" for the policy game racket headed by Schultz, is on trial before a jury and Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora for conspiracy and violation of the lottery laws.

The undershirt incident was related by Eddie Corbett, the ex-pugilist who had gone into the Schultz suite of rooms to give the gangster a massage. The other three state's witnesses placed the powerful Democratic leader in the company of Schultz in a hotel coffee shop and dining room, and as having asked a bellboy how to get to the gangster's suite.

Directs His Racket Empire.

The hotels were the Barnum and Stratfield, both in Bridgeport, Conn., where Schultz spent most of the summer of 1935 dodging federal detectives and directing his racket empire by remote control.

The day's testimony, given by four persons who had no connection with the racket, helped to corroborate the story of George Weinberg, the Schultz payoff man who has pleaded guilty and testified for the state that the gang chief, needing funds to fight the income tax case, had cut Hines' weekly salary of $500 from the racket.

Corbett, a beetle-browed individual with the flattened nose and cauliflower ears that mark his trade, was the last and most spectacular witness of the day. It was he who placed Hines actually in the Schultz suite where Weinberg had said the conference was held.

Recites Story of His Life.

Corbett recited the story of his life before passing on to the case at hand. He had fought 241 bouts, served a year and a half in the army overseas during the world war, and then became a physical instructor for the Young Men's Christian association at Bridgeport. In 1930 he set up a "health school" and it was through this establishment that he met Schultz and his aids.

Corbett said Schultz and his aids often came to his place for handball and boxing workouts, then he would go to the hotel to give Schultz and the others massages, sometimes as often as twice a day, Corbett declared. He identified pictures of Weinberg and other gang lieutenants which Prosecutor Dewey put under his nose.

"Now, is there any one else, any one in this courtroom that you saw at that time in the company of Dutch Schultz?" asked Dewey.

"Yes," replied the witness.

Witness Points Out Hines.

Corbett pointed at Hines and upon Dewey's request leaped from the witness stand and with a springy walk stepped over to within a few feet of the defendant where he again pointed to him.

"Where did you see the defendant, Hines?" inquired Dewey.

"At the Barnum hotel," answered Corbett.

"What were you doing on that occasion?" was the next question.

"I was called to the Schultz suite for a massage," said Corbett.

"How was Hines dressed?" asked Dewey.

"He had his shirt off and was in his undershirt," replied the former prize fighter. "I admired his build."

Looks Straight at Corbett.

Hines, who at the age of 61 years possesses an athletic bearing and is fond of sports, looked straight at the witness, tapping his finger on the table in front of him.

Corbett testified that he had bumped into Hines in an anteroom of the suite and had been asked by Schultz to wait outside for a little while. Ten minutes later, he said,

Laundry Head Found; Doped and Kidnaped

Julius Borgeson, who was kidnaped Friday while his laundry in Des Plaines was being picketed by a drivers' union, was released by his abductors in Highland Park late last night. He was exhausted and under the influence of drugs. He later charged that he was kidnaped in connection with his union troubles. He said he had been kept under the influence of narcotics.

Only six hours before he was freed his wife Esther had signed a contract with the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' and Chauffeurs' union, local 712. He had refused to sign a contract and for that reason his business house had been picketed.

Given First Aid.

Borgeson's first contact with a friendly world since Friday came when he staggered to the home of Jacob Summers, 1246 Prairie avenue, Highland Park, and asked for help. All he could say was, "I was kidnaped." Summers took him to the police station. Dr. S. R. Banfield of Highland Park gave him first aid. Police then took Borgeson to his home at 565 Elder lane, Winnetka.

Early today Borgeson told his story. He said he was driving his laundry truck near Des Plaines when three men in a large car stopped him. One climbed into his truck, ordered him to drive into the forest preserve, and struck him when he first refused. Afterward, Borgeson said, he was put into the passenger car and made to lie on the floor of the car, where he was forcibly given a hypodermic. His eyes were bandaged.

Without Food for a Day.

His kidnapers, Borgeson said, took him to a cottage facing a body of water, probably in Wisconsin. They did not give him any food until Saturday morning. Occasionally they gave him doped water or hypodermics, he said.

"One of the men told me I was foolish to buck an outfit like the union," said the laundry owner. "I replied I couldn't afford to join it. The kidnaper said, 'Can you afford this? We'll keep you here until you lose all your business.'"

Yesterday, Borgeson continued, the kidnapers received a phone call. They forced him to drink more doped water and then started out with him on the automobile trip which ended in his release. The frequent dopings, he said, made him sleep much of the time of his captivity.

Truck Found in Preserve.

Search for the laundry owner started late Friday afternoon, when a policeman came upon his delivery truck in the forest preserve near Oakton and River roads. His crushed straw hat lay on the seat. A fruitless search of the woods was made Saturday by CCC men and Des Plaines police. Yesterday a resident of Des Plaines reported he had seen Borgeson, on foot, at Touhy and River roads about 10:30 a. m. Friday.

Officials of the drivers' union asserted they had nothing to do with his disappearance, and refused to call off their pickets until the distracted wife signed the contract. She also agreed to unionize the inside workers.

HENRY DOESN'T LIKE DOGS; NEITHER DOES JUDGE; SO HE'S FREED

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Henry Petersen rigged up a charged wire in his back yard to keep dogs from sniffing around his trash can and shrubbery. Today he was arraigned before Municipal Judge Dennis O'Brien on a charge of cruelty brought by a humane society agent.

"You're bringing this case to a cold hearted court," the judge told the complainant. "I don't feel very kindly toward dogs. One of them dug up $30 worth of lilies I planted. Another ruined six trees. Another one, a big Dane, comes into the yard and tears up the grass and throws it all over the place. Yes, I like dogs all right, but I like my trees and flowers, too. Charge dismissed."

FINDS TWO NEW SATELLITES OF PLANET JUPITER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Carnegie institution announced today that two new satellites of the planet Jupiter have been discovered by its Mount Wilson observatory in California.

They were found by Dr. Seth Nicholson in a two month survey of the planet through a 100 inch telescope.

Jupiter, largest of the planets, was the first heavenly body to be studied with a telescope. Galileo, with the first crude instrument, a wooden tube fitted with lenses and only about 2 feet long, discovered four satellites of the planet in 1610. Subsequently five others were found. The satellites announced today have been designated "numbers 10 and 11."

Picks Jail Lock to Go Out to Eat; Picks Way in Again

Hamburg, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Clarence Brown, 28 years old, told Justice of the Peace Ira S. Dunmire that he picked a lock, walked out to a restaurant for breakfast today, and then returned to his village jail cell. "I got plenty hungry and no one came around to feed me, so I picked the lock with a match," the prisoner told the court. The magistrate was so impressed that he released Brown without bail pending trial of a disorderly conduct charge.

Stylists Jittery as Hair Modes Sweep Upward

Fashion has turned back the clock again. To be smartly turned out this season the glamour girl of 1938 will be wearing her hair swept up high on her head, just as her mother and grandmother did in the gay '90s.

At least that's the new style in coiffures, even if the hair dressers themselves are dubious about its popularity. With a quiver of apprehension they exhibited the latest brushed up trend yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

It was a preview of the annual fall and winter coiffure and fashion revue sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association. The revue will be held tomorrow night on the hotel's beach walk.

It's Swing in Hair Styles.

Milady may view with alarm the physical requirements of the classic upswept mode of hair brushed high in ringlets or puffs atop the head. It takes, as the hair stylists declared, a well shaped head, an attractive neckline, and pretty ears.

It's the application of swing to hair styles. It's on with the upswing and off with the down beat. But if this prospect chills, let our modern miss listen to the prediction of Emil Rohde.

Mr. Rohde started dressing hair in Germany in 1891. Fifteen years later he reached Chicago when the Gibson girls wore their hair in pompadours and puffs [or rats] were sold by the yard. Said Mr. Rohde:

"I expect to see pompadours come back next, and then the French twist, worn with a shell. Or perhaps we'll go back to the Titus hair dress of 1888, with short ringlets massed over the head."

After a two year struggle Paris has gone comb, pin and curler for swished up strands. According to the reports yesterday, the new hair "do" is all the rage in New York.

Eleven Models to Three.

Eleven of the sleek models yesterday wore their locks in the gay nineties getup. But the remaining three clung to some form of the down style, or a modified version of the uplift.

"It's beautiful work," commented Marc Gartman, president of the association, as he examined the work of an upswept disciple. "But is it practical?"

"I don't know," the woman stylist responded nervously. Then she added, as her hands caressed the dark, rich hair of her model, bringing the strands severely off the face in a classic sweep to the top of the head:

"Every one's so jittery about the new styles, I've named that one the Jitterbug."

Czechs Strive to Foil Nazis' Plans for Coup

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 29.—The Czechoslovak government, parliamentary committees, party leaders and experts, today worked on the republic's new plan for pacifying Sudeten Germans and other minorities.

The object is to deprive Reichsfuehrer Hitler of any pretext for attacking Czechoslovakia, and, failing that, to make it clear that responsibility for any conflict does not lie with Czechoslovakia.

President Eduard Benes tomorrow will receive Deputy Ernst Kundt, chairman of the Sudeten German delegation. Another conference probably will take place this week between Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German [Nazi] party, and Viscount Runciman, unofficial British mediator. It is expected Henlein will be required to take a definite stand toward the propositions which Runciman laid before him at Rothenhaus castle Sunday afternoon.

Plan Cantons for Minorities.

Despite the secrecy it is believed the government proposes to divide the country into cantons as in Switzerland in order to group together as much as possible the people of the same nationality. The Prague government hopes to satisfy Henlein's demand for territorial self-rule with this scheme. Four of Henlein's eight Carlsbad points will be satisfied under the new plan, said a government spokesman.

Government circles realize that their activity will not prevent Hitler from striking at the nation if he has so decided. Efforts primarily are being made to satisfy Runciman's sense of fair play and to give the British press a basis for a propaganda campaign to bring Britain to the aid of Czechoslovakia.

Even in this tension the Czechs and the Germans are little concerned with the rights and wrongs of the matter or with abstract justice. They are seeking to outwit the other fellow and get the applause of the world—which at this moment means Britain and the United States.

Gather at Bulletin Board.

Despite banner lines in the newspapers and the crowds gathered around bulletin boards, no one seems to know why this week should be considered more dangerous than the preceding twelve weeks or at least the three weeks to follow.

The prime cause for the tension is news from London about British nervousness. Behind this is supposed to lie the pressure of Hitler's government in the form of warnings, formal or informal, to the powers that Germany no longer would endure a delay on the minority problem in Czechoslovakia.

With their customary stodginess the Czechs, though most directly menaced, probably are less disturbed than other people.

HITLER TO GET NEW WARNING BY BRITISH CABINET

Paris Also to Urge Him to Shun War.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The British capital was the scene of frantic diplomatic activity today as the critical month of August drew to a close. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain returned to London; so did Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer.

All formally or informally conferred with the Germanophile, Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, who was ostentatiously summoned home from the German capital two days ago.

Tomorrow there will be a meeting of the British cabinet which, some British newspapers predicted, "will decide the fate of Europe."

May Send Personal Message.

It was suggested in diplomatic quarters that the cabinet will be asked to approve the sending of a personal message to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. This message, it was hinted, will urge the Nazi dictator to settle the dispute between Czechoslovakia and her Sudeten German minority of 3,250,000 peacefully.

Furthermore, it was intended that the note repeat the vague warning that Great Britain might not be able to stand aside in the event of war.

The French government is expected to send a similar message to Berlin. Both documents, it was indicated, will be couched in "friendly terms" in line with Chamberlain's policy of conciliation and despite the bitter attitude of the German press toward Simon's warning to Hitler last Saturday.

Game of Bluff.

Nobody actually knows what is going on, but every one wishes he did. Some persons who claim to have inside information believe that a general war may break out any day. Other experts on international affairs argue that a spectacular game of bluff is going on between the British and German governments.

One guess is as good as another. The school of bluff gained several points when it became known that in spite of warnings and frowns between London and Berlin, Henderson, the British ambassador, has accepted an invitation to attend the Nazi party congress at Nuremberg next week. In fact, it was disclosed that Henderson told British cabinet members that the situation was not discouraging.

How this jibes with what the public is led to believe is Europe's diplomatic secret.

American Envoys Meet.

Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Berlin, met Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to London in Paris tonight. Kennedy has been on the French Riviera, playing around with the duke of Windsor. Policy as it concerns the United States probably will be decided when Wilson and Kennedy meet with William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France.

The European crisis and the reactions to British policy as enunciated by Simon in his speech at Lanark, Scotland, will be reviewed by the British cabinet at its session tomorrow.

All members of the cabinet except Viscount Hailsham, lord president of the council, and Lord Stanley, secretary of state for dominion affairs, who is abroad, will attend the meeting. The ministers will have before them reports from British diplomats in Prague and Berlin and a personal statement from Halifax on the general situation.

Seek Opinions of Ministers.

One object of the meeting, political sources said, is to seek the opinions of the ministers as a whole in case sudden developments call for any action by Chamberlain, Simon or Halifax.

Apparently no further cabinet meeting is yet envisaged. Chamberlain so far has made no effort to inform Maj. Clement R. Atlee, leader of the Labor opposition in parliament, of the progress of events.

The prime minister, who is still suffering from sinus trouble, expects to go on a Scottish vacation after the cabinet winds up its session.

The government's stock-taking of European events began this morning. Ambassador Henderson visited the foreign office and reported Germany's attitude to Halifax. The cabinet's diplomatic adviser, Sir Robert Vansittart, was present.

In the afternoon Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's minister to London, called at the foreign office to discuss the latest reports from Prague in a fifteen minute session with the foreign secretary.

Later Henderson, Halifax, Simon, and Vansittart crossed over to No. 10 Downing street to confer with Chamberlain. The discussion lasted an hour and twenty minutes. The ministers conferred again this evening and Chamberlain talked with Halifax until after 8 o'clock.

FRANCE REMAINS CALM

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 29.—In the world's deepening war scare France continues to remain an oasis of calm.

In fact, those in close touch with official quarters got the impression tonight that the tension of the diplomatic crisis over Czechoslovakia had diminished slightly during the day.

A cabinet meeting this afternoon devoted considerable time to discussion of the international situation and national defense, but no echoes of these deliberations reached the public.

Minimizes War Fears.

The government still is discouraging the press from giving the impression that war is inevitable or that the German mobilization presents any immediate danger. The tone of the officially inspired press, though worried, is no more worried than it has been for months.

It is thus clear that the government is not trying to prepare public opinion for war. It is even trying to prevent the public from speculating too much on the possibility of war, though the fact is not hidden.

Experts believe that this would be a serious handicap to France if war did break out suddenly, particularly if it meant that France would have to attack Germany to fulfill her obligations to Czechoslovakia.

Two Explanations Suggested.

Two explanations of the government's attitude are suggested in informed circles. One is that France's leaders believe that Germany's mobilization is at the worst a dangerous bluff and that at least a temporary compromise over Czechoslovakia will be reached if the democratic countries remain masters of their nerves.

Another explanation is that a German attack on Czechoslovakia really is feared, but that France and England at a showdown will not be prepared to go to her defense. This theory strenuously is denied by officials. They declare that France will keep her word even if it means attacking Germany in the absence of any direct German threat to France.

It does not seem that there can be much doubt as to what France will do if there is open invasion of Czechoslovakia. If there is any doubt at all it can only be in the hypothesis of a disguised German attack, for example a Sudeten German uprising backed by the German army.

French Begin Mock War.

Officially there is no doubt even in this case and the only thing which really bothers the French is to convince the Germans there is no doubt.

The French also are confident the English will be with them from the start if they have to go to war.

The French today started army maneuvers of their own, but they obviously are not intended as a retort to the German one. The site is suggestive—the Jura mountains around Bessancon. This is the region the Germans would hit if they tried to turn the Maginot defense line by going through Switzerland.

Requisitioning of hundreds of Paris buses to carry the reserves to the maneuvers added some drama. It is hard, however, to dramatize very heavily short maneuvers involving only 30,000 men. Of course, if war should break out this week it might be very handy to have those 30,000 at that particular spot.

Maneuvers of the second Senegalese colonial division also got under way at Aups, near the Italian border.

HITLER INSPECTS FORTS ON RHINE WITH WAR CHIEFS

Nazis Still Expect Britain to Desert Czechs.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the chiefs of his army traveled along the western border of the new German empire today. They inspected new lines of fortifications along the Rhine at the French frontier. At the same time Nazi troops in southwest Germany engaged in great maneuvers.

The Fuehrer and his staf inspected defense works at Kehl this noon. Kehl is opposite Strasbourg, France. Strasbourg once belonged to Germany. Tonight Hitler and his generals sped in the direction of the Swiss border.

Recovers from Disappointment.

Meanwhile at least part of Nazi officialdom has recovered from its disappointment over the speech of Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer. Official circles received word that the purpose of the speech, which the Germans found too friendly to Czechoslovakia's cause, was to pacify British public opinion.

[In his speech, delivered at Lanark, Scotland, Saturday, Simon said Britain might have to fight if Germany started a war in central Europe. At the same time the foreign office asked "all quarters" to lessen tension in Czechoslovakia, and praised the "conciliatory attitude" of the Czechoslovak government in dealing with the Sudeten Germans.]

The Germans complained that British public opinion no longer shows sufficient faith in the reports about the alleged ill-treatment of Germans living in Czechoslovakia.

High official quarters again expressed the belief, frequently heard early last week, that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, would "adhere to their verbal understanding with Hitler's emissaries."

See Trick to Blame Hitler.

This understanding provides that Germany will sign non-aggression pacts with France and England. The accords would be a revised "Locarno treaty, provided England and France understand that Germany cannot allow its Sudeten Germans to remain under Czechoslovak rule."

However in some Nazi circles, the opinion was expressed that Simon's speech and other British moves are designed to cast all blame on Hitler, should an armed clash with Czechoslovakia develop.

That the Sudeten German territory soon will be German is not doubted in conversations of prominent Nazis. The only uncertainty in their minds is whether the incorporation will lead to war or not.

Rejects English Advice.

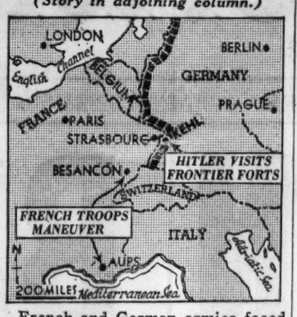
The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, mouthpiece of the German armament industry, said that final word on Czechoslovakia's new plan to settle the minorities problem is up to the Germans. It said the Germans do not need English advice.

"If the famous No. 3 proposals give the Germans their rights, then England does not need to threaten with cannon in order to bring us to a more constructive attitude toward the proposals," the paper declared. "The experience of the last few years in war outside Europe does not support the English pessimism. Are we to read the Simon speech as meaning that England does not want localization?

"No one wants a conflict, and if plan No. 3 [of the Czechoslovak government] gives Germans their rights, no English minister will need to think about such an eventuality."

Armies Face Each Other

(Story in adjoining column.)



French and German armies faced each other across the border yesterday. Nazi troops began a mock war in southwest Germany while the French started maneuvers at Besancon and Aups. Adolf Hitler inspected new forts on the Rhine at Kehl and other points. The German fortifications are indicated by the heavy broken line.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—A "racial map of the world" is prominently displayed in an exhibition of the "accomplishments of Germans living abroad." The show was opened in Stuttgart yesterday by Rudolf Hess, who is Reichsfuehrer Hitler's deputy.

The map, painted in various colors, is adorned with heads purporting to show the different races. The population of the United States is symbolized by one red Indian marked "Mongolian American race." Broad belts of brown running from Mexico to Alaska and from Florida to Maine are inscribed "Mongolian, Negroid, Australian."

Officers of the Association of Germans Living Abroad, many of whom have been attached to German consular and diplomatic offices, held secret conferences with their chief, Ernest Wilhelm Bohle. It is understood that the "setback suffered by the Nazis in South and North America" were the main topics of discussion.

POLISH REVOLT THREATENED BY PEASANT CHIEFS

Submit List of Demands to Government.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 29.—Poland was threatened with peasant uprisings and civil war today when leaders of the peasant party, headed by Matthias Rataj, former acting president of Poland, presented the government with a declaration resembling an ultimatum.

Unless Wincenty Witos, exiled peasant leader, who is living in Czechoslovakia, is given amnesty immediately and unless the present régime consents to a return to a democratic form of government by holding new elections, the leaders of the peasant party declared they would not be responsible for the peasants' actions.

The peasants, they declared, are rapidly getting out of their control and they warned the government that the situation is serious.

Cabinet Meeting Called.

President Ignace Moscicki has called a special meeting of the cabinet to discuss this latest crisis in Poland's internal affairs. Recently he conducted unsuccessful negotiations with the leaders of the peasant party and other important opposition bodies in an effort to obtain some popular support for his government.

On Aug. 15 the peasants held mass meetings to protest against the régime and to commemorate the disorders of a year ago, when police fired on similar demonstrations and killed more than fifty persons.

Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister, has been obliged to interrupt his vacation at Gdynia and is expected to return to Warsaw tomorrow. Gen. Casimir Sosnkowski, inspector of the army and an opponent of the present foreign policy, visited Beck Saturday and informed him of the growing opposition of the army toward the policy of conciliation and friendship with Germany and the provocative attitude toward Czechoslovakia.

Seek Removal of Beck.

Among their many demands the peasant party insists that the foreign policy be changed and that Beck be removed as foreign minister.

Business in the Baltic states is approaching a complete standstill as a result of the threatened war embodied in the German-Czech conflict.

Absence of any signs of unusual military activity in the vicinity of the soviet frontier are regarded as reassuring, but the fact that powerful military detachments of the Red army are stationed opposite the frontiers of Estonia, Latvia and Poland has caused the general stafs of these countries to begin autumn maneuvers earlier than usual.

CZECHS AND GERMANS FIGHT; MANY PERSONS SENT TO HOSPITALS

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 30 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Czechoslovak police said today that many persons were sent to hospitals with slight injuries after a dozen scattered clashes between Czechoslovaks and Germans last night.

The collar of Mayor Hermann of the Sudeten community of Schoenborn was torn when he tried to pacify political debaters in a tavern.

Sixty-six laborers at Eichicht took sides in a village inn and when gendarmes arrived the place was surrounded by forty Sudeten German guards. The officers parted the groups.

A Czechoslovak policeman was struck by a chair in attempting to empty a tavern at closing hour. Workers in Johnsbors sang Czechoslovak songs in the street; a German made a facetious remark and a free-for-all followed.

There was a similar clash at Altroslau and in several other communities. A political cartoon led to fisticuffs in Praha itself. A Sudeten German official was beaten when he tore down the cartoon exhibited by a Czech merchant.

BRITISH PAPERS CHEER PREMIER'S STAND ON HITLER

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The British press for the first time in many months is supporting Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain on a great issue of foreign policy. In the entire country there is not a dissenting voice.

Newspapers of all shades of political opinion agree that a German attack on Czechoslovakia might drag Great Britain into war and applaud the government for having said so. The easy optimism of a week ago has disappeared. In its place there is a more realistic awareness of the European situation than ever before.

Whatever may happen in the next few weeks, the British press has warned its readers.

GERMANY SPEEDS UP CONSTRUCTION OF MOTOR ROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—Germany is extending its highways at the rate of more than two miles a day, a government survey indicates. It was over some of these new roads that Germany's motorized army dashed into Austria last March. The annual construction costs of the new arterial highways are estimated at $280,000,000.

During the 280 working days of 1937 1,500 bridges and tunnels were constructed in addition to the roads. Concrete required for the roads totaled approximately 42,376,800 cubic feet. About 12,370,000 cubic feet of concrete went into the bridges and tunnels along with 45,000 tons of steel. Approximately 134,500,000 square feet of road were covered.

A total of 4,340,000 square miles of land were cleared and leveled, 8,730,000 square miles plowed and leveled, and 67,356,800 cubic yards of soil dug up or transplanted during last year's construction work.

ITALY EVICTS 50 FRENCH FARMERS AND SEIZES LAND

NICE, France, Aug. 29.—(AP)—French farm families evicted from their lands on the Italian side of the border plodded back into France today with as many of their possessions as they could bring.

The exodus from the Italian region east of the border village of Isola was in compliance with an Italian ultimatum to abandon the ground by today. The farmers were permitted to return to continue harvesting their crops through September. The evacuation hit fifty families who had been living inside Italian territory. The farms will be taken over by Italy for military purposes.

France Seeks Indemnity.

ROME, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Authoritative sources today indicated that the French government was seeking indemnity from Italy for French families dispossessed from farm lands on the Italian side of the frontier with France.

AXES CHOP 3 BET DIVES; LOTTERY BOSSES NAMED

City Police Raid 9 Bookies and a Policy Bank.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

As squads from the state's attorney's office smashed three more handbooks yesterday, 22 While wreckers were at work on the horse players' joints Capt. Dan Gilbert, head of State's Attorney Courtney's police detail, said that raiders will continue also to harass policy banks operating lotteries in colored districts.

City police squads raided one policy bank yesterday, at 3501 South State street, and also raided nine handbooks, four of them in the loop. The city quads do not destroy property, but take prisoners to court instead. Invariably their prisoners have been dismissed when arraigned before Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland. He freed sixty-five gambling defendants yesterday. The raids yesterday raised the total of places wrecked by the state's attorney's forces to twenty-two.

Poor Man's Lottery.

Attention was first directed to the policy game, a poor man's lottery in the colored districts of Chicago and every other large city, by State's Attorney Courtney's raids last Saturday night which smashed headquarters of three of the largest south side policy banks.

Two of these banks, at 5051 Michigan avenue and 104-8 East 51st street, were operated by Ira Kelly and his brother, Walter. The other one, at 4711 Michigan avenue, was run by the Jones brothers, George and Edward.

The Jones brothers and Kelly brothers are among the most powerful gamblers in the policy racket at present, police familiar with south side conditions say. Another leading banker is Julian Black, one of the managers of Prizefighter Joe Louis.

Controls Game from Inn.

On the west side, Jim Martin controls the policy game from his Airplane inn at 1900 Lake street. Martin is a Negro political leader, active in the 28th ward machine of Patrick A. Nash, boss of the Democratic organization.

Julius Benvenuti, who has run a saloon, brothel and gambling house at 2900 South La Salle street for a quarter of a century, was at one time known as the policy king of Chicago. At present, say those familiar with the racket, there is no policy king or central syndicate in the racket. There are seventeen banks operating more or less independently, with roughly defined spheres of influence.

Other Bankers Named.

Others among the policy bankers are Buddy Colman, who operates about 44th street and Cottage Grove avenue; Wynn McCullough, whose headquarters are near 47th street and Vincennes avenue, and Jim Knight. All the bankers except Benvenuti are colored.

The policy game, while it has made a few of the bankers wealthy, falls far short of the volume of horse betting in Chicago. It is probable, one authority said, that the annual bets on policy are no more than the $2,000,000 it has been estimated is bet every day in Chicago handbooks.

The average policy bet is a dime, and penny bets are taken by some writers. To reach an annual betting total of $2,000,000 would require about $6,500 a day in bets, which would indicate about 65,000 habitual players.

Policy Lottery Complicated.

The policy lottery is somewhat more complicated than the numbers game which Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey has publicized in his prosecution of the Hines case in New York. Policy players usually bet sums from a few cents to a quarter on combinations of three numbers from 1 to 78.

The slip writers turn in their records at the policy bank for a drawing two or three times a day. In the drawing numbered balls or capsules, 78 in number, are placed in a revolving drum and twelve numbers withdrawn. To collect his bet the three numbers picked by the policy player must be drawn among these twelve.

Mathematicians have figured that the chance of any three numbers appearing in an honest draw is 346 to 1. The player gets odds of 180 to 1 if his numbers are drawn, so the bank, on the average, pays out only 52 per cent of the money it takes in.

In Chicago banks there are usually two series of twelve numbers taken from the drum at each drawing. This gives the player a double chance of winning, but his odds are cut a half, to 90 to 1. The bank pays 100 to 1, but the writer who sold the lucky ticket keeps a tenth of the winnings.

The policy game has an involved lore all its own, based on the interpretation of dreams which players believe will guide them to lucky gigs, or combinations of numbers.

The third ax foray into the loop by State's Attorney Courtney's squads since his destruction policy was adopted two weeks ago took Lieut. Tom Kelly and his squad to a cigar store at 67 West Monroe street yesterday.

Sidney Brownstein, 4407 North Sacramento avenue, who said he was the owner, and one employé were arrested. At the state's attorney's office it was said that the real owners of the handbook were Sam Rothschild and Louis Fishman.

Two in 19th Ward.

The other two ax raids made yesterday in the 19th ward, where Thomas D. Nash, former county treasurer, is Democratic committeeman. Lieut. Charles Egan and a squad had to chop down three doors to gain entrance to a basement dive at 9447 South Ashland avenue. From a rear entrance they made their way downstairs and through a boiler room and broke down two more doors to find the book. On its wall a sign warned, "No Boistrous Howling."

Sergt. Ernest Sloey and a squad made the other raid on the Town Hall club, 8849 South Loomis street. Two prisoners were taken in each place and sent to the state's attorney's office for questioning.

One hundred and four pretty and shapely girls—blondes, brunettes, and red heads—met in the Hotel La Salle last night and formed a new organization. It's called the Mannequins' Association of Chicago. The girls are models.

They elected the following officers: Miss Jerry Wickert, president; Miss Luella Hughes and Miss Mary Lou Tomlinson, first and second vice presidents, respectively; Miss Angela Curran, treasurer, and Miss Dorothy Stevens, secretary.

MEAN THIEF ROBS GRANDMA; FATHER AIDS IN CAPTURE

$200 for Funeral Spent on Joy Rides.

Walter Grisa is 23 years old. For seven of those years he has been a criminal. The law has been lenient with him. But now he has overreached himself and even his closest relatives demand that he be punished.

Walter Grisa.

Last week Grisa broke into his father's home at 6847 South Ada street. He stole $200. The money belonged to his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Grisa, 87 years old. She had put it away in a tin box for her funeral expenses.

Suspects Own Son.

Gus Grisa, the young criminal's father, reported the burglary to Englewood police. He said that Walter is incorrigible and that he ordered him from the house a month ago. He added that he suspected his son as the thief.

Policemen Elmer Smith and Lawrence Smalley found young Grisa in a rented automobile last Friday. They locked him up. After long questioning he admitted taking his grandmother's money.

"But it won't do you any good to try to find the money," he said. "I spent $150 riding in automobiles and the rest on a good time. What's the difference? Grandma will have a funeral just the same.'"

Grisa was first arrested in Gleason, Wis., in 1931. Charged with larceny, he was placed on probation. Two years later authorities at Green Bay, Wis., charged him with burglary and he was sentenced to one to two years in the state reform school.

Frequently in Trouble.

In August, 1935, Grisa was indicted by the Du Page county grand jury on three charges of assault. He had shot and wounded a Chicago policeman, Ernest Hill, in an attempted robbery. Convicted on one count, he was sentenced to a year on the prison farm at Vandalia. In February, 1937, a charge of robbery against him in Chicago was changed to petty larceny. He was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell.

Grandmother Grisa didn't know last night that her hoard had been spent for auto rides. She is visiting in Gleason. Gus Grisa signed a complaint charging his son with burglary.

Boy Drowned Taking Bath in Slip, Inquest Is Told

Because there was no bath tub in their home at 1749 Cullerton street, Eugene Kordzinski and his two brothers went to the slip behind 2550 South Ashland avenue to bathe, a coroner's jury was told yesterday. Eugene, who was 12 years old, was drowned there last Thursday.

JAIL BOYS, 12 AND 13, FOR TIEING KIDNAPED PLAYMATES TO TREES

Two Aurora boys played a kidnaping prank on two smaller playmates yesterday, but it seemed so real that the police did something about it.

The victims of the joke were Dick Ewen, 10 years old, and Jack Gibson, 11. The jokesters took them to a gravel pit on the handlebars of their bicycles, tied them to trees, and then threatened to burn them alive.

After the older boys left Dick freed himself. He ran home without untying Jack. Police were notified. Later they liberated the other victim. A squad soon picked up George Ensminger Jr., 13, and Delbert Winn, 12, the makebelieve kidnapers. They explained it was only a joke. But police held them in jail in lieu of $500 bond each on the technical charge of disorderly conduct.

BLAST FOLLOWS HORTHY'S RETURN FROM GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Aug. 29.—An explosion which officials said had no political significance rocked downtown Budapest today, 40 minutes after Admiral Nicholas Horthy, regent of Hungary, returned from a state visit to Germany.

Officials denied the blast, which threw up a cloud of smoke, was a demonstration against Horthy. The regent had returned on the Danube river steamer Sofia which was escorted by a flotilla of torpedo boats.

Police investigating the explosion suggested it might have been caused by fireworks left over from the St. Stephen's day celebration.

SMUGGLES $25,000 OUT OF GERMANY IN BALE OF HOPS

HARWICH, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—How a German refugee smuggled $25,000 out of Germany in the middle of a bale of hops was told today by customs officials here.

The anxious consignee met a German hops shipment personally, they said. He claimed the money hidden in tubes inside one of the bales and headed for Kenya colony in East Africa.

The refugees said the money was his entire fortune and that currency exportation restrictions prevented him from bringing it out of Germany.

Found Wandering in Daze; Can't Remember His Name

A middle aged man, neatly dressed, was found wandering in an alley at 1117 East Fifty-fifth street yesterday by Hyde Park police. He could not recall his name. He was taken to the County hospital. He appeared to be about 50 years old. The mark "P. A." was on his linen.

HEAD OF LIQUOR BOARD EXPLAINS MINIATURES BAN

Used by Motorists and Minors, He Says.

Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, chairman of the Illinois state liquor control commission, explained yesterday why the commission has banned sale of miniature liquor bottles after Jan. 1. The order was originally effective Sept. 1, but was extended at the last minute.

"By making miniature liquor bottles illegal, we hope to reduce the amount of drinking done by minors and motorists," said Smith.

Found in College Towns.

"Our investigation shows that the miniature bottles are too easy for minors to buy. Taverns are trying to prevent persons under age from drinking on their premises. But it is relatively easy for young folk to pick up these miniature bottles elsewhere. As a result, many youngsters are getting drunk. I investigated some college towns and found that the sale of miniatures was mostly to blame for intoxication."

Smith also said that miniatures have become popular with motorists who drink while driving. The two ounce bottle can be emptied at one drink, then thrown away. In case of accident, no telltale bottle is found. Investigators have found that 70 per cent of empties on the roadside are miniatures, he said.

Collected as Hobby.

Thousands of Chicagoans have made a hobby of collecting the miniatures. Some predicted that once the ban is in effect, miniatures will rise in value as collectors' items.

Smith said that the liquor industry has welcomed the outlawing of miniatures. Asked why the ban was extended from Sept. 1 to Jan. 1, he explained that dealers still have heavy stocks, and stood to lose considerable money through an immediate ban.

CORONER MAKES GAMBLING RAIDS; SUED FOR $25,000

Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Dr. W. W. Billings, Alton, coroner of Madison county, was sued for $25,000 damages in the Madison county Circuit court today by James Todaro proprietor of Domino tavern as a result of the coroner's gambling raid on Todaro's place a week ago. Todaro's attorney Manuel Wiseman of Alton attacked the legality of the search warant carried by Billings.

Dr. Billings was sued by two others for a total of $25,00 because of other raids.

New Deal Gets Slap in South Carolina.

spoken political enemies of the President.

Gov. Johnston, he said, "swung onto the administration" only when it appeared to be politically expedient. That was pretty close to Senator Smith's charge that Johnston came to Washington to announce his candidacy so he could "grab himself a piece of the President's coat-tail."

Brown, however, said he would not attempt to "dictate" to the people of South Carolina on how they should vote.

Early this month the President first interfered in the South Carolina primary after his "march through Georgia" to slap down Senator George. At that time he said he did not believe a family in South Carolina could live on 50 cents a day, alluding sardonically to a senate speech by Senator Smith.

"Cotton Ed," however, made political capital of this incident. He was able to show by the congressional record that the President had been "misinformed." He had not advocated 50 cents a day for workers, but had pointed out that the blessings of South Carolina's climate and other advantages made 50 cents go as far as a dollar would in New England.

Prestige at Stake in West.

The President's purge is not involved in California's primary tomorrow, but his political prestige is staked on William G. McAdoo, now 75 years old, a yes-man who is seeking renomination for the senate against a field of three.

When the President toured California before setting off on his fishing expedition last month, McAdoo and his young wife attached themselves to his coat tails and held on fast. The President lavished his blessings on the aging McAdoo, whose famous sellout of the California and Texas delegations made possible his nomination at Chicago in 1932.

McAdoo, who has been just as loyal to the Roosevelt administration as he was to the Wilson administration, when he was secretary of the treasury, is opposed by Sheridan Downey, a Townsendite; John W. Preston, a former state Supreme court justice, and James W. Mellen, an avowed anti-New Dealer who calls the President a dictator.

While Mellen is the only outright anti-Roosevelt man in the race, Mr. Preston has denounced McAdoo as a "rubber stamp" and a "ward politician."

$30 a Week Is Main Issue.

Downey, the Townsendite, who advocates $30 every Thursday for all persons in California over 50 years of age, who are neither employé nor employer, appears to be McAdoo's most formidable rival. His campaign manager is Pierson Hall, former United States attorney in Los Angeles and former law partner of McAdoo.

Downey has accused McAdoo of being a Ku Klux Klansman, exhibiting a purported photostatic copy of an imperial "passport" issued to him by Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the klan. McAdoo denied that he ever belonged to the klan and sought to squelch the issue, but Downey raised it again today. He presented an affidavit which said that back in 1932 McAdoo admitted being a member of the klan and invited klan support.

McAdoo was the favorite of the klan in 1924, when he and Alfred E. Smith deadlocked the Madison Square convention for 102 ballots.

Fight on Tydings Renewed.

President Roosevelt will return from Hyde Park tomorrow and take personal command of his campaign to drive Senator Tydings out of the Democratic party and out of public office.

One of his first callers will be Representative T. Alan Goldsborough, a yes-man from the Maryland eastern shore, a Tydings stronghold. The purge committee is counting upon Goldsborough to crack the shore for Representative David J. Lewis, the hand picked 100 per center who is opposing Tydings.

Mr. Roosevelt will invade Maryland next Sunday, inspecting the site of a proposed $30,000,000 PWA bridge across the lower Potomac. On Monday, Labor day, he will speak in Lewis' behalf at Denton, Goldsborough's home town on the eastern shore. The President will do his best to mollify some of the Maryland farmers on the eastern shore, whose opposition to Candidate Lewis springs from their hostility to the C. I. O.

"Morality" Issue a Boomerang.

The issue of "political morality," raised by Mr. Roosevelt in his statement denouncing Republicans for entering Democratic primaries to vote against his yes-men, is expected to be hurled back at him when he goes into southern Maryland to dangle the $30,000,000 bridge before the voters.

Representative Lewis has been saying he would do everything in his power, if elected to the senate, to get that bridge, and when the President inspects the site, at Lewis' instance, the inference will be clear that funds for the bridge depend upon votes for Lewis.

Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate committee on campaign expenditures and the use of public funds to influence voters, expressed the opinion today that Mr. Roosevelt's proposed inspection of the bridge site could not be "tortured" into a promise of funds for votes.

"The committee virtually has held," he declared, "that the President, being a policy making and policy promoting officer, is within his rights in addressing the voters on policies and candidacies."

Will Investigate Coercion.

Senator Sheppard, however, said his committee will investigate the circumstances of an announcement by J. Hampton Magruder, collector of internal revenue for the Maryland district, that he would vote for Lewis. Magruder and Gilbert A. Dailey, collector of customs at Baltimore, both Tydings appointees, leaped on the Lewis bandwagon last Friday, the day after Postmaster General James A. Farley conferred with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park on the Maryland purge situation.

Magruder called in the noncivil service employés of the internal revenue office to tell them that they could vote as they pleased, but that he would vote for Representative Lewis. In political circles that was deemed to be a sufficient hint to all members of Magruder's organization.

Senator Sheppard said he did not know whether the law against coercing federal employés applied to noncivil service workers, but that he would make an investigation.

Morgenthau Stands by Guns.

Senator Sheppard also held that employés of the internal revenue bureau in California violated the law by making contributions to Senator McAdoo's campaign. He said there was no evidence, however, to support charges that federal employés had been shaken down.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, he said, erred in 1934 when he issued a ruling saying that treasury employés could make voluntary contributions when there was no coercion.

Today Mr. Morgenthau, at his first press conference since his return from a vacation in France, reiterated his previously expressed view that there is no law against voluntary contributions by treasury employés to political funds, if the donations are not made to a person in the service of the United States. Morgenthau said that if there is any offense it is on the part of the solicitor and not the contributor.

C. I. O. Issue Is Clear Cut.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Senator Millard E. Tydings today expressed the hope that President Roosevelt "speaks out for the C. I. O." in his Labor day address at Denton, on Maryland's eastern shore. The Senator has condemned what he termed presidential invasion of Maryland politics.

The eastern shore is regarded generally as territory hostile to the C. I. O. Tydings' New Deal opponent, Representative David J. Lewis, has the indorsement of the C. I. O.

DEMOCRATS FIND ENTHUSIASM OF G. O. P. A WORRY

Van Nuys' Independence Also Irksome.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Two events of the week-end have caused wrinkles of worry upon the brows of the leaders of the Mc Nutt-Minton-McHale Indiana Democratic machine. They were:

1. The tremendous turnout of Republicans at the rally on Homer E. Capehart's farm near Washington Saturday. The size of the crowd and the enthusiasm are reported to have caused concern in the state house.

2. The independence of Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Democratic nominee for reëlection, expressed at the editorial association dinner in French Lick Saturday night. Although welcomed back into the state house fold by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, Van Nuys coldly proclaimed his independence, and said he had made no deals with Townsend.

Blow to McNutt's Hopes.

The governor, Senator Sherman Minton, and Frank McHale, Democratic national committeeman, are said to fear that Van Nuys' obstinacy in refusing to kow-tow to the machine which forsook him a year ago, then took him back in June, will affect the presidential aspirations of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Van Nuys' friends believe that if McNutt cannot take a united Indiana delegation to the national convention in 1940 his chances for obtaining the nomination will be slim.

Another story repeated in the wake of the dinner at French Lick, where Van Nuys proclaimed his intention to vote against the Supreme court packing bill if it is reintroduced by President Roosevelt, concerns his income tax threats.

Tax Returns Silence Foes.

Not long before the olive branch was handed to Van Nuys by Townsend, Van Nuys announced that one Indiana Democratic leader had made $140,000 in 1937. He waved an income tax return and promised to make further revelations. While the senator did not identify the leader, the story is that he also had the tax returns of others. Shortly afterward came the offer of renomination with no strings attached.

The Republican campaign, meanwhile, was off to a good start with the rally at Capehart.

Some of the talk at Capehart concerned a candidate against Senator Minton in 1940.

4 HITCH-HIKERS GO BANDIT; GET LIFT—TO JAIL

Four young hitch-hikers with tired thumbs got together in Minneapolis last Saturday. They voted for more dependable means of transportation. Then they held up Fred F. Johns, a salesman, and took his car and 60 cents.

Yesterday, as they rolled into Arlington Heights, Policemen Andrew Donnelley and Elmer Marstens halted them. It was just a hunch on their part. They felt the four young men looked more like tramps than motorists. When they found a pistol in the car's dash compartment they locked the travelers up. Later the four confessed.

They are Richard Ringwelski and Woodrow Beveridge, each 20 years old, farm boys from Little Falls, Minn.; James Sanderson, 24 years old, of Randolph, Wis., and Nelson Wolf, 26 years old, of Cleveland, O. Minneapolis police said they would give them all a ride back.

North Chicago City Council Refuses Ban on Tear Gas

On Aug. 8 a delegation of C. I. O. union men, headed by Organizer Oakley Mills, asked the North Chicago city council to pass an ordinance prohibiting the use of tear gas by city police in industrial strife. The question was referred to City Attorney Harold J. Tallett. Last night Tallet reported that the city had no authority to regulate the conduct of policemen acting as deputy sheriffs. In the Fansteel and Chicago Hardware Foundry company strikes tear gas was used by order of the Lake county sherif, Lawrence A. Doolittle. The council refused to take any action.

RENOUNCE G. O. P. COMMITTEEMEN IN TWO WARDS

Two members of the Cook county Republican central committee, Paul W. Rothenberg of the 24th ward and Eden T. Brekke of the 36th, were severely disciplined yesterday by the organization.

Public announcement was made over the signatures of Edward F. Moore, chairman of the county committee, Henry A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign committee, and Robert C. Rohn, secretary of both committees, that the two ward committeemen will not be recognized during the fall campaign. In Rothenberg's ward the organization will transact all business through William Steinberg and Manuel Kolkey. In Brekke's ward official recognition will go to Titus L. Thelin and Earl W. Solem.

The announcement implied that the same procedure will be followed in other wards if regular ward committeemen do not function as the organization desires.

Taps Baby's Bank for 40 Cents; He's Fined $25

Forty pennies jingled in the pocket of Edward Slopa, 2252 West 18th place, when he was arrested Sunday with three companions for passing a stop light in Berwyn. Police testified yesterday that Slopa said he took them from the baby's bank. This angered Police Magistrate Frank J. Pavek, who fined Slopa $25 for disorderly conduct. Stanley Wolega, 1732 West 18th place, driver of the car, was fined $125 for reckless driving, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct.

DRIVER IS SEIZED AFTER DEATH OF OAK PARK BOY, 8

Traced by Description of His Automobile.

Searching for the hit and run driver whose car killed a boy in Oak Park last Saturday, Oak Park police took Jesse C. Bader of 3349 Madison street, Chicago, into custody for questioning yesterday. They said they found him in bed after Mrs. Emma Hotchkiss, in whose apartment he is a lodger, had told them he was in St. Louis.

Bader, who is 63 years old, was seized by Policeman Roy Coppers. Coppers and Policeman Loyal Wilcox learned by searching dealers' records. that Bader had recently bought a car answering the description of the one they were seeking. Coppers said the front of Bader's car was dented and there were blood stains upon it, but that Bader denied responsibility. The boy victim was Richard Flemming, 8 years old, struck down in front of his home at 316 Washington boulevard, Oak Park.

Dodges Cyclist; Killed.

Walter Schustak, 26 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when his car plunged off the road and fell 20 feet into a stone quarry on State highway 4A near Lemont. He had swerved to avoid striking a cyclist. Schustak died in St. Joseph's hospital at Joliet. He was believed to have lived at Sacramento and Washington boulevards.

Harold Farrand, 6 years old, of New Lisbon, Wis., died early today in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, of a fractured skull suffered yesterday when he was struck by an automobile in front of 1616 Main street, Melrose Park, where he was spending his vacation at the home of his uncle, John Koch. Gottlieb Lehning, 216 South 27th avenue, Bellwood, driver of the car, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and released on bonds of $1,000. He will be rearrested.

Chester Wegrzyn, 2 years old, was crushed to death by a coal truck yesterday in front of his home at 1501 Kristan avenue, North Chicago. The driver was Frank Zorc, 40 years old, of 1303 Park avenue, North Chicago.

Pedestrian's Injuries Fatal.

John Schmidt, 53 years old, 4420 Shields avenue, died early today in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries suffered Sunday night when he was struck by an automobile at Vincennes avenue and 104th street. The driver, Fred Landgraff, 51, of 2757 John street, Blue Island, was charged with reckless driving.

Joseph Higgenbottom, 35 years old, colored, died in the County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred when he was struck by an automobile at 35th street and Vernon avenue Sunday. He lived at 3554 Rhodes avenue. The car was driven by Miss Velma Thomas, 23 years old, colored, of 4841 Michigan avenue.

Mrs. L. T. Hoy, 84 years old, of Woodstock, was in a critical condition at a Woodstock hospital yesterday after an automobile collision.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 527 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 403 were killed in Chicago, where 12,640 were injured in the same period.

RFC AIDS SCRIP PLAN FOR ENDING N. SHORE STRIKE

The Reconstruction Finance corporation yesterday approved a proposed plan for paying striking employés of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad 15 per cent of their wages in receiver's certificates. The line suspended operation Aug. 16 after the employés struck to protest a 15 per cent wage cut.

It was necessary to gain approval of the RFC because the federal agency lent the railroad $2,000,000. Attorney James A. Sprowl notified Harry E. Scheck, federal conciliator, and Martin P. Durkin, state labor director, that the RFC would waive its prior lien in favor of a possible strike settlement.

The conciliators now are attempting to promote a ten month truce embodying the use of scrip for 15 per cent of the employés' salary. Scheck said that union leaders have approved the scrip plan, but are still in disagreement over other phases of the truce.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Capt. Randal A. Plunkett, the only son of Lord Dunsany, the poet and dramatist, was married to Mrs. Vera Bryce, formerly Miss Vera de la Sottomaier, a Brazilian heiress, at Caxton hall register office. Capt. Plunkett, who is 31 years old, was in the Guides cavalry, Indian army. His bride is 27. The bride arrived forty minutes late for the ceremony, and it was then discovered that she had forgotten her marriage papers. The wedding took place eventually, an hour and a half late.

VICTORY IN PURGE MEANS DICTATOR, HOFFMAN WARNS

President's Aim Compared with Events Abroad.

Victory for the Roosevelt purge program in the Nov. 8 elections would mark the actual attainment to dictatorship, Congressman Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.] said yesterday. He spoke over the Mutual network from the studios of W-G-N.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman.

"Compare what the President has done and is doing in this country with the steps which led to civil strife and to dictatorship in the countries of the old world," he said. "We find a shocking similarity which will convince every thinking person that unless the President's demands be denied at the coming elections we not only are on the road to but have arrived at a dictatorship.

Detects Iron Fist.

"The signboards along the road are easily read. The pattern is plain. The picture is clear. Back of the promises made but never to be kept, the pleasing words, the charming smile and personality, there stands revealed, if we look closely, the iron fist of one who would rule or ruin.

"Asking the help of that divine power which for more than one hundred and fifty years has guided the destiny of our nation, we must dedicate ourselves wholeheartedly and without reserve to the defeat of this attempt to destroy the nation."

Congressman Hoffman's hostility to the federal administration first attracted national attention after he objected to the conduct of the national labor relations board. He has repeatedly challenged the board to prosecute him. He cited the NLRB yesterday as only one of the evidences of the approach of dictatorship.

"It is not enough that men yield him [the President] obedience," he continued. "They must acclaim him as the All-Wise, as the only possessor of an interest in the welfare of the people as a whole.

Pictures Supremacy.

"No other man must be in the public eye. The people must hear no other man's voice. He, and he alone, must rule.

"He said there were no master minds, no supermen, in Washington nor on the political horizon. He has forgotten that his statement is true. He assumes that he is the one and possesses the other.

"Is it true that he alone is right, that all others are wrong? Or is he so drunk with political power that, like the drunken man, he thinks he alone is sober?"

PARKS IN MIDDLE OF STREET; JAILED AS TIPSY DRIVER

Clifford J. Anderson, 1848 North Sawyer avenue, puzzled police by parking in the middle of the street. But they understood after questioning him, they told Judge John V. McCormick in Safety court yesterday. Anderson had been drinking, they said. The judge sentenced Anderson to 10 days in jail for drunken driving.

Mrs. Marion Trice, colored, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for drunken driving and 10 days for reckless driving. She lives at 3145 Giles avenue.

Rep. Martin Predicts Heavy G. O. P. Gains in Fall Election

The Republican party will elect seventy more congressmen, seven more senators, and six more governors in the fall, Representative Joseph W. Martin [R., Mass.] predicted here yesterday.

Representative Joseph W. Martin.

"Roosevelt's purge of the Democratic party, the third term talk surrounding him, his attempt to reorganize the administration, and the attempt to pack the Supreme court have aroused people to the fear that we are traveling toward a one man government," said Martin. "Public sentiment is turning against a rubber stamp congress."

Martin came to Chicago from the Republican cornfield rally at Washington, Ind. He left last night to attend a meeting in Peoria today of the 27 Illinois Republican candidates for congress. The meeting will precede the state Republican convention beginning tomorrow.

Martin, who is chairman of the national Republican congressional committee, made his prediction after a tour of 16 states. Expected gains, he said, will give the party a total of 159 representatives and about 21 senators.

As an indication of the trend from Roosevelt, he pointed out that from 42 to 45 per cent of Democratic voters have opposed candidates sponsored by Roosevelt in the national primaries already held.

Republican opportunities will be increased, he said, if many of these Democratic dissenters swing to the Republican candidates.

GERMAN CONSUL ASKS BAN ON JEWS IN MANILA CLUB

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Informed persons said today the war department had received a report from High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt in the Philippines concerning a conference between McNutt and the German consul at Manila.

They said the German consul's interview with the high commissioner concerned the membership of certain persons of Jewish extraction in the German-American club of Manila. It was understood the consul sought their removal from the club on grounds they were non-Aryan.

State and war department officials declined to comment on McNutt's report. The informants said the matter had been referred back to the high commissioner for local settlement.

POLICEMAN HERO DIES; SHOT BY 4 TAVERN BANDITS

Wounds Fatal to Patrick E. O'Malley, 31.

Policeman Patrick E. O'Malley of the Damen avenue station died early today in the North Chicago Community hospital of bullet wounds received early the morning of Aug. 21 in a gun battle with four Negro bandits in Neely's cocktail lounge at 2405 North Clark street.

Word of his death reached all stations a few minutes later and saddened many of his associates. He was considered a hero for his single handed battle against odds. He killed one of the robbers. A second was wounded and is in custody. O'Malley was 31 years old. He lived at 418 Arlington place.

Parents with Him at End.

"O'Malley was the type of brave young policeman that the city needs," said Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station, in whose district the shooting occured.

With O'Malley at the end were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Malley, and several brothers and sisters, among them Policeman William O'Malley.

The shooting which cost O'Malley's life occurred on a Sunday morning. He was in Neely's cocktail lounge with the owner, William Neely, and the latter's wife. The place was closed and the Neelys were counting their receipts. Without warning the four colored robbers stole in through a rear entrance. A fifth bandit waited in a car outside.

With drawn guns, they shouted, "This is a stickup." O'Malley, who was off duty and in civilian clothes, did not hesitate. He leaped to one side to draw gunfire away from Mrs. Neely, drew his own gun and fired. He killed Trussie Townsend and wounded George Hamar, then fell himself under the impact of four bullets that tore through his chest, stomach, shoulder, and hand.

The two uninjured bandits and Hamar escaped, with the third man waiting outside. Hamar was captured later in a physician's office and is now in the Bridewell hospital. He has confessed and named his three confederates. They are being sought.

MRS. MARGIE LAURY.

Mrs. Margie Laury, who was revived Sunday after going down in Slocum lake, was resting at her home at 2238 Lincoln avenue yesterday. Mrs. Laury, who is 33 years old, was picnicking with her two small sons in Wiech park when she disappeared in six feet of water. She was found ten minutes later and revived after firemen and Dr. J. A. Ross of Wauconda had worked over her for an hour. Dr. Ross injected stimulants when she failed to respond to artificial respiration.

ARABS ATTACK JEWISH VILLAGE; LEAVE 2 DEAD

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29.—The Jewish settlement of Ein Shamer was attacked by a gang of Arabs while the settlers were listening to a radio program last night. The raiders fired shots through a window, killing one person. Two others were wounded, one of whom later died.

An Arab constable was fired on while leaving a café in the Arab town of Ramleh. He was wounded in the shoulder and returned the fire but failed to hit his assailant. Two other Arabs in the café then shot at the policeman but missed, wounding instead three other occupants of the café. An Arab was found dead today on the scene of yesterday's attack on the Jewish quarries near Jerusalem. One Arab was killed by a military policeman this morning near Beit Iba.

A band of Arabs held up an Arab passenger bus coming from Tiberias to Jerusalem. They stole four mail bags being delivered from an Imperial Airways plane from Europe which had landed on Lake Galilee.

JOHN ROOSEVELT, SON OF PRESIDENT, IS ON JOB IN STOCK ROOM

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, made certain he would not be late today when he went to work in the basement of a department store.

He arrived at the employés' entrance of the store an hour early, having slipped quietly out of his apartment so he wouldn't awaken his bride of two months. After punching the time clock for the first time in his life, John was sent to the basement immediately. His pay will be $18.50 a week. His exact job hasn't been determined. He was assigned to the stock room to become familiar with merchandising lists. Advertising is his chief interest. He said: "Gosh, I hope they don't send me around with a truck filling up women's garment counters."

400 FAMILIES HOMELESS; NINE DEAD IN STORM

MONTERREY, Mexico, Aug. 29.—(AP)—José C. Plowell, city editor of El Porvenir, said tonight that nine were known dead and 400 families homeless after gales and floodwaters swept this area today.

"Apparently there were many tourists caught in the storm on the road to Mexico City," Plowell said. "It is believed the storm which struck here was mild compared with the havoc wrought at Ciudad Victoria."

No Americans were among the nine known dead, but it was reported that the automobiles of several Americans were swept away by high waters of the Santa Catarina river.

An American community, the Independence colony, one of the highest spots in Monterrey, was isolated. One man swam a raging torrent and reported there were several dead there and many buildings were wrecked.

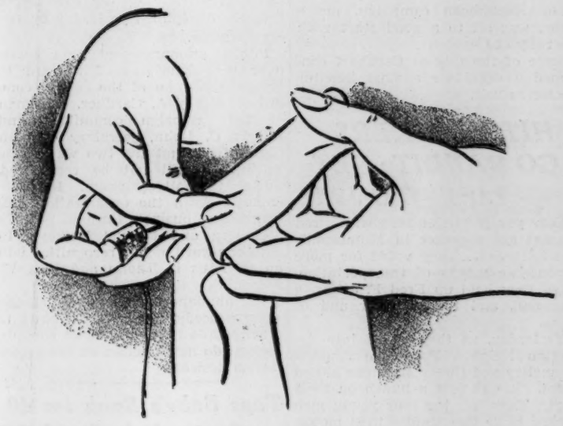
Why is a THIMBLE?



A THIMBLE is a practical convenience for making the job of sewing quick, easy and painless. Tribune rental columns are likewise a practical convenience to the job of finding an apartment.

You can shorten your search for your next apartment by using these columns as a convenient guide to find the apartment you want. Through Tribune want ads, rental agents and apartment owners bring you descriptions of their most attractive offerings.

Apartments are listed in the Tribune want ad section by location in city or suburb and by number of rooms. You will not have to read many offers before finding several outstanding apartment values in the neighborhood and size you prefer.

The larger the number of apartments to choose from, the greater your opportunity to select the one that suits you best. The Tribune prints more apartments to rent want advertising than all other Chicago newspapers combined.

To find the apartment you desire, take full advantage of Chicago's most convenient apartment directory—the Chicago Tribune want ad section.

Rental Agents! Apartment Owners!

Low-cost Tribune want ads can help you rent your apartments. Every day of the week far more families in Chicago and suburbs read the Tribune than read any other Chicago newspaper.

If your name is in the phone book, you can charge your Tribune want ad. Phone Superior 0100 — Want Ad-Viser — or ask to have a Tribune representative call upon you.

• Before starting your apartment hunt, spend a few minutes making up a list of the rental offers in the Tribune which interest you most.

This will save you time and energy because you can restrict your search to those apartments which you know in advance have the best chance of suiting you.

Tribune Rental Want Ads Have This Added Convenience

TRIBUNE rental want ads are listed by location in city or suburb and by number of rooms. Thus, if you know that you want to live on the South side, for instance, and that you require a minimum of four rooms, you turn immediately to the columns headed "To Rent—Apartments—South" and then consult the offerings under the subheading "Four, Five, Six Rooms and Larger." All you have to do is to make up a list of the offerings which appeal most to you and then inspect them at your leisure.

TORONTO ROUTE SOUGHT BY U. S. AIR LINE FIRM

Objection Is Raised by Canadian Officials.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—A bid for an international trade route was made today when an American Air Lines flagship landed at Malton airport to complete the first trip by any commercial airplane between Chicago and Toronto.

The appearance of the American plane on the Canadian flying field brings into the open a quiet but hotly contested battle between American airlines and Trans-Canada Air Lines, the government subsidized company that is starting operation across the dominion.

While the occasion has been made one for celebration in Toronto and C. R. Smith, president of American airlines, was greeted warmly by Toronto officials, the visit definitly does not meet with the approval of all.

Opposed by Air Officials.

C. D. Howe, minister of transport for the dominion, frowned upon the plans for American Air Lines appearance here. E. L. Cousins, Toronto harbor commission general manager, and Douglas C. Joy, district inspector of civil aviation, advised against it.

All three men said that Malton field is uncompleted and that the landing of the 12½ ton Douglas ship there might be dangerous. They said the field has not been dedicated and that no Trans-Canada ship or any other airplane had been in there.

In the face of this opposition American airlines sent several technical men here to inspect the field, upon the invitation of Toronto officials. These men said that the flight could be made with safety, as it was, and the program was arranged.

The flight actually was started months ago. Trans-Canada Air Lines announced that it would include Toronto in its cross-Canada air routes. The city then was asked to prepare adequate air bases.

City Pays Half of Costs.

Half the costs of the airports was to be borne by the city. The other half would be split equally between the dominion and the provincial government. Tnen Toronto decided to build a lake front airport on an island five minutes from its business district and a second airport fourteen mile inland and away from the area sometimes affected by fogs. Tney are to cost more tnan 2 million dollars.

Meanwhile, last July, Minister Howe began talking about how Trans-Canada Air lines must have exclusive rights to operate off the Toronto fields. Instantly Toronto residents began to protest. Howe then denied any definite ruling had been made. Mayor Ralph C. Day of Toronto protested that limiting the city's fields to one line would restrict the value of the city's investment. He said such a ruling would give Trans-Canada a monopoly.

Expect U. S. Planes to Be Banned.

Mayor Day encouraged American airlines to make application for the right to enter Canada at Windsor and Toronto to give a direct service from Chicago and the center of the United States.

The Canadian government has made no reply to this request. It is understood generally that unless pressure from Toronto prevents it, American Airlines' application will be turned down.

Howe has said enough American air transport companies are operating in Canada. He mentioned Canadian Colonial line, American owned, operating between Montreal and New York and the line operated by Northwest Air lines from Fargo, N. D., to Winnipeg.

The flight by American Airlines today is designed to stir up Toronto citizens to a sense of the imminence of regular service if they are willing to have an American line come here. If they wait for Trans-Canada to begin flying they may no have regular transportation to the United States for 18 months.

TRIO RECOVERING FROM INJURIES IN PLANE CRASH

Three persons, who were injured Sunday when an airplane crashed in a vacant lot near 65th place and Springfield avenue, were recovering yesterday in the Holy Cross hospital. They are Raymond Chevedden, 9236 South Park avenue, the pilot; Joseph Kolin, 1614 South Loomis street, a Municipal court bailif, and Bert Kuchis, 3939 65th place, passengers. Kuchis said yesterday he had dropped a piece of paper when the plane circled over his home just before the accident. He denied that he had intended to drop his hat as was reported earlier.

FLIES FROM N. Y. TO CALIFORNIA IN 10 HOUR RECORD

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A new east to west transcontinental speed record was set today by Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky, airplane manufacturer. He flew here from New York in 10 hours and 3 minutes. Roscoe Turner had held the record of 11 hours and 30 minutes.

Maj. Seversky stopped to refuel at Kansas City, Mo. He had left New York with 500 gallons of gasoline in his silver colored, low wing monoplane. At Kansas City he took on 350 more gallons.

Loses Twenty Minutes.

He lost twenty minutes more than he expected at the Kansas City airport. He had planned to refuel in ten minutes but his complicated series of tanks required thirty minutes of work.

Maj. Seversky, who builds war planes for the United States army, made the flight to deliver the convoy fighter plane to Jacqueline Cochran, holder of the world's three kilometer speed record for women. She will fly it from Los Angeles to Cleveland next Saturday in the Bendix race, which opens the annual national air races.

The airplane manufacturer had said before he took off from New York that his flight was in no way an attempt to set a record.

Fights Headwinds.

"But," he added, "I hope to arrive in Los Angeles under ten hours in spite of a prospect of unfavorable winds."

When he stopped at Kansas City he said he had fought headwinds all the way there. The first leg of his trip was made at an altitude of 14,000 feet. He covered the approximately 1,150 miles of that leg at more than 250 miles an hour.

The plane Maj. Seversky flew is equipped with a 1,200 horsepower motor. It bears the identification number NX 1384.

Howard Hughes holds the record for a west to east flight across the country. His time was 7 hours and 29 minutes. The west-east route offers better flying conditions.

Army Places Orders for Delicate Plane Instruments

Washington, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Orders for more than half a million dollars worth of delicate instruments for use in flying and navigating military airplanes were placed by the war department today. The Sperry Gyroscope company of New York City was awarded a contract for $376,600, and the Kollsman Instrument company of Elmhurst, N. Y., was given an order worth $135,850.

FATHER OF SLAIN BOY FILES DRAM SUIT FOR $50,000

Walter Gawel of 1857 South Kedzie avenue filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday demanding $50,000 damages under the dram shop act for the death of his son Frank on March 3. The defendants are George Kappos and his wife, Betty, who operate a tavern at 3543 Ogden avenue.

Young Gawel, who was 16 years old, was stabbed to death by Walter Pijanowski, 17 years old, 1905 South Kedzie avenue. Pijanowski, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was placed on probation, is alleged to have become intoxicated in the tavern shortly before the slaying.

Named as co-defendants with Kappos and his wife are George Vritis, a bartender; Milton S. Yondorf, trustee of the real estate, and Miss Evelyn R. Saft, conveyor of a trust deed. Attorney Thaddeus R. Tudor represents Gawel.

UNDER THE SURFACE

By CALEB

ON WARM August days one envies the denizens at Chicago's Shedd Aquarium as they go about their undulant way in the cool and fluid realm where all their life is spent.

What delicious languor marks their every move. Their nonchalance seems studied and deliberate as they pause to stare, immobile, at the curious folk outside the glass partition that separates them.

Lucky fish! A graceful, easy flip of fins and tail sends them swiftly through the water. A careful curator, with an eye to the permanency of his exhibits, has separated all the natural enemies, and there is only an occasional (and, we are told, quite rare) family squabble to mar the placid intervals of life in an aquarium.

Even the matter of putting on a good face causes them no difficulty. Their expression never changes. When they glimpse relatives and acquaintances, no one checks their reactions; there aren't any. They need never look pained, shocked or surprised; quite probably they never are.

Which gives rise to speculation about the secret of their placid and lengthy existence. No doubt the explanation is that they are streamlined to their environment. Next time you see them, note the marvelous efficiency of their movements, the utter relaxation when they lie motionless. If there is anything more wholly relaxed than a fish at ease, it has escaped our notice.

We are told that these fellows' ancestors antedate our own by several millions of years. Perhaps sooner or later, we too will be streamlined to our environment as completely as the fish are. Perhaps, again, the placidity of their life—a sort of marine Nirvana—is not a thing to be sought after.

But there is in their easy and efficient conformity to the life they know a point worth observing and pondering. Above all, the faculties of conserving energy in action and of relaxing completely while at rest are important. Great athletes and great thinkers alike possess these faculties. But many people fail to acquire them to their sorrow and misfortune.

4 MORE TESTIFY TO SEEING HINES WITH RACKETEER

Hotel Workers Tell of Meeting.

Schultz called out to him, "All right, Champ." Then Corbett went in to give the gangster his massage. Hines had disappeared.

Before Corbett took the stand, Charles W. Hughes, who was assistant manager of the Barnum hotel at the time of Schultz's stay there, identified Hines as the man he saw walking alone across the lobby of the hotel and later sitting with the gang leader at a table in the coffee shop.

Grilled By Defense Lawyer.

Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, spent nearly two hours attempting to break down Hughes' story. He had the witness draw diagrams of both the lobby and coffee shop, brought out an admission that Hughes had seen Hines only a few seconds on those occasions three years ago and jeeringly suggested that the district attorney's office had pointed out the defendant. But Hughes insisted that he was positive in his identification.

Next on the stand was John Pucher, head waiter at the Stratfield, an Austrian who declared brokenly that he was "pretty good at remembering faces." He told of seeing Hines come into the Pine room at his hotel and walking to the Schultz table. There, according to Pucher, he saw Hines talk to the gang leader.

"Well, did you see me there?" shouted Stryker.

"No," replied the witness.

Deep Sarcasm in His Voice.

A note of deep sarcasm crept into the defense attorney's tone as he examined a man who had identified Hines when he had seen him three years ago while he couldn't pick out another man whom he had seen only a few weeks ago.

Charles Wall, a former bellboy at the Barnum, was the fourth witness. He said Hines had stepped on to the elevator alone one summer night in 1935 and asked for the ninth floor. Once there he hesitated, Wall said, and asked the way to "room 904." That was the main room in the Schultz suite of rooms 903, 904, and 905.

The story of two witnesses, one of them Leslie Bateman, the former mayor of Mount Vernon, involved John Plunkett, former superintendent of buildings in Manhattan and one of Hines' right hand men, in this move.

Wanted to Meet Mayor.

First Dewey called to the stand John J. Kearns, sales manager for a coal concern. Kearns, a large florid-faced individual, said that Plunkett and J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, Schultz attorney, who has pleaded guilty, came to his home in January of 1934 and asked him to introduce them to his old friend, Mayor Bateman.

Kearns said that two weeks later he took Plunkett and George Weinberg, Schultz payoff man, who pleaded guilty and testified against Hines last week, up to Mount Vernon to see the mayor. Bateman talked to the men in the bedroom of his home and on a later occasion at his office, Kearns said, but the conferences were out of his hearing.

Next the former Mount Vernon mayor was called to the stand. Bateman, a short, gray haired individual, said that he was in the coal business and had served as mayor from 1932 to 1935.

Admits Conference.

The former mayor admitted he had talked to Plunkett and Weinberg about the policy game. He said he became interested because the visitors told him they would have jobs for a dozen and a half or two dozen clerks and there was much unemployment in his city at the time.

When the visitors returned several days later, Bateman said, he told them he would have to turn them down. Dewey did not question Bateman further.

One of the spectators at the morning session was Leonard Reid of the Chicago law firm of Litsinger, Healy & Reid, who is a cousin of Dewey's mother. Dewey worked in the firm's offices in Chicago during one summer. The Chicago attorney spent the week-end with the prosecutor and his wife at their summer place in Pawling, N. Y.

Land in Front Row

Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and Congressman Scott W. Lucas, Democratic nominee for United States senator, gave a repeat performance yesterday of their appearance as a trio which caused a small political sensation at the state fair at Springfield on governor's day.

They were honor guests at the annual celebration of Arvey day at the Medinah Country club, an outing given as a testimonial to Ald. Jacob M. Arvey by his 24th ward Democratic organization and other friends. The distinguished three were scattered in the crowd during a program of water events, but when they took seats for an entertainment in an outdoor theater they all landed in the front row in this order—Kelly, Lucas, and Horner, with Ald. Arvey making a quartet of the trio.

State's Attorney Courtney, who did not attend the state fair, also was absent from the Arvey celebration.

Wife Sues to Divorce Convicted Embezzler

Mrs. Winifred F. Blaine of Harvard yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court at Woodstock from James G. Blaine, former banker of Capron, on the ground that he had been convicted of a felony. Blaine was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary March 1, 1937, for one to ten years for embezzling $10,000 from the school funds of Boone township. He was the school board treasurer.

Ten houses were destroyed and the municipal building and postoffice were badly damaged in the town of Cataingan. Several persons were injured. The earthquakes also were felt on Samar Island, east of Masbate.

ORDERS CANVASS BOARD TO THROW OUT SWITCH VOTE

Politicians Smiling at Unexpected Boomerang.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In entering his final order holding party switching in the April primaries illegal Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski yesterday directed the state canvassing board to put the mandate into effect. The members of the board are Gov. Horner, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, and State Treasurer John C. Martin.

Politicians found two causes for smiling at this unexpected provision of the order. The primary contest before the court was brought by State Representative John G. Ryan, a member of the Nash-Kelly organization, against Adam S. Mioduski, a Horner-Courtney candidate for the legislature who was shown by the canvass as having beaten Ryan.

Blow to Horner Forces.

Judge Klarkowski's decision that there were no Democratic nominations made for the legislature in the district in question, the 13th, because 10,000 Republicans were allowed to take Democratic ballots was a blow to the Horner forces. Now the governor and his associates on the canvassing board are directed to scratch Mioduski's name off the list of nominees.

The second smile arose because Mioduski's counsel, David Silbert, nad said that one of his further legal steps might be an effort to mandamus the canvassing board to certify Mioduski's nomination. Judge Klarkowski's directions to the board are believed to have forestalled such a step.

Directed to Correct Results.

The court order directed that the canvassing board "correct the results" of the election in accordance with the decree, proclaim that no legal nominations of Democratic candidates for state representative from the 13th district were made on April 12, and certify that fact to the county clerk of Cook county.

Attorney Silbert said, after reading the order, that he and his associates will determine today what further legal steps they will take in behalf of Mioduski. Attorney John F. Tyrrell, who with former Judge John F. Haas, won the victory for Ryan, predicted that an appeal to the State Supreme court would be unsuccessful.

One Nominee Dead.

Tyrrell holds that the way is now clear for the Democratic senatorial committee of the 13th district to name two nominees for state representatives. One of the two shown nominated in April, Representative William W. Powers, died in July. Like Ryan, he was a member of the regular organization, and since the organization controls the senatorial committee it is expected that Ryan and another man from the ranks of the regulars will be named when the committee acts.

In his formal order Judge Klarkowski repeated the findings of the opinion he gave last Thursday that the action of the election board in permitting voters to switch parties this year was contrary to law. Gov. Horner, State's Attorney Courtney, and County Judge Jarecki supported the board in its action.

Prosecutors said John Rocklin had reported that he was robbed of $19,450 of the money involved. The company was at 1100 Washington boulevard.

A. F. OF L. CHIEFS TELL WAGNER OF LABOR ACT EVILS

Senator Then Goes On to Confer with Roosevelt.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], author of the national labor relations act which bears his name, appeared here today before the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. He heard the complaint of federation leaders that the act is being administered with rank favoritism for the Committee for Industrial Organization.

President William Green of the federation visited President Roosevelt in Hyde Park last week and after the conference Green said the President favors revision of the Wagner act.

Wagner left the executive council meeting for Washington, where he will report tomorrow to the President on the federation's grievances. Although Wagner came here at the invitation of the council, it was understood the President wanted him to begin working toward the revisions desired by the federation.

New Trend Sensed.

The Wagner visit was regarded as the first definite acknowledgment on the part of the administration that the C. I. O. organization of John L. Lewis is crumbling and that to hold the labor vote the administration must court the good will of the federation.

The federation executives, in a three hour conference with the New York senator, presented some twenty instances in which the National Labor Relations board showed favoritism to the C. I. O. It was suggested that the act be corrected to prevent repetitions of the complaints.

After the conference Wagner was not asked to commit himself on the evidence presented. The council merely thanked him for his attention and arranged for future meetings.

As he emerged from the meeting Wagner asserted he was present at the invitation of the board and had listened to complaints against decisions of the labor board. He said he would study the evidence attentively, and would see President Roosevelt tomorrow. He would not amplify his statement.

Green Comments.

"We showed the senator concrete evidence in support of the charge that the labor relations board is biased and pro-C. I. O.," Green said.

"We presented evidence showing that contracts have been invalidated and set aside by decisions of the board. We emphasized that the federation regards contracts between employer and employé as sacred and binding upon the parties thereto and that such contracts must be faithfully executed and carried out.

"The labor board is destroying the sacredness of contracts and the validity of contracts. We believe the board, in its administration of the act, is striking a blow at collective bargaining."

The evidence presented to Wagner was an amplification of the case of complaint against the board that Green carried to the President's home on the Hudson river last week. There Green charged that the board has departed from the spirit of the law in its decisions. The arrangement of a White House conference with Wagner on the heels of the senator's visit here indicates the President favors action on the federation complaints.

C. I. O. May Be Called.

The C. I. O. probably will be called in during the negotiations, but is not expected to play a heavy part in the federation's effort to cut the board from Lewis' apron strings.

Members of the executive council recalled that during their meeting here a year ago Lewis' star was at its zenith. While the council was meeting to draw battle lines for the conflict with the C. I. O., Lewis was given a tremendous ovation at a meeting of the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate.

Today members received word that the same workers in a district convention in Milwaukee voted in favor of cutting off payment of dues to the C. I. O.

"The division, discord, and disillusionment being manifested in the U. A. W. is directly traceable to the organizational structure of the C. I. O., with its false economy and philosophy," Green said.

"It shows that organization of workers cannot succeed under the domination and control of a dictator and autocrat. Dictatorship causes distrust and destroys confidence in the movement."

Strike Halts Work of 6,000 in British Plane Factory

BIRMINGHAM, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Six thousand workers were forced into idleness today by a strike in one of England's largest aircraft factories. Workers in one section of the Austin factory walked out, forcing all of the plant's activities to suspend. The workers charged that the management had failed to live up to a promise to raise wages.

CRIME SCHOOL'S FAGIN MERITS THE DUNCE CAP

Loses Big Share of Loot to 'Lawyer.'

Fred A. Tiedge thought he was a sharp operator eight months ago when he opened his crime school with two ambitious students. They did all the dirty work. From the proceeds of forty robberies his two star and only pupils obtained loot worth $10,000.

Mr. Tiedge, befitting his status as professor, pocketed the lion's share. He put off his stooges with the excuse that their share was going into a defense fund. That was Mr. Tiedge's story.

Stuck With His Story.

Last night he was stuck with it. Because the professor should have worn the dunce cap in his school room. He only thought he was smart. In reality the lion's share of the robberies went to the man he thought was really building up a defense fund.

He is John T. Muir, 42 years old, of 1107 South 6th avenue, Maywood, listed in the legal guide as a lawyer. Mr. Muir occupies a law office at 10 North Clark street with Attorney David Raymond.

A Sort of Receiver.

But Muir insisted last night that he was not a lawyer. He just acted as a receiver for the jewelry turned over to him by Tiedge. That, at least, is what he told Assistant State's Attorney Leslie Curtis, Lieut. James Killackey, and Capt. James Byrne in a cell at the Shakespeare avenue station.

In the office they found a package addressed to Tiedge, in care of Muir. It contained thirty watches worth $1,000, which the police believe were stolen. The police also have recovered three rings worth $3,000, and today expect to find three more in a pawn shop.

How It Worked Out.

"Tiedje believed that Muir, with whom he was once in business, was a lawyer," said Lieut. Killackey, "so he had Muir dispose of the loot and told him to retain 10 per cent of the proceeds as a commission as well as a retainer fee in case of trouble.

"But it didn't work that way. Muir pawned three rings worth $1,500 for $200. He told Tiedje he got $175. He gave Tiedje $100. Tiedge told his robbers he got only $65. From that they got their one-third, to split between them."

Tiedje's pupils were arraigned yesterday before Judge Lambert K. Hayes who continued the charges against them until Thursday. They were John S. Jankowski, 20, of 1334 Bell avenue, and Casimir Strong, 19, of 1735 Division street.

154TH PLANT SHUT BY 'HOT BOX CAR' IN UNION TURMOIL

Big Dry Goods Warehouse Latest Strike Target.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A trouble-laden boxcar invaded a new field today in the warehouse labor dispute here. The "hot" car, which already has been used to close 153 warehouses, was shunted to the city's large drygoods warehouse. The plant closed and eleven others are expected to follow.

The boxcar was loaded last week by executives and white collar workers at the F. W. Woolworth warehouse, where the employés are on strike. Union men in other plants promptly refused to unload it. For more than two weeks it has been pushed from one warehouse to another. When warehouse men refuse to touch the cargo they are fired and the plant is closed.

2,500 Thrown Off Jobs.

As a result, 2,500 men are now out of work. Employers contend warehouse men must handle all cargo, regardless of origin. Workers reply they will not handle goods loaded by strike breakers.

The meandering car today was moved to the big Butler Brothers dry goods warehouse. Warehouse men spurned the cargo. The warehouse was closed, 35 men were fired, and 150 were made jobless.

Meanwhile on several other labor fronts San Francisco moved closer to a major industrial crisis.

Twenty-seven large department stores were threatened with a clerk's walkout. Employés sought strike approval from the central labor council.

Terminal Project Threatened.

A jurisdictional dispute between electricians and the Brotherhood Railway Signalmen threatened to halt virtualy all work on the $2,850,000 transbay electric railway terminal and viaduct at noon tomorrow.

Negotiations between the Retail Shoe and Textile Salesmen's union and shoe stores collapsed, but strike talk was said to be premature. Chain groceries and the store clerks' union scheduled an important meeting for tomorrow.

Overshadowing all, however, was the stalemate in negotiations between C. I. O. longshoremen and waterfront employers. The union charged that ship owners are stalling them in an effort to sign up other unions and thus leave the longshoremen isolated when the contract expires Sept. 30.

SEEK WOMAN, 70; GIVES AWAY CASH AND DISAPPEARS

New York and Chicago police were searching last night for Mrs. Clara Wetherell, 70 years old, who disappeared from her home at 848 East 70th street last July 31. Lieut. Joseph Starshak of the missing persons bureau was told by her friends that they had received cash gifts in the mail ranging from $5 to $100 shortly after Mrs. Wetherell left her home. Miss Helen Wright, with whom the elderly woman lived, said Mrs. Wetherell left her a note in which she said she was sick and discouraged and was leaving Chicago permanently. She had lived here since 1905 and was a member of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen.

ROBBERY GANG TIMES HOLDUP; TAKES $2,000

Three bandits obtained about $2,000 in a carefully timed robbery of the White and Rosen Wholesale Poultry company at 135 West 62d street yesterday. They entered at the close of business but before officials had gone home.

Dave Rosen, president; Nate Glickson, manager, and seven other men employés were lined up against a wall. Addressing Glickson as though they knew his position, the robbers ordered him to open the safe. He did.

The bandits took all the cash but spurned checks. They warned the victims not to move for ten minutes. Pedestrians saw them flee in a car driven by a fourth man.

FLINT AND N. Y. AUTO WORKERS TURN ON LEWIS

Flint, Mich., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The executive board of local 156, largest unit of the United Automobile Workers, tonight unanimously rejected the proposal of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chairman, for the reinstatement of four expelled U. A. W. officers. The local has 30,000 members in Flint.

James Austin, secretary, announced the board's action. "Tomorrow," he said, "we will wire Lewis, in terms that he cannot misunderstand, that he must keep his hands off U. A. W. affairs in Flint."

In Milwaukee, Wis., yesterday automobile workers in Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota revolted against Lewis and his C. I. O. by voting to ask their executive board to stop paying the monthly per capita tax of 5 cents that the C. I. O. levies against all affiliates.

2,800 More Rebel Against C. I. O.

North Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The executive committee of local 118 of the United Automobile Workers, representing 2,800 members, today rejected a peace plan offered by John L. Lewis and told him to cease interference with the U. A. W. The committee demanded that the U. A. W. withdraw from the C. I. O. if Lewis continues to interfere.

CONVICTED BANK PRESIDENT FREED BY PAROLE BOARD

Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the defunct Exchange State bank, once located at Van Buren and Wood streets, was one of eighty-two convicts ordered released from state prisons yesterday by the board of pardons and paroles in Springfield. Twenty-nine were convicted in Cook county.

Luckenbill was serving one to ten years in Stateville penitentiary for embezzling $15,000 of the bank's funds in 1930.

Others ordered paroled included Edward Larkin, 43 years old, characterized by police as "Chicago's most efficient burglar." He was sentenced in 1934 to one year to life in the penitentiary for a series of thefts in Logan Square.

This month's batch of parolees brings to 221 the number of prisoners returned to Cook county to date in 1938. This is only thirty-one less than the total number freed during all twelve months of last year.

CASH 100 STOLEN CHECKS; VICTIMS IDENTIFY SUSPECT

More than 100 checks stolen from the Washable Button company, 1101 North Paulina street, on June 16, have been cashed by north side store owners. Yesterday Summerdale police arrested a man identified by several of the victims. They are seeking his companions, a man and a woman.

The prisoner is Edward Schumacher, 52 years old. He said he lived in a lodging house at 26 North Throop street. Schumacher's record shows he has been arrested at least once a year since 1908, except in 1910, and last year, when he was a WPA worker.

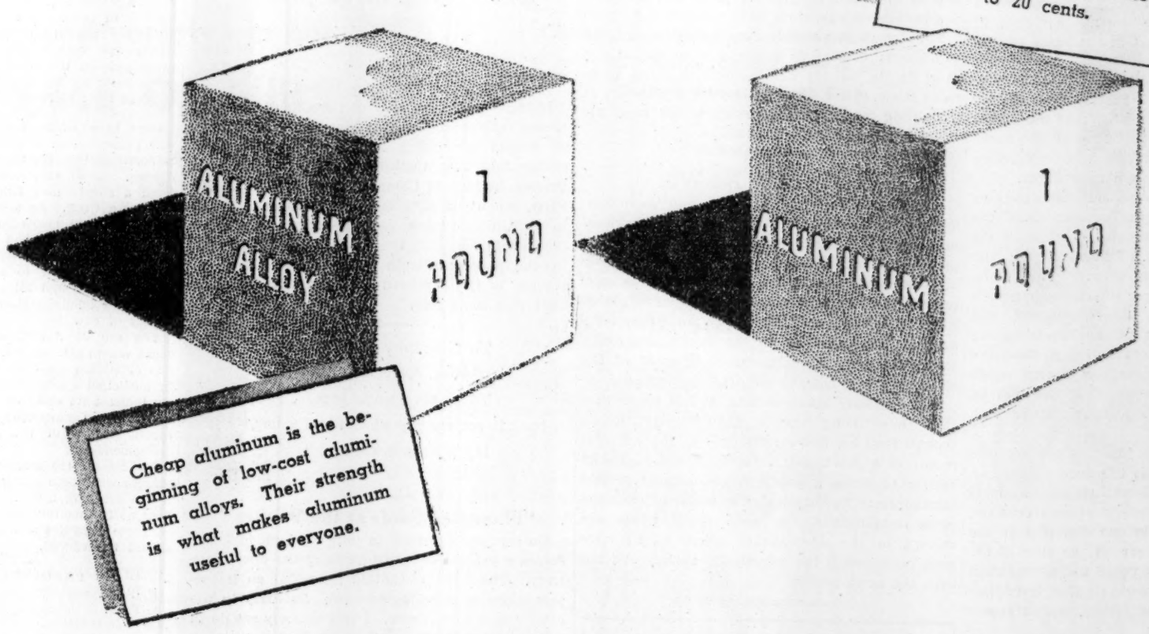
ALLOYS MAKE ALUMINUM STILL MORE USEFUL . .

By investing millions in efficient plants and in research it has been possible to get the bulk price of raw aluminum down to 20 cents.



Cheap aluminum is the beginning of low-cost aluminum alloys. Their strength is what makes aluminum useful to everyone.

A FACT ABOUT ALUMINUM TO TELL YOUR NEIGHBOR

The aluminum you use around the house is so light that you may have wondered how a railroad train built of it can be so strong.

The reason is that other metals can be mixed with aluminum to make it hard and strong. The resulting new metal is called an alloy. Some aluminum alloys are as strong as structural steel, although only a third as heavy.

When industry has a broad new use for aluminum, research scientists find an alloy exactly suited to the purpose. This has been going on so long that we have a large number of alloys, so that industry can make almost anything of aluminum. The United States yields first place to no other country in the knowledge and use of aluminum alloys.

Because of their lightness, strength, resistance to corrosion and cheapness, aluminum alloys are saving industry a great deal of money.

This research to create new aluminum alloys has cost millions of dollars, but it has been well worth while because it has enabled us to sell more aluminum.

That is the American way—to get ahead by helping everyone to get ahead. We have grown by making aluminum more useful.

THE COURTS AND THE PRESS.

The management of the Los Angeles Times has announced its intention of appealing from a decision finding the newspaper, its president, and its managing editor guilty of contempt of court. If necessary the case will be carried to the United States Supreme court.

There was a fantastic quality about the whole proceeding. A committee of the Los Angeles Bar association in its original complaint alleged that a number of editorials in the Times were contemptuous chiefly because they commented on jury verdicts before the court had passed sentence. There was no reason to believe that any of the editorials had been intended to influence the judges in fixing the punishment and no more reason to suppose that the judges had been influenced. To find the newspaper in contempt it was necessary for the court to announce that newspaper comment in such circumstances is contemptuous, regardless of what effect it really had, if only it might have influenced a weak judge in the performance of his duty.

There are evils crying for correction in California, but premature comment on cases in litigation is not in the first rank or even the tenth rank of abuses to be attacked. California in recent months and years has seen a virtual breakdown of orderly government. Its shipping industry up and down the coast has been tied up by a revolutionary movement led by a communist who ought to be deported but has been protected. Rioting and bloodshed have been tolerated. Political influence has been used to protect the rioters. Property has been seized and held in violation of law. Factories engaged in the manufacture of essential supplies for the army have been occupied by communists. All of this has gone on and the bar has not seen fit to make an effective protest in the name of law.

The strongest defender of orderly government has been the press of the state. Instead of supporting the newspapers the bar is found sniping at them. It is almost incredible that intelligent men, trained in the law, could have shown themselves so shortsighted and that a judge could have been found to uphold them in their effort.

Overwhelmingly the newspapers of this country have shown respect for the courts. Only the fewest editors have ever sought to influence the decision of pending cases. Editors all but universally recognize the duty of withholding comment until it can no longer affect the outcome of litigation. Newspaper editors, however, will never willingly concede that the courts belong to the lawyers and judges and are therefore above criticism. Experience has shown again and again that the processes of justice will be perverted the moment the press relaxes its vigilance.

One of the most valid justifications for the existence of a free press is the need of such an institution to report the operations of the courts and, when waranted, to comment and criticize. If it is necessary to err in one direction or the other it is far better to err on the side of unhampered comment. Otherwise the degradation of the courts is invited, with all that it implies of crooked justice, delayed justice, and arbitrary justice.

The courts are not sacrosanct. They are not the happy hunting ground of lawyers. They are the people's courts and within common-sense limits the people have a right to know what goes on in them and to comment freely upon it. It is far more important to preserve that principle than to protect the imaginary rights of defendants who suffered no demonstrable injury from newspaper editorials.

WEAPONS WIN WARS.

Writing not long ago in the Infantry Journal, Maj. Gen. George A. Lynch, chief of infantry, stressed his belief that the army must engage in bold experimentation. It must be ready to adapt itself quickly to changes in weapons and equipment. "We may be sure," he wrote, "that whatever organization we accept today as adequate to our purposes will be partially outmoded within a short period." New weapons, new means of transportation and similar novelties will impose corresponding changes in organization and tactics.

Such views have not been popular in the war department in the past. To hear them expressed by a man in a position of responsibility and leadership is more than welcome. Our army has been notoriously laggard in accepting improvements. Automatic rifles of American manufacture were used against lions, tigers, and elephants long before the world war, but it is only within recent months, at least thirty-five years after these weapons had proved their worth, that they were adapted for use by American infantrymen. In spite of the fact that two-thirds or more of the world's automobile production is in the United States, our army was not the first but almost the last to accept mechanization. Industry today is making the widest use of light alloys, but except in aviation our army is not taking advantage of these discoveries, though their acceptance would add greatly to the mobility of our forces.

Maj. Gen. Lynch seems to have brought to his tasks a realization that wars have been won more often by superior weapons than by painstaking study of the methods of men who died a thousand years ago. Still more wars would have been won that way if the brain power of the generals on both sides had not been buried in the graves of their classic and medieval heroes. The Germans, for example, could have won the last war if their generals had taken full advantage of the surprise use of poison gas. The surprise was complete but the war lords couldn't believe it. The allies could have won the war with tanks, but their responsible generals had fixed ideas and refused to study the possibilities and limitations of the new weapon. In consequence the tanks were misused, and by the time their value was recognized the enemy had recovered from his surprise and had developed counter-weapons.

The article by Maj. Gen. Lynch indicates that the American army today is eager to make experiments and profit from them. It is to be hoped that this spirit will survive.

THE COMMUNIST VANGUARD.

The commanding position the communist party has obtained in John Lewis' C. I. O. unions is revealed with all the substantial and corroborative facts by responsible leaders of the American Federation of Labor, such as John P. Frey, testifying before the Dies congressional committee, and by the communists themselves. Although in the minority in the rank and file of the unions, they are the most important members of the management, and their factional fights, communist against communist, are already threatening to wreck the automobile workers' organization. Their commanding position in Mr. Bridges' longshoremen's union was such that they were proposing a purge in the governing committee of all who were not communist party members.

The seizure of power is the fundamental tactic of the communists. Their strategy uses what is called the vanguard of the proletariat, and not only is it designed for use by a minority but it is intended that power shall remain in a minority. An organization of aggressive fighters introduced into a mass of excitable but less positive persons is expected to carry the movement to extremes.

The communist party in Russia has never numbered more than three million, unless new members have been added recently. In the October revolution of 1917 there were only 200,000 party bolshevists, but they were able to use the turmoil and the distraction of purpose among the other revolutionaries to seize power and establish themselves. The peasants and the great body of workers did not know what they wanted. The small minority of bolshevists told them and have ruled them ever since.

When the party reached a membership of three million, at the end of 1933, Stalin thought this was too many and ordered a purge which struck a million members from the books. A third of the party was expelled. Thus the membership is retained in possession of a minority consisting of the most active informers, provocateurs, activists, and special agents who will keep every soviet, every unit of the army, every outfit of workers, every collectivist farm, the labor unions, coöperatives, the youth organization, and every neighborhood in dread of the denouncing which may bring the secret police in to take the victim away. He disappears as a warning to his neighbors or fellow workmen of the consequences of a careless remark or an appearance of even indifference to the magnificence of Stalin.

The communist party system does not want a majority, even in the rank and file. Majorities are difficult to manage. Small groups with power behind them will obey the dictator and they can control the others.

The American revolutionary unions accept the communist leadership because it is always the most daring, has the best formulated plans, advocates the greatest violence, and when men are in a fighting mood this leadership is the most attractive and the most destructive.

BUSINESS NEWS.

News of business is interesting and important. People like to read of new products and services, new factories and machines. Reports of business progress, of additions to personnel and of many kindred matters are always welcomed by a competent editor. But editors are often embarrassed when the news is brought by an advertising agency. The relations of the advertising agent should be with the business department of the newspaper and not the editorial department.

A good many business men do not know that their advertising agents, charming gentlemen though they be, find no welcome in the editorial rooms of a newspaper. The business man who wishes to make a public announcement should communicate directly with the editor or with the press associations. A good many items are thrown in the wastebasket which might have been published if the advertising agency had not been the news bearer.

Editorial of the Day

THE RUSTLERS RIDE AGAIN.

[Kansas City Star.]

Plump and jovial Will J. Miller, who took charge as Kansas state livestock commissioner this summer, finds himself squarely up against a problem which probably beset the first man who ever held a similar position in Kansas—cattle rustling.

Shades of old Caldwell, Horse Thief canyon, Dodge City's Boot hill and Abilene's long decayed first stockyards, are the ridin', rootin', tootin', gun fightin', hell for lether days of the west back? Not in Kansas—not by a jugful. Will Miller's problem, although as old in its essentials as the livestock industry itself, is as new as a streamlined airplane in its modern exemplification. Here is the way it works:

The cattle rustlers use a truck—often a refrigerator truck. It has high sides which usually are painted with some advertising sign to give the impression it is a moving van. Inside rides a cowpony and a cowhand. Arriving at a pasture, the barbed wire is cut, the truck descends into some deep draw or gully where it cannot be seen from the road, horse and rider are released from the wagon, and steers are rounded up and brought in to be killed and butchered.

When enough beef has been obtained the truck is loaded, horse, man and meat inside, and drives out of the pasture and away. The sinister cunning of the scheme lies in the speed with which the stolen beef can be transported. Often meat is sold the following morning 200 miles from where it was illegally slaughtered.

That it is a real problem may be seen from the reports to the livestock commissioner. Several hundred head of cattle are reported taken from a single large western Kansas ranch in the last few months, and the rustlers' activities are by no means confined to this one ranch.

The vigilantes and a lynching used to be the remedy for cattle rustlers in the old days, but modern conditions and laws forbid any such direct action now. The Kansas Livestock association is posting metal signs on fences of its members advertising a $250 reward for arrest of rustlers. A new brand law also is being agitated to make easier identification of carcasses.

DUDE RANCH FOR DOGS.

Research workers for the Line, tirelessly questing for quaint and quirky information, report the discovery of a dude ranch for dogs near Big Bear lake, California, 100 miles from Los Angeles. Note the proximity of this location to the Bedlam of the movies; that fact lends plausibility to the fantastic tale.

The ranch was once a fox farm, but its owners are finding the pampering of patrician pups a more profitable business. They announce that the summer routine for every canine boarder includes daily sun baths, hiking, squirrel hunts, and trips in a station wagon to the lake, where they enjoy "ducking, retrieving, and water polo." Ultra violet rays and treatments in a beauty shoppe are also catalogued among the doggy luxuries. Furthermore, the resort's literature says smugly:

"Expectant canine mothers need not sacrifice the pleasures of the Dude Ranch, as there is a well-equipped maternity hospital at their disposal."

The management boasts that it has had among its distinguished guests "Buck," a canine movie performer of renown; a highly educated "seeing eye" from New Jersey, and numerous pets of Hollywood celebrities. The story becomes too modern to be believed when it asserts that the establishment has a staf of female Scotch terriers, called "hostesses," who, under careful chaperonage, romp with the male boarders and thus prevent them from getting homesick.

Uncanny Happening.

Here in my small room on the third floor back, with my midget radio jumping all over the chiffonier to one of Father Hines' killer-dillers, I glanced at the set just as a BUG poked out from the grilled speaker. O, Mr. Worldly Wise Columnist, do you suppose it could have been one of those . . . O, no, it couldn't have been. It was foolish of me to think so and in the morning I'll simply tell the landlady the roaches are around again and she'll . . . But, sir! It didn't LOOK like a roach. O, God! It JITTERED.

ANSWER TO "A VOICE FROM SOUTH DAKOTA."

You may have your South Dakota
With its wind, and its dust, and its heat;
I'll take the unknown humans
And the good hard asphalt street.

You may have the stars eternal
Because you lack God's good rain
Which falls on our rooftops and gardens
With a mighty sweet refrain.

But we, too, have stars above us
That shine in the dusk o' nights;
And we don't have a sickly glimmer
From our million electric lights.

I'll leave you the dismal howling
Of coyotes when day is done—
But give me the friendly workers—
Seeking a little fun.

So I'll keep what we've made of the cities—
Jostle, and strife, and lights;
You may have your drab dust prairies;
I'll take the skyscrapers' heights.

Add Thrilling Rides.

If Manager John Casey of the Chicago airport thinks that riding in an engine cab is a thriller, he should try riding on an engine cab. This writer had that thrilling experience, with one Private Bullock of Company F of the old Dandy First, when on duty during the railway strike in 1894. Our engine was on escort duty, with troop train, escorting the Illinois Central Diamond Special passenger train from the Twelfth street station to the southern limits of the city. And that was some ride. C. T. Ray.

"Flanneled Fools at the Wicket."

On my first Saturday in jolly old London I conceived a yen to see a ball game of the cricket variety. The hotel clerk told me about an important game at Kennington oval. So early in the afternoon I went there. I had scarcely sat down when a [social] error was chalked up against me because I had tried to talk to the guy next me, never having been properly introduced.

Anyway, I tried to get the meaning of the solemn and slow movements out on the field. I gathered that it was an "over" or something like that. Then at last the pitcher or bowler got into position and the batter hit an easy fly right into a fielder's hand, which was promptly dropped. On the next pitch the same batter tried the same fielder in the same way, but this time the fielder caught it. The crowd clapped and shouted "Well held." Then they pulled up the wickets and everybody started for home.

I thought it was an interval for tea. As I didn't want any I stayed around for quite a while. Finally a lonesome feeling came over me and I asked a guy who was cleaning up the place what had happened. He told me that Surrey had won by six wickets. R. L. Tusker.

CHILD STARTS TO SCHOOL.

Gladly I'll let you go, although
I should have loved
To have you always small and sweet.
If I could make the world stand still
To keep you so . . . such thoughts I will restrain.

The world's so big, including school;
It goes its way;
So, too, must you, and there
Is always this: late afternoon
Each day you'll make the circle home again!

NOSEBLEED—WHAT TO DO.

MANY of our household remedies for nosebleed have come down to us from our grandmothers. They vary from stuffing the nostrils with nice fresh cobwebs to bathing the wrists and the forehead with vinegar, inserting a pad of brown paper beneath the upper lip, applying the front door key to the back of the neck, or walking seven times around a chair with the chin held firmly against the chest.

No matter what is tried, the method will be successful in a fair number of cases, for the ordinary attack is not at all serious. It is only with repetitions of the episode, each associated with a sizable loss of blood, that much concern need be felt.

Whenever the nose is blown vigorously [a bad habit always] we may observe tiny flecks of scarlet mixed with the discharge. As a rule, this indicates the presence of inflammation within the nasal passages or the sinuses. Again drying, crusty secretions—when dislodged—may tear tiny capillaries and lead to a fair amount of oozing.

Children may have frequent nosebleeds, because the mucous covering of the thin bones [the turbinates] may become so engorged that a minor bump will rupture a hairlike vessel. Persons who have high blood pressure may thank their lucky stars because the bursting of an artery within the air passages may release just enough blood so that the rupture of a small channel in some more dangerous location—for example, the brain—will not occur. Bleeding in an adult, therefore, if the force of the circulation is high, should be allowed to continue for at least a short while.

We must, of course, be on the alert to detect the bleeding disease [hemophilia]; or that type which accompanies certain blood ailments such as leucemia; or when the white cells have dropped to a low level as in the malady termed agranulocytosis. Sometimes there is an absence of what are called platelets. General conditions such as scurvy, kidney disorders, anemia, and phosphorus poisoning also may be responsible.

Most physicians are aware that there is a particular spot within the nose, called Kiesselbach's area, from which spring most of our cases of spontaneous hemorrhage. At this point numerous vessels come together to form a network or tangle of veins. In such a situation pressure, as from a gauze pack—perhaps saturated with some solution to facilitate clotting—will bring relief. Squeezing with the thumb and fingers the collapsible part of the nose may prove effective. Now and then the doctor may find it advisable to cauterize this location with chromic acid.

Another measure which has been employed with substantial benefit consists in filling the nasal spaces with thin strips of salt pork. The pieces are cut 4 or 5 inches in length and ¼ to ½ inch in width and thickness. They are introduced carefully, one after another, until the nostril is well filled. The strong salt with which the fat is impregnated has the effect of withdrawing serum from the tissues which apparently contains more of the clotting elements.

Once in a while, however, a patient will present such a persistent form of hemorrhage that life actually may be in danger. A 35 year old mechanic suffered a steady flow from the left nostril for a week. As a result his hemoglobin dropped below 50 per cent. Several remedial plans had been attempted without the slightest effect. Transfusion, however, appeared to supply just the needed factors and all signs ceased following the administration of about eight ounces of new blood.

The use of Russell viper venom or cobra venom also has been advocated and this or similar material is now available in medicinal quantities and many writers indicate its value in severe, protracted seizures. Occasionally pressure on the carotid artery of the affected side is recommended.

But by far the largest number of instances will abate within a few minutes. If the dripping lasts longer than a half hour no further reliance should be placed on home remedies and skilled assistance should be secured.

PHARYNGITIS.

F. S. F. writes:

1. What is the cause of chronic pharyngitis?

2. What can I do to relieve the condition?

REPLY.

1. Chronic inflammation of the pharynx follows repeated acute attacks, prolonged irritation, long continued and improper use of the voice, chronic rhinitis [inflammation of the nasal mucous membranes], and—rarely—digestive disturbances. The inhalation of dust and irritating gases is an important factor.

2. The underlying causes must be removed. Speaking in a low voice is essential. Tonics, with fresh air and sunshine, are of value. A diet rich in vitamin A is helpful. A dry climate sometimes is advisable.

INHERITED SYPHILIS.

R. E. C. writes: How does inherited syphilis affect one? Is it contagious?

REPLY.

Congenital syphilis usually appears during the first three months of life. The child is weak and old-looking, has snuffles, a depressed nose bridge, and other deformities. Anemia is present and, later, skin lesions appear. As time goes on, Hutchinson's [notched] teeth develop. This type of syphilis is rarely if ever contagious. Treatment is the same as for the acquired form.

BANKRUPTCY CLAIM.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a claim against an incorporated firm which is in bankruptcy and would like to know the correct manner in which to place the claim. O. G.

If you have received the customary postal card notice, it should give you the required facts. You do not indicate your relationship to the bankruptcy nor how much time has gone by. If your failure to receive a postal card means that your debt has not been scheduled, then your claim would not be barred as to any assets that you might be able to follow up in the future, but in the case of a corporation bankruptcy, this fact would not be important. After waiting a reasonable time for the postal card, we suggest you write to the clerk of the U. S. District court, U. S. Court House, giving the name and the approximate date of the bankruptcy, and ask him for the name of the referee.

STREET CARS VS. BUSES.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—I dare say few people living along Madison street would agree with your editorial in which you advocate buses instead of street cars. I believe most of the people in Chicago think that under the new traction ordinance there is to be a large replacement of the old type street cars with the type of car we have on Madison street. I have found no one who does not agree that these cars are far superior to buses for general operation on heavy duty lines.

A bus on a smooth, wide boulevard where there is no parking to interfere with operation is one thing, but a bus on the narrow, congested streets of the city with rough pavement is quite another thing. Any attempt to carry the large numbers of passengers now carried on street cars by buses in these congested streets would result in a slow and intolerably bumpy service.

I also think there is something wrong with your argument that it would be cheaper to operate buses because there would be no capital outlay for tracks and overhead. If this is true why is it that the bus fare in Chicago and practically every other city is 10 cents, while the street cars are providing much more service for a 7 cent fare?

There are many street car lines in outlying streets where buses could provide better service, but it would be a prime error to attempt to substitute buses on lines where large numbers must be carried under our present trafic and street conditions. S. E. CLEVELAND,
President, West Side Trafic and Transportation Association.

IT'S ALL VERY SIMPLE.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Replying to O. E. Cooperrider, who says that back in the '90s his father bought two plowshares for a bushel of wheat and that this rate of exchange prevailed largely up to 1914, but now the farmer must raise four bushels of wheat to buy the same number of plowshares. Very simple, indeed. We are now paying New Deal prices for the material and labor that goes into the manufacture of farm implements.

Then the farmer pays a tax—another, another, and another tax—the same as we all do. New Deal taxes, mind you, Mr. Cooperrider, and you're getting New Deal prices for your wheat. It's the more abundant life. E. A. M.

HE HAS A PROBLEM.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—What can a family man of 54, owning his own home from which no income is derived, in good health and possessing an average school education, able and willing to do any kind of work, do to secure employment? Also, why does the WPA ignore men in this predicament? Citizens who were thrifty and saved for their old age, but became victims of circumstances during the depression should not be subject to this unfair treatment. There are many too old for a job and too young for a pension. What can one in this classification do to earn an honest living?

J. P. SAMSON.

ADDRESSED TO THE PARK BOARD.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—With the growing popularity of the concerts in Grant park it would be advisable for the park board to provide more seats and amplifiers so that the thousands who have to either stand or sit on the grass could at least enjoy sitting comfortably and hearing the splendid music. I hope some action will be taken by next year if nothing can be done this season.

ENFORCEMENT BY THE AX.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Great work, Mr. State's Attorney! Do you think that such drastic, or should I say savage, measures will cure the ailment of bookmaking? Why do we have laws?

You have promoted a great idea. If any of us holds a grudge against any one all we do is go into our woodshed, pull out our little ax, walk right into our enemy's home and destroy his belongings; then walk out and boast about it. Great stuff!

This attitude of yours has changed the opinion of many a law abiding citizen and voter, including myself.

THE CANDY BAR ALOFT.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The sweetest story ever told is the rise and development of the candy industry. The recent candy show clearly indicated that thanks are due to America's candy manufacturers. Their ingenuity and perseverance have raised the candy bar to a level where it is considered one of the healthiest food nutriments within the price range of every one.

The candy bar is indeed an extraordinary contribution to American life when it has reached a point where children cry for it, daredevil pilots fly with it, and every one sighs for it. NORMAN GLICK.

SHE GOT NO APPLAUSE.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Dear fellow performers on Madison street cars: I did my little stunt recently, rounding the corner of Madison and Dearborn. I started down the alle, handbag in one hand, shopping bag in the other, and immediately went into my dance.

I weigh 200 pounds and flatter myself I did a good job. I finally landed in the lap of a woman who weighed perhaps 90 or 100. I waited—but there was not a hand either to help me up or to applaud me. Perhaps I expected too much. MYRA CASEINI.

WORD "LOVE" BLASPHEMY.

COURTESY TO VISITORS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Criticisms have been flung at the good citizens of Chicago as to the rude treatment accorded out of town guests.

Permit me to voice my experience of yesterday. At the crossing to Lincoln park at Addison street I chanced to meet two visitors from New York, a mother and daughter. They asked several questions as to directions, situations, etc., and as I was headed in the same direction I gladly walked with them to their destination.

Upon parting they insisted that in all their traveling they never received such courteous treatment as they did at the hands of Chicagoans. This is not the first occasion in which I have received similar words of praise from out-of-towners.

THE SAME OLD MOLLY.

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 25.—Fifty-five years ago, in the mining camps in Colorado, I met some of the Molly Maguires and got some of their ideas of government.

Some time after the anarchist Haymarket riot in Chicago I met a man who was in that riot and boasted of it. I found out that the anarchists had absorbed old Molly. In 1905 they changed Molly's dress and called it I. W. W. Later they said it would probably have a new name, and it soon appeared as communist.

But the communist movement in Russia does not take well with the home loving people of our country, so they put a new dress on Molly and called it the New Deal. It is the old Molly, just the same.

ART PROJECT EXHIBIT.

Elmhurst, Ill., Aug. 26.—I recently visited the Art institute exhibit and saw some fine work done by the Federal Art project.

Many subjects show unusual talent and originality. In the sculpture department Mary Anderson's figures are refreshing and full of life and vigor. The index of American design has done some worthwhile work in rendering faithful reproductions of early American design and craftsmanship.

There are so many interesting subjects there that no one should miss the opportunity of visiting this exhibit. F. McE.

EXPLODING MINES PERIL AMERICAN WARSHIP IN CHINA

Jap Navy Disputes Rights of U. S. on Yangtze.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30 [Tuesday].—A dispute raged today between American and British naval officers on one side and the Japanese on the other over the rights of American and British vessels to navigate the Yangtze river.

Lieut. C. A. Conlan. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

It was disclosed that the United States gunboat Monocacy for four days last week had been menaced by at least fifteen floating mines which had exploded near the warship's anchorage in the central Yangtze war zone.

The Monocacy is anchored at the Standard Vacuum Oil company's dock at Kiukiang. The town, the Japanese base of operations, is about 450 miles upstream from Shanghai and about 135 miles downstream from Hankow, China's provisional capital which is the Japanese objective.

Explode within 80 Yards.

On Saturday, when Japanese minesweepers were engaged in clearing the river, a mine exploded 400 yards off the Monocacy's bow. Two hours later, two mines exploded under water about 80 yards off the Monocacy's stern.

The commanding officer of the Monocacy, Lieut. Clarence A. Conlan of San Francisco, reported his vessel had suffered no damage from the explosions and that he had anchored a pontoon upstream from the ship as a protection against further explosions.

Conlan told the Japanese consul at Kiukiang of the possible danger to the Monocacy from exploding mines. The consul was reported to have rejected the protest, saying foreign warships were in the war zone at their own risk.

Prevent U. S. Navigation.

The Japanese were said to have refused to permit the Monocacy to proceed down river, declaring it unsafe, despite the fact that Japanese transports and merchant vessels operate freely. The Japanese were said also to have suggested that foreign warships now at Hankow move farther upstream as a precaution against the time when the Japanese drive reaches Hankow.

The Monocacy has coal sufficient for a week and food for two weeks. The Japanese have offered coal and food, but this was refused with the contention that the Monocacy has the right to navigate the river freely and obtain its own supplies.

Japanese naval authorities in Shanghai made it clear they are opposed to movements of the Monocacy and the British gunboat Cockchafer near Kiukiang while the military campaign is going on in that region.

Push 20 Miles Nearer Hankow.

Invading Japanese forces pushed farther into Central China today both north and south of the Yangtze river. They advanced twenty miles southwest of Liuan, an important town thirty miles north of Kiukiang. They had occupied Liuan on Sunday night. On the south bank of the Yangtze they reported they pushed west of Juichang. Infantry forces followed up a severe aerial attack in which Japanese planes dropped tons of explosives. Juichang is thirty miles southwest of Kiukiang.

Between these two advances, however, the Chinese staged an eastward offensive.

The Chinese said they had recaptured three important towns which the Japanese had won in six weeks of severe fighting—Tsienshan, Taihu, and Susung. They reported they were attacking Hwangmei, the spearhead of the Japanese drive up the north bank, about 35 miles north of Kiukiang in Hupeh province.

China Air Lines Suspend.

HANKOW, China, Aug. 29.—(AP)—For the first time since the outbreak of the Chinese-Japanese conflict Hankow, Chungking, and other interior cities were without regular commercial air communication with the outside world today.

The only two air lines operating between Hongkong and the hinterland announced temporary suspension of service as a result of the machine-gunning of a passenger plane off the South China coast last Wednesday in which fourteen persons were killed. The lines were the China National Aviation corporation, owned by Chinese and American interests, and the Eurasia corporation, in which Germans have an interest.

Close In on Town

(Story in adjoining column.)

Spanish loyalists reported yesterday their forces were closing in on Castuera (indicated by arrow), a rebel base in southwest Spain. Loyalists reported cutting the road from Castuera to Cabeza del Buey.

LOYALISTS CRACK REBEL LINES IN SOUTHWEST SPAIN

Seize Key Positions Near Insurgent Base.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 29.—(AP)—Spanish government troops were reported today to be closing in on Castuera. The town is a rebel base 150 miles southwest of Madrid. The loyalists threaten to cut off 20 miles of the enemy lines.

Counterattacking against the rebel threat to drive east to capture the valuable Almaden mercury mines, the militiamen struck from the north along the Villanueva de la Serena and Campanario sectors.

Government dispatches said these troops broke through the left flank of the enemy and occupied numerous positions around Castuera. They also asserted the main road running east from Castuera to Cabeza del Buey, 20 miles away on the route to Almaden, had been cut.

Admit Defensive Measures.

Rebel advices acknowledged that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's legions had taken the defensive in the Castuera sector, but asserted governmental assaults had been checked.

They indicated that Castuera, Campanario, which is ten miles to the north, and Villanueva de la Serena, which is 12 miles farther to the northwest, were being defended strongly.

The government's counteroffensive appeared to have halted effectively the previous rebel offensive through Castuera and Cabeza del Buey, toward Almaden.

CHINESE IRREGULARS STRIKE IN SHANGHAI; SET FIRE TO BRIDGE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Shanghai, continually threatened by Chinese guerrilla bands, was invaded tonight by a band of irregulars who crossed the western border of the city.

The Chinese soldiers came within two and a half miles of the international settlement's western defense lines, which British troops patrol, and set fire to a highway bridge adjacent to the international Hungjao Golf club. They hoisted their flag there. As 600 Japanese troops dashed to the scene, the irregulars withdrew.

Foreigners living in the outer portions of the Hungjao district, a better class residential suburb, were menaced directly by this latest Guerrilla thrust and they hurriedly evacuated to the international settlement. British troops tightened their patrols and held them in readiness when reports circulated that a huge band of irregulars numbering thousands was massing slightly west of Hungjao in preparation for another attack.

Battle Near Gibraltar.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 29.—Reports from Algeciras today said that two Spanish government submarines were sighted in the strait of Gibraltar off Tangier yesterday. They submerged and were soon seen again when rebel batteries at Tarifa and Carnero points opened fire on them.

The gunfire was heard at Gibraltar. Three rebel destroyers were seen to steam at full speed toward the strait while the gunfire from shore was continuing.

The rebel gunboat Lazaro last night escorted a transport into Algeciras, bringing 850 Moorish troops from Ceuta, Spanish Morocco.

German Flyers to Leave Spain by Oct. 1, Pilot Says

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BARCELONA, Aug. 29.—Germany has planned to withdraw her pilots and air force technicians from Spain by Oct. 1, Erich Naumann, a German pilot who was shot down and captured on the Ebro front told interviewers today. He said he had heard that planes as well as other equipment would be left behind for the Spanish aviators. He seemed to be confused whether it would be in consequence of the nonintervention committee's action or whether it was connected with European developments generally and the Czechoslovakian situation particularly.

RUNAWAY TEAM KILLS BOY.

CAMPAIGN TO END LAKE POLLUTION FACES SETBACK

Hammond Officials Split on Sewage Plan.

The campaign of Illinois and Indiana state officials to end the pollution of Lake Michigan by four northern Indiana industrial cities has received another setback, it was disclosed last night.

The latest obstacle is a fight between Mayor Frank R. Morton of Hammond and five of the nine-man city council over control of the construction and operation of the city's projected sewage treatment system. One of the issues is how the city will finance its share of the project.

Can't Meet January Deadline.

Last September the Indiana department of commerce and industry ordered Hammond, Gary, East Chicago and Whiting to stop contaminating lake waters by Jan. 1, 1939. The action was taken in response to pressure by Chicago and Illinois officials, including Attorney General Otto Kerner, who said that south side Chicago's water supply was endangered.

The four cities, which empty sewage and industrial waste into Lake Michigan, will require at least a year longer.

When congress appropriated a billion dollars last session to renew Public Works administration projects the cities were provided with a method of financing 45 per cent of the cost of sewage filtration plants.

Hammond took the leadership. Last week it obtained approval of a $1,437,784 PWA grant toward a $3,195,075 anti-pollution project. On Aug. 13 Gary applied for $2,166,000 toward a $4,813,630 project and on Aug. 13 Whiting asked for $371,340 on an $825,200 program. PWA engineers are now studying the specifications.

East Chicago Renews Plea.

Two years ago East Chicago asked for a PWA grant for a sewage plant but could not obtain it at that time. Mayor Andrew Rooney of East Chicago said yesterday that the city is setting up its sanitary district board this week and will renew its application well ahead of the Sept. 30 deadline on requests for PWA funds.

Hammond's PWA project specifies that work shall start within a month and be completed in 70 weeks, or in January, 1940. How soon the project will get under way will depend on the present deadlock.

Mayor Morton, a Democrat, proposed that a sanitary district, a separate taxing unit headed by a three man board, be set up and that the cost to the city, $1,757,291, be raised by a general tax levy on property in the district.

The council split 5 to 4 against this plan. The three Republicans and two Democrats said the project should be directed by the city department of public works and be financed by general revenue bonds.

Council Wants Jurisdiction.

The department of public works is responsible to the council. The sanitary district board, similar to Chicago's, would be made up of the city engineer, an appointee of the mayor; a man designated by the state board of health and approved by the mayor, and a third chosen by these two.

Construction bids would be let by which ever agency is set up.

Mayor Morton, supported by a large number of civic leaders, contends that a million dollars will be saved for the small taxpayers by a general tax, since about 50 per cent of it would fall on industries, utilities, and owners of vacant property.

The general revenue bonds, on the other hand, would be paid by city water customers in proportion to the amount of water they use. Many of the larger industries, it is said, have their own water systems.

Mayor Morton, who can block the council by veto unless it can get a two-thirds majority, said the issue would come up again at a special meeting late this week.

'NONSENSE,' NAZI REPLY TO CHARGE MADE BY BISHOPS

Claim Church Is Free, Protected by State.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The German propaganda ministry today denied charges by the country's Roman Catholic bishops, except the Austrian, that efforts were being made to destroy the church.

Describing as "nonsense" the charges made in a pastoral letter read from the pulpits yesterday, a ministry spokesman said:

"The government is paying millions of marks annually to the church, and the fact that the reading of the letter was possible clearly demonstrates that there can be no talk about persecution. The government itself has the most earnest desire to protect the church from anti-religious demonstrations."

No Reprisal Planned.

The pastoral letter was formulated at a recent conference of bishops at Fulda. Austrian bishops were not represented, they having planned a conference of their own at Salzburg for the near future.

Dienst aus Deutschland, a correspondence service, intimated that the government was not likely to take steps as a result of the bishop's charges, at least until after the Austrian bishops meet.

Stating that Austrian bishops alone can speak for Austria, the correspondance service said it was a "not particularly happy circumstance" that German bishops assumed authority over all German Catholics, including Austrian.

Acted to Protect Bishop.

The propaganda ministry spokesman, answering the bishops' charge that "unparalleled, ugly, concentric attacks and outrages" were used against Bishop Johann Sproll who was expelled from Wuerttemberg last Thursday, said the Nazis had acted solely to protect the bishop.

"Sproll, who was a German citizen, violated one of the fundamental principles of German citizenship by not participating in the April 10 plebiscite [on union of Austria with Germany]," he declared.

"This naturally led to demonstrations against the bishop, increasing in seriousness after the bishop returned to the diocese after a temporary absence. To prevent the anti-Sproll tendency from gaining greater momentum, the authorities were forced to expel the bishop from Wuerttemberg."

LINER DOCKS WITHOUT ANY CLEW TO LOSS OF ARMY OFFICER AT SEA

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The disappearance of Col. Edward G. McCormick, 51 years old, of the United States army, from the Porto Rican liner Borinquen last Saturday evening remained unexplained today when the ship docked.

Col. McCormick, who has been on duty with the 65th infantry in Porto Rico, was returning with Lieut. Col. Walter F. Von Zelinski of the medical corps, who said today that Col. McCormick was to have gone to the Walter Reed hospital in Washington for observation and treatment of a nervous disorder.

Capt. Thomas Evans, in command of the ship, reported that Col. McCormick's disappearance first was noted at 5:05 p. m. Saturday. No notes were found. According to Capt. Evans' report the ship was swung around and retraced its course for nine miles on a smooth sea without finding any trace of the missing officer.

COMMITTEE FOR REFUGEE AID TO CONSULT BERLIN

PARIS, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Three United States ambassadors and the two Americans who are ranking officials of the intergovernmental committee on refugees, met in Paris today to consider the problem of finding new homes for thousands of would-be refugees from Germany.

The five were Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the committee; George Rublee, its administrative director; Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany; Joseph P. Kennedy, envoy to England, and William C. Bullitt, envoy to France. Taylor and Rublee already had begun a series of consultations with committee officials which were expected to lead to direct negotiations with German authorities.

The presence of Wilson particularly was considered significant. Informed circles said he could give the committee first-hand information of the German government's attitude on its activities before first overtures were made to Berlin toward solving the refugee problem. A spokesman for the committee said the main item of any negotiations would be to induce German officials to relax present restrictions allowing would-be emigrants to take only a small percentage of their property and possessions outside the country.

TAXES TAKE THIRD OF BUFFINGTON $3,308,386 ESTATE

Nearly one-third of the $3,308,386 estate of Eugene J. Buffington will be paid in state and federal taxes. This was shown yesterday by the tax appraisal filed in County court.

The federal estate tax will take $775,000. The state inheritance tax is $209,701, making a total of $984,701 in taxes. Most of the estate consists of personal property. Two daughters are the principal beneficiaries.

Mr. Buffington died last December. He was formerly president of the Illinois Steel company, retiring in 1932. The firm is now a part of the Carnegie-Illinois company.

HAND OF CENSOR A DEATH BLOW TO SALVADOR PAPER

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PANAMA CITY, Aug. 29.—Central American dictatorships, modeled on the totalitarian examples of Italy and Germany, are proving difficult for newspapers which are not subsidized by the government. Daria Patria, at one time a leading newspaper in El Salvador, has ceased publication because of economic difficulties. When a censorship gives newspapers the appearance that all of them were produced in the same editorial office and does not permit initiative and originality and suspends publication at the slightest provocation, the maintenance of circulation is practically impossible, it was pointed out.

She was divorced by her first husband, Lord Francis Hope, and by her second, Bradlee P. Strong, of New York.

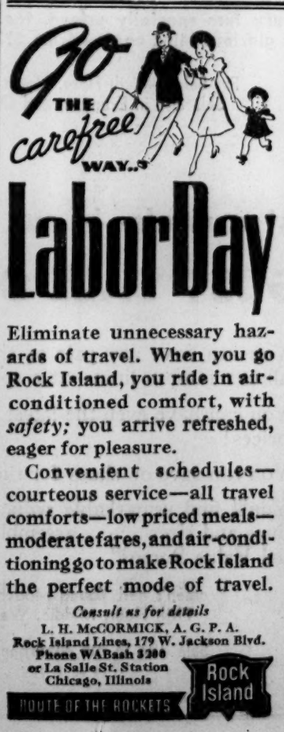
Two attendants are being sought by police. A private watchman accused by the boys was dismissed by the park. The ex-watchman will appear in Town Hall court Thursday.



NEWFOUNDLAND POLICE RESCUE RELIEF OFFICIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 29.—Sir Wilfred Woods, commissioner of public utilities, was back in Corner Brook today after being held prisoner for four hours by a mob of unemployed residents of Bonne Bay. He was rescued by police.

Woods and his wife, on the customs cutter Shulamite, were touring distressed areas along the west coast. He went ashore at Bonne Bay to hear the demands for increased dole payments and more work projects. Dole payments are $1.80 a month. Unsatisfied with Woods' reply, the mob shut him in a shack and attacked the cutter. The mob threatened to hold him two weeks and feed him on the 6 cents a day dole rations.

Capt. St. Clair of the cutter ordered his vessel to sea during the attack. The cutter steamed away with seven members of the mob on board. One jumped off and swam ashore. The cutter sped to Corner Brook and delivered the other six to the police. The cutter returned to Bonne Bay with a squad of police and Woods was released.

WILL HUNT DODGE HEIR'S BODY BY SUBMARINE BELL

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Laurine Dodge, widow of Daniel C. Dodge, was flown today to the Dodge home at Rochester, Mich., to recuperate from injuries she suffered in the explosion on Aug. 15 that brought about the death of her husband.

Matthew H. Bishop, Dodge's attorney, said it had been decided to have Capt. Simon Lake, the submarine builder, try to find Dodge's body in the North channel of Georgian bay by use of a submarine bell. Dodge was drowned in the channel as he was being taken to a hospital after a dynamite blast. He fell out of the launch. Exhaustive air and surface searches have failed to locate his body.

Lake said the bell would be towed to the spot where Dodge's body was last seen and lowered there. "It will be equipped," Bishop said, "with 5,000 watt undersea lamps which will make it possible to see on all sides for more than 100 feet . . . we will plot a course and move back and forward over the area."

Eastern Resorts Bidding Season a Gay Farewell

BY JUDITH CASS.

OUR scouts at the eastern resorts send word that activities in all of them are moving at top-of-the-season tempo, although the end of the season is so near. At Nantucket, that picturesque island off the southern coast of Massachusetts that is so popular with smart Chicagoans, there is the greatest number of visitors in recent years.

For nearly twenty years automobiles were not allowed on the island, but now Nantucket, even though thirty miles at seas, has trafic problems akin to those of its sister communities on the mainland. Our correspondent writes that cars from every state in the Union and from most of the provinces of Canada may be seen on the highways and byways.

Miss Ethel Husband, daughter of Mrs. Robert Stevenson, upheld Chicago's name for fair women in a girls' bathing beauty contest held at the annual Nantucket Neighbors' Water Front carnival. The carnival was for the benefit of the Nantucket Civic league. The judges had much difficulty in picking the winner of the beauty contest, but finally awarded the prize to Miss Nathalie Thebaud of White Plains, N. Y.

An enthusiastic young sailor who is getting his boat ready for the last races of the season at Nantucket, over the Labor day week-end, is Donald, son of the Charles Yoe Freemans. One of the largest beach parties of the season was given one evening last week by Diana Hill, daughter of the Cyrus G. Hills of Chicago, and Barbara Tompkins of New York. Young Mr. Freeman and Joan Ralston were among the Chicagoans at the party.

John R. Esmond Salvages Cruiser.

John R. Esmond of Chicago has succeeded in salvaging the Intrepid III., a sixty-five foot cruiser which sank on Aug. 7 while the coast guard was endeavoring to tow it into port after an accident. The Intrepid III. was abandoned by its owner and the insurance company to a watery grave beneath fifty-five feet of water. When Mr. Esmond embarked on his adventure little hope was held in maritime circles for its success.

Most of the visitors to Nantucket Island round historic Brant Point on island steamers, but a number of air minded travelers wing they way across Nantucket sound in regular commercial airliners, or in private planes. Every summer sees an increase in the number of "air yachts" and it is not uncommon to see half a dozen luxurious privately owned planes lined up in the hangars of Nobadeer airport over a week-end.

Wianno Club Holds Dress Ball Saturday.

The Wianno club on the mainland side of Nantucket sound is a popular gathering place for Chicagoans summering on Cape Cod in the vicinity of Hyannis. A fancy dress ball on Saturday night will climax the season. This year the New York World's fair is to be the subject of the decorations and the costumes.

Another gay event of the late season is a dance contest to be held tomorrow night. Each Wednesday night during the summer dancers have matched their skill in rhumba, tango, and the Viennese waltz. The winners of all the contests, whose weekly awards have been champagne, will meet on the dance floor this week. The final winner will receive $120 worth of dancing lessons. Such a prize is a little like bringing coals to Newcastle, we would think, for surely the winner will not need any more lessons!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The good makeup begins and ends with a good powder, velvety in texture, harmonious in shade and clinging without being prone to "cake." A new one, in six lovely shades, meets all these requirements and has the additional virtue of being inexpensive.

Never a day passes that we don't have plaintive requests for a face powder that is pure, clinging, in shades that blend beautifully with natural skin tones AND inexpensive. We have found one that we think fills the bill. This powder is the product of a house that prides itself on giving the customer a shade more than an even break; the new powder is just as good as you'd expect it to be.

This has a light texture, by which we mean that it seems extremely feathery when you dust it on. But don't let that deceive you as to its clinging tendency. It takes care of the nose shine for hours on end—and doesn't cake up or get polka dotted in the process. For those who wish, it comes unperfumed, which should be a point in its favor for women who are either sentitive to perfume in their cosmetics or who dislike using conflicting scents. You can have it delicately perfumed if you prefer.

Of course, no powder is a lubricant and you can't expect a powder to correct dry skin—or even to serve its function very well if the skin is starved to the point of taut shininess. But the dry skinned women we've asked to try this report that it is eminently satisfactory; it gives the suave finish they seek—and gives it without being used so heavily that it masks the face with that powdered look.

There are six shades, all of them very pretty. The darkest is sun beige—a warm tan. The five others range from peach [lovely for the new fair but not pale makeup] to an unusual creamy shade called "glamour."

This powder is a beauty bargain in any woman's language. It has been well styled as to tints, and the quality of it is excellent beyond question.

The Great Shearer Mystery

New York, Aug. 29.—Your reporter, arriving on Broadway, thought that for two weeks, he'd be off the movie star patrol. But he ran smack dab into what might well be termed The Great Shearer Mystery or Who Purloined the Body of Marie Antoinette? That your reporter finally broke into room 8 on floor V. of Mount Sinai hospital and identified "Miss Kay" as Norma Shearer is a tribute to his bloodhound instinct. But I'm getting ahead of the story.

At 4:30 p. m. the city desk stated with assurance that the "Miss Kay" registered at the hospital was in truth, Norma Shearer. "This is impossible," said your reporter, "as I just got a telephone call from her." The city desk suggested that the mystery had better be looked into. At the Waldorf, a very polite girl, Matilda Ananias laughed heartily when the subject was broached: "This is very funny," she screamed, knocking herself out with laughter. "'Miss Kay' is Miss Shearer's secretary and it is Miss Kay who is bedded in room 5, undoubtedly racked with pain at this very moment."

Stilling the laughter of Miss Ananias with some difficulty, I asked where Norma was at the moment: "You are not suggesting I would lie to you?" snapped Matilda. I told her that her suspicions were unfounded, and repeated the query. "Miss Shearer is spending a Sunday on Long Island," said Matilda. It was pointed out to her that Long Island, taken by and large, was a very roomy plot of ground. "She is at Nick Schenck's house," she finally said reluctantly, "but I can't give you the number." This was okay. I had it.

A butler answered the phone. We will call him Ezekiel Ananias. "Miss Shearer was here for lunch and left with the Schencks on a yachting trip," he said, and there was a convincing ring to his voice. "When will they be back?" He pondered this question: "Late," he decided finally, "very late tonight."

Having once ridden on a yacht and become very seasick, I remembered that yachts are listed in a register. So there we found the Schenck yacht listed, 72 feet over all, the Panzola, evidently named after Nick's wife, Pansy Schenck. The register noted that the yacht was radio-equipped and gave the call letters. Your correspondent dispatched a radiogram to Mr. Schenck, out on Long Island sound, and sat back for a scoopero to drop out of the antennae. "The yacht does not answer its call," said the telegrapher.

"You had better get your carcass into a taxicab," said the city desk, "and go to Mount Sinai hospital and look at this woman in room 8 on floor V, and determine whether she is Miss Kay or Miss Shearer. The exercise will be good for you, and inasmuch as you are a hotshot from Hollywood you will be able to recognize her immediately."

I suggested that if Miss Kay instead of Miss Shearer occupied room 8 on floor V., and I burst in on her, she might slug me. "Just tip your hat, apologize, and withdraw," said the city desk, not noticing I didn't have a hat.

The nurses on floor V. entered wholeheartedly into the "who-done-it" spirit of the quest. They could not deliver a note to Miss Kay. She was sleeping. They could not let me in to the room for a quick peep. They would suggest I contact the doctor. They did not know the doctor's name. They were quite sure he wouldn't be back tonight. The patient was very ill and probably would sleep through the night. The blonde floor nurse, who was living through all the thrills she'd seen on celluloid, actually looked chagrined when Miss Kay sent out word to send me in. Her disappointment exuded from every pore.

"Hello-O-O-Ed——" said Norma Shearer, sitting upright in bed and very fetching in an old rose negligee. "I would like to hit you on top of the head," said your reporter, "and where is the phone?"

Miss Shearer gaily pointed to the phone and I called the city desk and told them the story. "What's all the fuss about?" she asked, innocently, but your reporter ignored the question. The nurse came into the room and said that two rival a. m. papers were calling. "What shall I tell them?" asked the nurse. "Tell them," said your correspondent firmly, "that Miss Kay is sleeping, that there's a 'do not disturb' sign on her door, and that she left a call for 10 a. m."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

She wanted to play "Camille" when she went to Hollywood—this little Marie Wilson, who carries the leading lady's part in "Boy Meets Girl." BUT—she had an un-Camille-like baby stare and a knack for portraying a devastating sort of lovable dim wittedness which convinced producers that her talents lay in another direction.

Just as well. For there are more effective coughers than clever comediennes in the movie and it is the opinion of this audience of one that Marie is right where she belongs.

Every so often the writers make merry with human nuts in Hollywood's movie machinery. "Boy Meets Girl," from the stage play of the same name, is a farcical satire that in its zestful ribbing utilizes a gentle, dimwit waitress, her baby born in bigamy, two prankish script writers, a handsome young English lord, incognito, a stuffed shirt supervisor, a lofty, cloudy minded horse opry star, the supervisor's seriously scatterbrained secretary, and a baker's dozen of variegated subordinate characters, including Frank McHugh as the horse opera star's manager.

The waitress' interesting condition is utilized by Writers Law and Benson as now I shall let the picture show you.

"Boy Meets Girl" is spotty. Snappy here—tiresome there. Some of the dialog is crisp, spontaneous, and amusing. Some isn't. In a number of instances the piece is haw haw silly without being ha ha funny.

But the acting is all aces, and if you're willing to overlook several draggy sequences, I feel sure you'll find "Boy Meets Girl" reasonably entertaining.

See you soon.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

(Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary interest in him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne looks forward to receiving her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family, to the ranch as paying guests. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Whitey takes Anne to a local dance. Steve is there with Gwen. Jake Collins, drunk, insults Anne. Steve fights him. Anne runs off without thanking him. She sends him a note of apology, but receives no answer.

INSTALMENT XX.

A PROPOSAL.

Running down to the mess shack sometimes to have supper with the outfit Anne would discuss her problems with sparkling enthusiasm.

"Anybody'd think this was the first time a log cabin'd ever been built!" Tim teased on one of these occasions. "What yuh goin' to do for furniture?"

"I don't exactly know." Tiny creases wrinkled Anne's brow. "It's going to leave the ranch house pretty bare if I take stuff out, but I don't want to put any money into buying more things."

Tim got up and went through the kitchen to a small lean-to behind it. Presently he came back triumphantly carrying a chair.

"How's that strike yuh?" He set it down before Anne.

She gave a little cry of pleasure. "Why Tim! Where did that come from? I've never seen that chair before!"

Anne bent delightedly over the rustic frame with its taut seat of braided strips of cowhide.

Tim laughed, a sudden deep chuckle. "I ain't made one of them for years," he beamed. "Figured yuh might like it, so I tried my hand at it!"

"You don't mean to say you made it! Why, Tim, that's wonderful! We—we—c-can——" Anne fairly stuttered over the exciting possibilities opened up by this unexpected talent of Tim's, "we can make all sorts of things! I'm sure I could learn to do that! Have we any more hides?"

"A whole stack of 'em." Tim was pleased as a small boy over Anne's enthusiasm. "The boys can knock up the frames in the evenings and I'll teach yuh how to braid the rawhide."

There was one more activity now added to Anne's already full schedule. There was a camp fire every evening now outside the bunkhouse as the nights grew warmer, and Anne would come and join the group around it, her fingers busily braiding the strips of rawhide in and out as she put seats and backs to the chairs and benches the boys knocked together in odd hours.

She even insisted on learning to make the frames, in spite of Tim's declaration that it was no work for a woman.

"Don't talk to me about 'woman's work,'" Anne protested one warm May night. "I think I know somewhat how the pioneers felt, snatching their homes out of the wilderness," she added to Tim with sudden seriousness, "I don't believe I'll ever feel so possessive about anything again as I do about these cabins and this furniture we're making for them."

"I surmise it is kind of satisfyin', when yuh've never done it before," Tim agreed. "I wish Old Man Claxton could have a notion of what we're up to," he brought unexpectedly. "He'd be pleased as punch at the stand yuh're makin' against Jake Collins!"

"Have you heard anything more about his coming back?"

"Last I heard he was due next Monday. It's sure been a lucky break for us that complications set in with that arm of his."

"Likely to be some of that gun play yuh promised us when we signed on?" Anne started at this question from Red Howard, one of the new punchers. She interrupted the warning look Tim flashed him.

"I certainly hope not," Anne answered before Tim had a chance. "If you joined up in the hope of gun play I'm afraid you're in the wrong outfit! That's the last thing we want here!"

"Easy now!" Tim hastened to pour oil on the troubled waters. "Sure we ain't lookin' for gun play! But for all that, we want an outfit that ain't afraid of it! How about comin' down to the shop and lettin' me show yuh how to set up those frames?" He diplomatically changed the subject.

"Not tonight, Tim, I'm tired," Anne gathered up her strips of rawhide. "I think I'll turn in."

"I'll walk over with yuh," Whitey stretched out a hand to help her to her feet. She left the camp fire with Whitey beside her.

It was a beautiful night. For a moment she forgot Whitey. Her thoughts swept to Steve. Had that fight with Jake Collins precipitated a break with Gwen? If it had it would be natural for him to want a period of seclusion—of readjustment. That would easily account for his not having answered her letter. She must be patient and——

A murmur from Whitey brought Anne back from her dreams.

"As I was sayin'," he gave an embarrassed cough, "there's—there's somethin' I've been aimin' to say to you for some time."

Anne had a sinking premonition of what was coming.

Whitey paused awkwardly, then began again, "It's about—say, who do you think I saw on the mesa this afternoon?"

"Who?" Anne eagerly grasped at this change of subject. In her heart she was praying that Whitey's courage would not rally again.

"Gwen Collins and Steve," Whitey's tone was that of a man under a temporary reprieve. "They were moseyin' along at about a mile an hour, thick as thieves. Reckon Steve won't make it up so easy with Jake, but it's clear that Gwen's forgiven him!"

Anne's throat felt dry and her heart beat irregularly.

"Gwen will probably see to it that her father follows suit," her voice sounded far off, a thing apart from herself. "I'm glad I wasn't the cause of their falling out."

"That's been goin' on too long to let a little thing like a fight throw it out of joint." Whitey cleared his throat desperately again. "I was kind of hopin' that you and me might—might mosey along together that same way."

The words were out! Nothing really mattered, except to save Whitey's pride. She must try to swing him back to the loyal friendship of these last weeks.

Even as she paused to frame an answer her heart was cold and sick at the thought of Steve and Gwen.

"I—I won't pretend not to know what you mean, Whitey," Anne met his eyes candidly, "but—but I'm not thinking of anything like that right now. It's—it's just the May night and the stars and everything that makes you think you feel that way," she blundered on, her words sounding more flat and inadequate every moment. "Let's just forget about it. I need you so terribly as a friend."

"It's more than the May night," Whitey gave an awkward, unhappy laugh. "I reckon that had something to do with makin' me danged fool enough to say it, though."

There was silence as they reached the ranch house steps. Anne searched desperately for a soothing last word. She mustn't send Whitey away sore and hurt—the way her own heart was feeling.

"I'm terribly fond of you, Whitey," she faltered. "I don't know what I'd have done without you and Tim."

"Is there any one else?"

Whitey shot out the question with a suddenness that made her jump.

"No!" The hurt denial was a reflex action beyond Anne's control. It brought a queer relief to hear herself say it. At the moment she believed it. "There's no one! No one at all!"

They were standing at the ranch house door, now, on the porch. Anne was thankful that not even the starlight could penetrate the shadows. Whitey leaned over her with a searching gaze.

"In that case I'll stick around."

GASOLINE ALLEY—OCCASIONAL SHOWERS

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Grand (Larceny) Hotel

St. Louis Municipal Opera Ends Season; 2d Best in History

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Marking up a season attendance of 754,131, second highest in its history, the St. Louis Municipal opera closed its twentieth season last night.

Although the attendance fell below last year's all-time record of 774,958, Jerome Kern's "Roberta" established two marks—72,251 for a week's showing and 10,700 for a single performance.

"Show Boat," which closed the season with a two week run, attracted 131,518 to the outdoor theater, surpassing its 1930 and 1934 runs.

The Municipal Theater association said that despite increased expenses, the season approximately would "break even." If there is a loss, the guarantors will not be called upon, as the association has a small surplus from last season.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Just yesterday I pointed out that many so-called bad guesses are, under close analysis, nothing but bad plays. It must not be thought that I maintain there is no such thing as a bad guess. Of course there is. Hundreds of them darken the life of every bridge player. Sometimes there is no possible indication as to which way to finesse. Declarer might as well toss a coin in the air. Usually, however, an intimate knowledge of one's opponents and their playing habits serves as an invaluable guide.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the spade ten. East went up with the king and returned the seven spot. Since this located the queen and jack in declarer's hand, West allowed declarer's jack to hold the second trick, preferring to leave a possible third spade in East's hand for communication purposes. Declarer could count in top cards one spade, two hearts, two diamonds, and two clubs, a total of seven tricks. The eighth trick could be established by finding a 3-2 club break and conceding a club trick, and the ninth trick would materialize if declarer could guess which way to finesse hearts. Of course, these possibilities depended on the opponents running no more than three spade tricks. In an effort to keep West off the lead [since if East had another spade the suit was not dangerous] declarer led a low club toward dummy, intending to put in the eight spot. West's nine squashed that plan, however. Dummy's king was used, a low club was led to the ace, and a third round was conceded to East's queen. East returned a spade, and West collected the ace and nine, East and declarer discarding a diamond. West had discarded a low diamond on the third round of clubs, and now he returned the six of diamonds. Declarer won and cashed his established club, watching carefully for the defenders' discards.

It had required little vision on West's part to note that, with the heart ace marked in declarer's hand, a guess for the queen would later develop. Hence, on the fourth club lead West deliberately, although casually, discarded the deuce of hearts, his idea being to induce declarer to figure East for the heart queen. East furthered this attempted hoax by keeping all of his hearts and letting go his last diamond.

Now, faced with the necessity of guessing the heart queen, declarer had absolutely nothing to go by except his knowledge of the opponents' playing habits. Actually, a very difficult psychological problem was involved. Here was the way declarer had to reason: A beginner or poor player in West's position would not dream of discarding a heart from an original holding of three to the queen. A considerably better player would discard a heart, hoping to convey the impression that he did not hold the queen. An expert would do just what the beginner would do, hold on to all his hearts on the theory that declarer would not believe he was so naïve. In other words, this would be the double-cross. Finally, a master player would sometimes discard a heart from the queen and other times fail to discard, thus putting declarer to a sheer guess.

Except in the last named case, all declarer would have to do was appraise his left hand opponent and determine to which group he belonged. In this case declarer shrewdly decided that West was just good enough to attempt to trap play, i. e., to discard a heart when actually holding the queen in an effort to induce a wrong finesse. Having come to that conclusion, declarer promptly laid down the heart ace and led another heart through West. The queen appearing, it was all over!

BLAKE ANSWERS

Exert Your Feminine Wiles!

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy, but another girl is trying to take him away from me. How can I keep him?

"M. I. G."

You want to exert your womanly wiles so he won't have eyes for other girls.

No Wonder You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-tonic, vitamin B1. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Home Background Reflects a Woman's Charm and Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

One of the real joys of life is to be able to see a beauty against her home background, so much does that background tell of culture, taste, and charm of living. We have somewhat of an obsession on this point of vantage to a charming woman. To us, it is the stage upon which her most charming rôle is played. All women against a ballroom background enjoy the hour's highlight. Women in street clothes in an Easter parade, or any day parade, run to a not very individual pattern, you'll agree.

But in her home, whose taste is synonymous with the chic of elegance, or the simple good taste of the woman herself, we think she is best presented. Of course, we are not minimizing the glamor that settings as prescribed by stage and screen artists provide. But that's another thing to which the great body of women never is subjected, nor do they worry about it, for that matter.

Yet, even one of these professionals may give the highly paid artist-decorator-glamorizer a run for his money when it comes to exuding an aura of irresistible charm in a setting. Anyway, that's what we were thinking as we sat in Miss Gladys Swarthout's town apartment. A neat miracle, we call it, in harmony of individual and home setting. Chic, elegant, simple, warm, and altogether lovely.

We thought of the many stars we've called upon between whom and the decorator's dream of a home setting there was little in common. We thought, too, of homes in which the very blowsiness of a woman reappeared in the overloaded, cheap, and "busy rooms." We thought of one sophisticated woman's ultra-modern room, perfectly groomed and executed, as is the woman herself. Nice—yes—but cold, minus the spark that comforts a guest not up to sophisticated par. Too darned brittle and perfect for charm.

Miss Swarthout, with her husband, Frank Chapman, recently returned from a journey which was shared, for a short boat trip, with the duke and duchess of Windsor. Naturally, we picked up the threadbare theme of what the famous one's allure is. Miss Swarthout hit upon the word concentration. "That's what she has. She makes you feel she has been waiting for this moment of meeting you and that she'll remember years hence who you are, what you said, what you wore!"

Aside from being a charm tip of first order, it serves equally to explain the lovely Swarthout lady's own hold on your fancy. She has it, beside being chic, elegant, simple, warm and altogether lovely.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Happily for most of us, economy in meat buying doesn't signify short change in nutritive value, or in plain, appetizing goodness. Properly cooked, the less demanded cuts of meat are as healthful and as flavorful as the roasts and steaks.

Stews, meat pies and meat loaves are far from being the only possibilities in budget main dishes. More unusual are the four recipes which follow, and these are only a good begining.

Beef Cubes in Sour Cream.

[Serves Six.]

2 pounds beef shank or neck
2 medium onions, sliced
½ cup thick sour cream
½ cup water
2 tablespoons grated cheese
Salt, pepper

Have the beef cut into inch cubes. Dredge in flour and brown in a small amount of hot fat. Add onions, water, sour cream, cheese, and seasonings. Cover tightly and let cook gently about 2 hours, until the meat is tender. Add more liquid if it cooks off. Serve on a large platter covered with the sour cream sauce left in the pan.

Stuffed Liver Rolls.

[Serves Four.]

1 pound pork or lamb liver, thinly sliced
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon bacon drippings
2 cups bread crums
Bacon slices
Salt, pepper

Pour hot water over the liver and let it simmer [not boil] for 5 minutes. Drain. Brown onion in bacon drippings and add bread crums, with water enough to moisten. Roll pieces of liver around the bread dressing, wrap each with a slice of bacon and fasten each roll with a woodpin. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in a casserole, and add ½ cup water. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 minutes. Remove cover after the first 15 minutes, to brown the bacon.

BEEF SHORT RIBS CROWN.

This is a very attractive way of serving an inexpensive cut of meat. Have two sections of short ribs cut three inches wide and four or five ribs in length. Sew the ends of the two sections together so that they form a circle which, stood on end, assembles a crown. Fill the center with any savory bread dressing. Place stuffed crown on a trivet in a pan, and bake uncovered for an hour. Then add 1 cup hot water, cover the pan, and continue cooking until the ribs are tender, about 1½ hours longer. The temperature should go no higher than 350 degrees.

BEEF PATTIES WITH BANANAS.

[Serves Six.]

2 pounds ground beef
6 long slices bacon
1 small onion, grated
1 egg
3 bananas
Lemon juice
Salt, pepper

Season ground beef with salt, pepper, and grated onion. Moisten with slightly beaten egg and shape into cakes. Wrap each cake with a bacon slice and fasten with a woodpin. Brown in a small amount of fat on both sides, then reduce heat and cook more gently until almost done. Place meat cakes in a baking pan with bananas which have been split lengthwise and sprinkled with lemon juice. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, until bananas are tender and meat has completed cooking.

All kinds of sandwiches, from picnic to party, have been compiled in Mary Meade's booklet "The New Sandwich Maker." The booklet will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps or can be picked up for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

Practical Daytime Dress

SIZES 11-19

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

If you're going to college or continuing a business career you will need this dress for practical, everyday wear. It is smart enough, of course, to be worn for dates after classes or office hours. The front paneling achieves a handsome long line and the frock fits the silhouette to perfection.

There are two ways you can style it. The sketch at the left illustrates a dressy version with shirring around the neckline and with a soft, crushed sash extending from the panel seams around to the back. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and extend to the wrist. Black is a favorite color for this dress, but the other rich autumn shades also make up well. You may select crêpe, satin, silk jersey, or sheer woolen.

The other version is sportier. It builds up the neckline and gives the dress a brief tailored collar. There is no shirring in the bodice, and no sash. The princess lines fit the frock to the figure and just below the waistline the paneling conceals two pockets. The sleeves are made in bracelet length and are allowed to be quite full. Woolens are excellent for this version, or the silks and rayons with rough weaves.

Style No. 3308 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Girl of 17 Too Young to Stay Up Late Nights

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Rose has just turned 17 and the man to whom her parents object is much older.

"How can I convince my dad that there is no harm in it?" Rose begs. "We were late getting home one night last week because we stopped for something to eat at a roadhouse. But it was only a little after 2 when we did get back. You'd think I had committed murder, the way my parents carried on."

'Twould be too much to ask you, Rose, to put yourself in your parents' place, sitting home anxiously awaiting the return of a 17 year old girl whom they prize above every possession. Eleven o'clock, 12 o'clock, 1, 2, and there they sit wondering if you got in an accident, wondering why you couldn't telephone back to reassure them all was well. But on Seventeen's shoulders adult heads are not wont to sit. It is the good time you're having that is important. Yet, some young women of your age are still sweet and considerate enough to think of their parents and how they may be worrying.

And, believe it or not, the girl who is willing to think of her parents under such circumstances does not lose anything in her suitor's favor. The nicer the fellow, the more highly he measures the character of a girl with a heart for those at home. The nicer he is likely to treat her, too. There's something in the act that makes the man more appreciative of the trust committed to him.

But, Seventeen, why do you have to pick out a man much older than yourself? Is it because he has a car and the boys of your own age haven't He has money to spend and they haven't? You want to go places and you don't care with whom, so long as you get around?

Seventeen is young for late hours out alone in a car with a man who'd not feel it his duty to get you back early. It's what an older man on the level with you would be most concerned about doing. By prowling around a roadhouse with an older man a 17 year old girl gets a tarnished name. We do wish you would talk the matter over with your parents, and that you'd let them guide you a bit on what just may happen to a wilful, reckless 17 year old.

The Housewife

Some of the neatest and most practical gadgets we've seen in a long time are the metal hat stands that accomodatingly bend over when you reach up for your hat. No more standing on tip toe and then having the stand and all come falling down on your head!

These stands clamp firmly to the closet shelf. They have a spring in them and a little cord. You pull the cord and the stand bends over so you can easily get your favorite bonnet. Then the stand snaps back into place again.

The one we saw was finished in bright red, but there are others in ivory, orchid, peach, green, blue, and black. And the nice thing about them is that they cost so little it won't stretch the budget to order a half dozen.

Eastern Resorts Bidding Season a Gay Farewell

is one who will take part in the contest tomorrow night. She has been active in all the social and athletic events at Wianno, where her parents have a beautiful summer place.

Miss Crossett is one of the first ranking women golfers on the Wianno links. Another participant in the dance contest will be James R. MacColl III., grandson of Mrs. Eugene Kimbark of Evanston. The dancing ability of this family was demonstrated ably one night recently, our correspondent writes, when Mrs. James T. MacColl Jr. was runner-up in the tango contest that was won by her son.

William J. Carney II. and his brother, Otis, were hosts at a dinner before the Saturday night dance at the Wianno club last week. They and Jeanne Marie Carney and Peter Carney and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Roy Carney of Lake Forest, have been vacationing at the club.

Robert D. Forgan Jr. has returned from a month in continental Europe and the British Isles and has joined his parents at their Hyannisport home. The former Betty Forgan and her husband, Philip Allen, are visiting there, too.

Reveal Engagement of Betty Alice Bills.

From their home, the Narrows, on Lake Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Bills announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Alice, to Gardner E. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rae B. Wilson of Fresno, Cal.

The wedding will take place next year in Egypt, where Mr. Wilson is engaged in business. Mr. Wilson and his bride will take a wedding trip on the continent and in England.

Miss Bills was graduated from the Boycemore school in Evanston and received the French consul's prize for excellence in her French studies. She is now a junior at Scripps college in California. In a competition among western coast colleges and universities last year she was awarded first prize in French by the French consuls of San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mrs. Sidney D. Johnson of Zanesville, O., arrived last week to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton. Mr. Johnson is arriving tomorrow. He and Mrs. Johnson will return home after Labor day. Mr. and Mrs. Templeton are giving a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Johnson on Saturday night.

The Templetons' oldest son, James, has returned from a trip abroad. He will enter Princeton university the end of September.

Lady Chilton in City for Two Days.

The telephone bells in Lady Chilton's and Mrs. Howard O'Brien's rooms at the Drake hotel will be ringing constantly during the two days they are spending in Chicago, both visitors have many Chicago friends. Lady Chilton is the American wife of Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain. Mrs. O'Brien is the English wife of Lady Chilton's brother. Lady Chilton has been visiting the O'Briens in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tonight Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meeker are giving a small dinner for Lady Chilton, who with Mrs. O'Brien, will return to Grand Rapids tomorrow. Sir Henry is sailing tomorrow from England to join his wife in Michigan. The British diplomat has been stationed in Washington twice.

In October Sir Henry and Lady Chilton will return to London, where they are living at present. The former Katharine O'Brien is well acquainted with life in diplomatic circles, for her father, Thomas J. O'Brien, was the United States ambassador to Japan from 1907 to 1911, and to Rome from 1911 to 1913.

Joan Mitchell and Marshall Hughes were the winners of the preliminary junior tennis tournament at the Onwentsia last week. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell defeated the Robert Hixons' daughter, Joan, to win the unofficial title of girls' champion. Young Mr. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, defeated Alexander Revell, son of the junior Alexander H. Revells.

All four young people will compete in the official tournament which will start as soon as most of the junior players have returned from camps or from holiday trips.

Operetta Closes Season of Children's Civic Theater

Fifteen hundred persons attended the last program of the season of the Children's Civic theater last night in the Navy pier auditorium. An operetta, "Bon Voyage," was the production. It was the eighth performance this season, and included dance pantomimes and group poetry by primary children. Three hundred and fifty children have had free training this summer in drama, music, and dancing through the Children's Civic theater, which is sponsored by the city and the Chicago Drama league. Mrs. William E. Vogelback is chairman of the league committee in charge.

Music Festival Winner Hailed by Park Throng

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Ten days ago a young tenor named Roy Glahn was adjudged the best male singer in the contests which led up to the Ninth Chicagoland Music festival, sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc. That Saturday evening he sang successfully before a great audience in Soldiers' field.

Last night he came back to the lake front—this time to the Grant park band shell—to appear with Thaviu's band. Mr. Glahn chalked up another success, with his listeners demanding two encores after the completion of his scheduled song.

"When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," the song used in the contests and offered by Mr. Glahn on Aug. 20 as a salute to Douglas Corrigan, was his first number last evening. Following it came "Smilin' Thru" and "Mother Machree."

These songs offered a reviewer no opportunity to judge the depths of Mr. Glahn's musical feeling. They sufficed, however, to prove beyond a doubt that he possesses a smooth textured tenor voice of remarkable beauty. Its normal quality is light and floating, but power and great resonance are easily achieved when the music demands them.

That Mr. Glahn is innately musical was strongly indicated by the eloquent, natural way in which ne phrases. Those few exaggerations which marred his performance of "Mother Machree" are of the type which any enthusiastic young singer is apt to fall into once in a while.

Other singers on last night's program were Helen Margolyne, soprano, and Charles Haix, baritone. The former sang the waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet" in a voice which is small in size, but pure and agile. The latter lent his sturdy and competent low octave to the trio from "Gypsy Lane" which all of the singers offered toward the end of the program.

The band played Delibes and Grainger, Weber and Wagner, Liszt and Tschaikowsky. The excerpts from "Coppelia," by the first named composer, profited by the round and lovely tone quality which the director drew from his instruments in the softer passages.

A Child Needs Word of Praise; Thrives on It

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It's so easy to see faults, to be critical, to blame. Easier it seems, alas, than to find occasions for approval—for praise. With our children it's particularly so. We don't mean to be fault finding, but with all the detail of daily living with our young family we simply do find ourselves getting into the habit. Sometimes all we need is to be jacked up. Here are some reflections on the subject.

Praise is a tonic thing. Whether intensive studies have been made of its effect on the body I do not know, but I feel sure that praise must raise the physical tone. The appearance and expression, facial and bodily, of a child who is made to feel sure of himself by praise and encouragement seem to give evidence of this, while the whole attitude of the child who is made conscious of his faults and failures displays a lowered tone physically and spiritually.

Now, when I talk about praise, I don't mean indiscriminate, empty praise which is meaningless or sentimental. I mean praise which is deserved. Or perhaps "deserved" doesn't express it well, since it sounds like something which has been worked for and which applies only to behavior, or to "goodness and badness." The kind of discriminating praise which I believe so necessary is the recognition of effort or achievement.

Praise of this kind has its place in so many situations. When your small daughter is first learning to set the table you can treat the result in one of two different ways. You can praise her for helping you and for remembering as many knives and forks and spoons as she has; or you can see only the slightly cockeyed effect that they give, and the salt and bread and butter plates and napkins that she has forgotten, and mention only those.

Praise has a high place in the life of the small child, too—the one who is building with blocks, handling tools, sewing, and learning to use a spoon or fork.

There is what we might definitly call "deserved" praise. The young daughter who, to please you, washes all the lunch dishes and starts supper when you have had to be away; the boy who keeps his promise not to "stall" any more about going to bed when you call him; the disorderly little girl who remembers sometimes to put away her toys and hang up her clothes; the boy who tries consciously to say, "What, mother?" instead of "Wh-a-t?"—these children have consciously worked for something they know you consider desirable. They deserve praise and should get it. And incidentally, children know when they deserve praise and when they don't.

WABASH GATHERS ITS CHILDREN ON ITS BANKS AGAIN

Homecoming Also Marks Sesqui-Centennial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—"O, the moonlight's fair tonight along the Wabash. From the fields there comes the breath of new-mown hay; through the sycamores the candlelights are gleaming, on the banks of the Wabash far away."

Where the Wabash Flows.

A refrain from Indiana's state song is winging its strains to the borders of the new moon these nights as former residents along the banks of this elysian stream return home from many parts of the United States for a homecoming celebration that is to last until next Saturday.

But the Wabash Is Changed.

They will find the Wabash changed. The clear water, where white stones were visible in the bottom, has become a muddy surface stream. The old buffalo grass prairie and the forests that formerly purified the water are gone.

Gone, too, perhaps, is the "innocent-minded and deeply illusioned and unsophisticated democracy" for which Theodore Dreiser suggested the theme and jotted down the first lines of "On the Banks of the Wabash" in 1896. It was his brother Paul who elaborated it for publication.

The sentiment has not died. It was born of two exiles in the bright lights of Broadway, thinking of cornfields and woodland and mother. It is united now in Terre Haute with the 150th anniversary of the Northwest territory, the 126th anniversary of the battle of Fort Harrison and the 122d anniversary of the founding of this city.

Golden Thread in History.

This is quite an order of commemoration and it runs through quite a territory. The Wabash river, fringed with maple, elm, and sycamore, with her great valley of abundant resources, has run, according to historian Benjamin F. Stuart, "like a thread of gold through the history of America for 300 years." There are some 500 miles of it.

To begin with the Northwest territory, now carved into six states, is large enough to drop Germany into and forget it. More important than size, however, it started something in the history of mankind. It crystalized what America had been fighting for in the revolution of 1776 without being aware of it exactly.

It started something which is still in the making, a democracy based on religion and education and universal suffrage. A civilization in which human rights and property rights were equally upheld. It was based on "religion, morality, and knowledge," with individual rights as its theme. No slavery, no confiscation of property, no interference with worship. A new chapter for man.

Back to Pre-Historic Times.

The call is back to pioneer times. They might start much earlier than that, with the pre-Columbian mound builders who have left their skeletons, their ancient camp fires, utensils and implements along this valley. Or back to the Indians, who were becoming Christianized by the Catholic fathers when the first New England settlers came lumbering across the continent in their ox carts.

The Indian chapter is none too rosy. Here is a centenary celebration that has been overlooked. William C. Smith, president of the Carroll County Historical society, says:

"The deportation of Chief Menominee and his tribe of Potawatami Indians from the reservation in Sept., 1838, has been designated as one of the great tragedies of American history."

Whisky Buys Land.

Whisky was from 15 to 20 cents a gallon in those days. The Indians liked whisky and they had lands which greedy whites coveted. So treaties were torn like scraps of paper and the United States army under Gen. John Tipton was called to move the tribe to Kansas.

"I came in sight of my poor Christian children," writes Father Benjamin Petit, "marching in a line guarded by soldiers, who hastened their steps, a burning hot sun casting its rays down upon them. After them came the wagons which were crowded with women and children, the sick and the dying. Almost all the babies were dead or dying. I baptized several newly born babies whose first step was from exile to heaven."

Well, good intentions went for naught and the Indians were swept away as if by a giant hand by this marching young Christian civilization.

The program tomorrow will include an exhibit of pioneer household goods, in the days when the nearest neighbor might be twenty miles away. This has been assembled at the Indiana State Teachers college.

Earns Relief Check

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Marriano Izzo, age 69, voluntarily sweeps streets at Aliquippa, Pa., in return for $3.60 weekly relief check.

Aliquippa, Pa., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Aliquippa's one-man volunteer street cleaning department was hard at work today making the streets of his neighborhood "clean like table." Marriano Izzo, 63 years old, an Italian laborer, said he didn't like to accept his $3.60 weekly relief check without earning it. So he got out his broom and dustpan and is keeping streets near his home clean.

Baby Falls 25 Feet Onto Concrete Walk; Bruised

Louis Lenik Jr., 2½ years old, escaped with cuts, bruises, and loosened teeth yesterday when he fell 25 feet from the back porch of his parents' home at 4851 South Ashland avenue. The child was playing on a landing above the second floor porch. A banister gave way. He landed on the cement areaway. The child was taken to County hospital for observation.

Kept Agency Fees to Pay Her Rent; Wins Probation

Mrs. Jeana Kaplan, 415 South Homan avenue, receptionist in the Wabash Employment agency, 202 South State street, was placed on probation for one year yesterday on a charge of petty larceny. Mrs. Kaplan told Judge Oscar Caplan of the Women's court that she kept $22 in clients' fees because she needed the money for rent.

EXPECT N. Y. MILK PRICE TO CLIMB 1 CENT THIS WEEK

Increase Is Due to U. S. Marketing Program.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The doorstep price of milk in New York City will jump at least 1 cent a quart next Thursday when the new federal-state milk marketing program for the metropolitan area goes into effect, according to reports among the larger dealers today. Under the program minimum prices will be fixed for 60,000 dairy farmers who supply milk to the metropolitan district.

In establishing better prices for the farmers, the measure will increase the cost to the dealers to such an extent that both retail and wholesale prices will have to be raised to prevent a loss, according to A. W. Wentworth of the Borden company, one of the largest distributors. He said that after Thursday his firm would be paying an increase of more than 1 cent a quart for grade A milk.

Wholesale Boost Greater.

Under a temporary price schedule of the new marketing order all producers in the district will receive a minimum of 5.3 cents a quart for milk, which in some cases represents an increase of 2 cents.

Because of the increased cost to the dealers the wholesale price of milk may be raised as much as 2 to 3 cents a quart, it is said. This will create a serious problem for the municipal government and large charitable organizations, whose consumption of milk runs into the hundreds of thousands of quarts monthly. Preliminary estimates indicated that the added cost of city operated institutions alone would be from $16,000 to $20,000 a month.

New Administrator Confers.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—A substantial increase in wholesale milk prices for the New York area is to be expected in the next few weeks, said Erskine M. Harmon today. Harmon, who will become milk market administrator for the New York City area next Thursday, said he was unable to predict how much of the increase would be passed on to the consumer.

Harmon has been conferring here with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and other department officials. Following conferences with Commissioner Holton V. Noyes of the New York department of agriculture and markets, Harmon will establish headquarters for the New York area.

Seek to Help Farmers.

The contention of the department of agriculture is that farmers supplying milk to the New York City market are not getting fair milk prices because of "unequal bargaining power in negotiations with distributors."

A schedule of temporary minimum prices to producers supplying New York City is to be worked out immediately, and the purchase of milk below the minimum rates fixed is to be unlawful. A permanent schedule of prices probably will be announced about the middle of October. However, under the law the minimum price levels can be changed as often as is deemed necessary to meet market conditions.

Under the agreement signed by Secretary Wallace and Commissioner Noyes, Harmon is empowered to establish minimum prices for each class of milk. He will also arrange for the control of surplus milk supplies so they will bring the highest return to the producers.

The law does not provide for the control or regulation of milk supply, and no authority is given to fix the resale prices to consumers.

YOUTHS THUMB WAY 8,500 MILES; CLAIM HITCH-HIKING CROWN

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Neil Ball, 22 years old, and Robert Friers, 24, University of Michigan students who live in Saginaw, Mich., came in on the Santa Paula from Panama today, claiming the world's thumbing title. Since they left Saginaw June 6 the young men estimate they have hitch-hiked 8,500 miles. When they reached Cristobal, Panama, with Buenos Aires as their goal, after automobile, mule team, and horseback lifts through Mexico and Central America, the American consul advised them to return to the United States.

2 of Nellie's Baby Jaguars Die at Zoo; One Survives

Two of the three baby jaguars that were rescued from their mother, Nellie, at the Chicago Zoölogical park, died last week, zoo officials disclosed yesterday. The male, Pedro, survives, and is doing well, they said. Zoo officials removed Nellie's babies because she killed three other litters.

Alcohol Sleuths Sniff Air; Sure Enough, Still Is There

TVA COMMITTEE GETS U. S. AID IN PHOSPHATE QUIZ

Hold Up Inquiry to Study Report on Land Deal.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—TVA's purchases of phosphate lands are to be looked into by some Washington departments in conjunction with the congressional committee investigating the authority. Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman of the committee, announced today that further phosphate hearings will be deferred pending a study of a special report from the controler general's office. The report concerns the land deal which netted the International Agricultural corporation a $527,000 profit.

Men from the controler general's office investigated the land purchases in question last spring. Their findings have not been made public. For two weeks a copy of the report has been on file with the committee. Representatives Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] and Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.], have called the report highly important.

The plan is to refer the report to the department of justice and other agencies concerned in its findings. The committee expects to complete its present hearings here this week and may return in October to take up the phosphate question.

$678,000 Paid for 553 Acres.

The phosphate deposits under inquiry are at Franklin, Tenn., south of Nashville. Last year TVA paid $678,000 for 553 acres bought from the International Agricultural corporation. Last January, J. J. Watson, head of the agricultural corporation, announced a profit of $527,185 had been made.

TVA officials, including Dr. Harry Curtis, TVA chief chemical engineer, have testified it was a sensible purchase. The value, they said, was decided by tonnage of the deposits and ease of mining and transportation.

When the question arose last week, James L. Fly, TVA general counsel, urged that TVA be given an opportunity to examine the special report of the controler general's office and to make its own investigation. The law provides for such procedure in the case of reports from the controler general's office.

The committee, however, ruled that a special report does not fall within this provision, so the committee will make its own investigation, with aid from departments in Washington. Some of the matter, it is surmised, may be turned over to G-men.

Marble Hearings Completed.

Hearings on the Berry marble case were ended today with the completion of testimony by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed TVA chairman.

Dr. Morgan said the labor code of TVA was largely his creation and that his position has been misinterpreted.

"My record on labor," he said, "has been known twenty years. With labor leaders I worked out the first code covering all branches of labor on a job. I sought to work out a TVA labor policy which was put in operation on engineering work. It promoted the development of organized labor in TVA among people who knew nothing about it."

NAME REDSKIN LINEUP FOR ALL-STAR GAME

CUBS AND BEES START 3 GAME SERIES TODAY

Tex Carleton Faces Jim Turner.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, at least the gents who are pennant conscious, spent their day off yesterday getting reports hot from Pittsburgh, where the Pirates engaged the Brooklyn Dodgers, and from Cincinnati, where the Reds and the Giants fought it out. At the end of their vigils at the listening posts the lads knew that the Pirates had won their engagement with the Dodgers and that the Giants had lost their set-to with the Reds.

As a result of the day's doings the Cubs will open against the Bees in Wrigley field this afternoon five and one-half games behind the league leading Pirates. They are one percentage point behind the Giants.

Face Three with Bees.

Three games with the Bees will wind up the long home stand of the Cubs, which started dismally but reached a status of eight victories in the last eleven games. The Cubs started the home stay by losing five out of six, eking out one victory during the sad early span in the eleventh inning after tying the Cardinals in the ninth on Aug. 15.

Thursday night the aspiring Hartnett fellows will take to the road again. Here's their imminent calendar:

Sept. 3. Double-header at Cincinnati.

Sept. 4. One game at Cincinnati.

Sept. 5. Double-header at Pittsburgh.

Sept. 6. Open.

Sept. 7, 8, and 9. Single games in St. Louis.

The Cubs will be home for single games against the Reds on Sept. 10 and 11, then will set out on their last eastern trip. They will play two single games in Boston, two single games in New York, a double-header and a single game in Brooklyn, and a double-header and two single games in Philadelphia.

Carleton Pitches Today.

After the eastern farewell they return to play the Cardinals and the Pirates in three game series before going to St. Louis to wind up the season with a series of three games, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 and 2.

Tex Carleton, who has won three straight games since recovering from a shoulder injury, will pitch against the Bees this afternoon. He will be opposed by Jim Turner, who not only shut out the Cubs the last time he faced them, but laughed at them while he was doing it.

REDS BEAT GIANTS, 6-3

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Reds scored five runs in the seventh inning today to end their five game losing streak with a 6 to 3 victory over the New York Giants.

Singles by Frey, Berger, Myers, and Cooke; Goodman's double, and an error by Cissell on an attempted force-out figured in Cincinnati's big inning, which started against Harry Gumbert and finished against Walter Brown. Mel Ott hit his twenty-eighth home run in the third. Score:

Scooter Golfer Plays 301 Holes in 2 Under Par

Two new versions of the marathon golf craze which has swept the country were introduced on Chicago golf courses yesterday.

Out at Techny Fields 18 year old Joe Franco, Northwestern university freshman, used a motor scooter to play 301 holes in 1,204 strokes, two strokes under par for the distance.

Darkness forced him to halt just five holes short of 306 which would have completed seventeen rounds. However, he attained his immediate objective which was to better the combined rounds of J. Smith Ferebee, La Salle street broker, and Mrs. Josephine Baltrusis who recently played 144 and 154 holes, respectively.

Plays Over Eight Courses.

Meanwhile Cyril Wagner, golf professional at Tam O'Shanter, played eighteen holes each on eight different north shore courses. He required 630 strokes, eighty-two less than Ferebee, who started it all when he played his marathon rounds at Olympia Fields.

With a quartet of caddies all mounted on scooters, Franco roared his way about the Techny Fields course. Starting at 6:30 in the morning the strange cavalcade swept up and down the fairways with amazing speed. By noon they had completed six rounds and after a twenty-five minute halt for lunch the grind was resumed until darkness overtook them at 8 o'clock.

Franco, who won his numerals as a member of Northwestern's freshman golf team last spring and who was a finalist in the Western Junior tournament at Sunset Ridge two years ago, played some of the best golf of his career yesterday. He shot par or better for 11 of the 16 rounds.

Held Up by Rain, Fog.

Franco and his aids arrived at the course at 5 o'clock, but were unable to tee off until 6:30 o'clock because of rain and fog. The first round was slowed up because of motor trouble, but once that was adjusted the troupe sped on to average 40 minutes a round for the entire day.

His scores for each round were: 72, 71, 70, 75, 71, 70, 73, 71, 75, 72, 72, 71, 75, 69, 74, 69, 54 [13 holes]. His remarkable shooting was due to his uncanny putting as time and again he rammed down 20 footers. His shooting improved in the closing rounds and on the 14th and 16th rounds he had scores of 69. His 54 for the last 13 holes was even par.

Wagner, who did his golfing on foot, was shunted from one course to another by a police escort from Niles Center. He also started his marathon at Techny Fields where he carded a 75. The other courses and scores were: Sunset Ridge, 73; Wilmette, 75; North Shore, 81; Pickwick, 79; Elmgate, 81; Bunker Hill, 82, and Tam O' Shanter, 84.

Wagner, who profited some $300 as a result of side wagers on his venture, completed his chores at 5:15, just 11 hours after teeing off.

YOU STILL CAN BUY SEATS FOR ALL-STAR GAME

Plan Special Bleachers for Late Comers.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Do you want to see the All-Americans and Washington's Redskins play tomorrow night in Soldiers' field? If you do, you now are assured that no one will be turned away.

Thirteen thousand tickets in the $2.20 and $1.10 sections remain. These, of course, are no more than sufficient to take care of the demands on the day of the game. It is certain now that a crowd of 80,000 will see the fifth charity football game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

For those who do not get one of the remaining tickets, arrangements have been made to install bleachers seats in front of the concrete stands in the horseshoe at the south end of the field. Tickets for this location will be sold for $1.00 each, tax included, tomorrow night. No one will be turned away.

Sale Continues Today.

The remaining 13,000 tickets will be on sale today in The Tribune public service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune tower until 9 p. m. Tomorrow these offices also will be open until 6 p. m. Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock two ticket offices will be opened at Soldiers' field at gates 0 and 15. Other ticket offices will be opened at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The All-Americans donned their game uniforms last night for rehersal under the lights in Soldiers' field. With the battle with the invading Redskins at hand the squad is keyed to highest pitch. All of the boys are eager for the game. They are confident they will win and continue the supremacy of the All-Stars, first established last year by the victory over the Green Bay Packers.

The drill last night was routine. Every one had a chance to unlimber and to test his ball handling under the lights. The white ball, which will be used tomorrow evening, was tried out. After the kickers had worked, and the passers had unlimbered their arms, Bo McMillin and his staf of assistants sent four teams through a brief signal drill. The squad returned to Evanston after the practice to remain until the day of the game. Headquarters will be established in the Sherman hotel.

Coaches Do the Worrying.

As the game draws near, the coaches are far more concerned over the outcome than are the players themselves. Perhaps, because the coaching staf has a better picture of the defects of the squad than the players, it is natural for them to worry. Three of the staf have been through this annual All-Star game while the players, principally because the All-Stars won last year, and because only a few of them have seen the Redskins, do not realize just how great a team Washington is.

For the last three days the coaches have been drilling the All-Americans on defense. Except for continued repetition of written assignments on offense by each player, the emphasis has been on plans to stop Washington's passes and to check a running attack.

Defense and More Defense.

Today's instructions again will be on defense and probably the last advice the players will receive before leaving their dressing room will be a final survey of the defensive duties of each man. There is more to the All-Stars' problem than merely stopping Sammy Baugh, for the plunging and running of the other backs make possible Baugh's passes.

Anything can happen in a football game and frequently does, but this group of All-Americans is well protected in all departments of play and unless such a misfortune as a fumble mars their attack, they believe they will give an excellent account of them selves.

Marty Schreyer of Purdue, the fans' first choice for one of the All-Star starting tackle posts, will be unable to play. His place will be filled at the kickoff by Fred Shirey of Nebraska.

No Wonder the All-Americans Plan to Pass

Capt. Turk Edwards, 260 pound All-National league tackle, will be in the Washington lineup when the Redskins battle the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field tomorrow night. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Lester Olsson of Mercer university, another line giant, will start at guard for the National league champions. His running mate will be Jim Karcher of Ohio State.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE All-Star game tomorrow night will attract more college football coaches than any other game of the season. . . . Almost every prominent gridiron leader in the middle west and many from remote parts of the country will be in attendance. . . . Among college sports celebrities already in Chicago or preparing to leave for the game are Fritz Crisler, Earl Martineau, Fielding H. Yost and Prof. Ralph Aigler of Michigan; Biff Jones of Nebraska; Bernie Bierman and Frank McCormick of Minnesota; L. W. St. John and Francis Schmidt of Ohio State; Noble Kizer, Mal Elward, Red Mackey, and Bob Woodworth of Purdue; Matty Bell of Southern Methodist; Fred Thomsen of Arkansas; Wendell Wilson, Bob Zuppke, Douglas Mills, and L. T. Johnson of Illinois; Irl Tubbs and Ernie Nevers of Iowa; Dr. C. W. Spears of Toledo; Gus Dorais of Detroit, who was head coach of the 1937 All-Stars; Wesley Fry of Kansas State; Charles Bachman of Michigan State; Tom Lieb of Loyola [Los Angeles]; Dutch Bergman of Catholic university; Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin; Paddy Driscoll and Conrad Jennings of Marquette; Bernard Oakes of Colorado; Elmer Holm of Washburn; Jock Sutherland and Jimmy Hagan of Pittsburgh; E. C. Lytton of Drake, and Tony Hinkle of Butler. . . . The Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals have announced they will conduct football games between junior teams at professional contests. . . . The "battles" between the juveniles will be held under the clubs' sponsorship. . . .

Lavvie Dilweg, for years an outstanding end with the Green Bay Packers, will sit on the bench with the Redskins tomorrow night. . . . This will be the first All-Star game George Halas of the Bears has missed. He had to go east with his team for an exhibition game in Providence, R. I., Thursday night. . . . The Purdue Alumni club and Dads' Association of Chicago are sponsoring a joint dinner and smoker at the Brevoort hotel tonight. . . . Their guests will be the Boilermaker coaching staf and members of the 1938 team who are in town for the All-Star game. . . . Ernie Pinckert, the Redskins blocking back, is a sporting goods broker and sells the Redskins their uniforms. . . . When a California high school principal asked him to demonstrate his shoulder pads by bucking a door, Pinckert tore out the side of the office and injured three students in the hall beyond. . . . He got the order. . . . The Green Bay Packers and Chicago Cardinals will be guests of the All-Star game sponsors. . . . Glenn Cliff Bainum, Northwestern's band director, again will have charge of the All-Star musicians. . . . They will entertain between halves.

Fans Move on Loop Hotels for Big Game

The All-Star football game may be just fun to the 80,000 spectators who will gather in Soldiers' field tomorrow night, but it's big business to Chicago's hotels, restaurants, railroads, street cars, taxicabs, buses, and gas stations. Business men yesterday predicted substantial increases in their trade while the football crowd is in town, basing their anticipations on reservations already in hand and on previous experience with the All-Star fans.

In the Stevens hotel alone, for instance, there are 1,500 extra reservations, all of which the management attributes directly to the football game.

Hotel Will Be Filled.

Officials of the La Salle stated that the hotel would be operating at capacity on the night of the All-Star game. This represents an increase of 35 per cent over average business for this time of the year.

The Sherman hotel management said that the All-Star game always brings the biggest boom in its business. Already reservations are threatening to tax the hotel's capacity, and officials observed that in former years the early reservations are doubled by the time all the business comes across the desk on the night of the game.

Officials of the Palmer house and the Morrison hotel said their reservations show a great increase. The Bismarck management said the night of last season's All-Star game was one of the busiest of the year.

Railroads Benefit, Too.

The railroads also are preparing to handle many additional passengers, for football fans from all over the central states will be coming in for the game. Many others will be coming from Washington, home of the Redskins, and the west will send a delegation to watch some of the favorite sons among the college All-Stars.

The Chicago and Alton railroad is putting on special cars to accommodate a Bloomington, Ill., delegation which is coming in to cheer for Charles Sweeney of Notre Dame, who drew the largest number of votes in the All-Star poll.

Last year 25 per cent of the All-Star football crowd arrived at Soldiers' field in automobiles. Forty-four per cent came on foot from the loop. Street cars, buses and the Illinois Central railroad brought 25 per cent. Taxicabs carried the remainder.

Gasoline Business Booms.

Many of those who arrived on foot had driven in from neighboring cities and states in their automobiles and had parked them at some distance from the field to avoid congestion. This influx of automobiles meant a considerable increase in the business done by Chicago gas stations.

The taxicab companies are accustomed to doing a rushing business on the night of the All-Star game and they're preparing for another big evening tomorrow.

Snite Sees Stars Drill; To Attend Game Tomorrow

The spectators at last night's drill of the college All-Americans in Soldiers' field included Frederick B. Snite Jr., infantile paralysis victim, who is encased in a mechanical respirator. He watched the activity with the aid of mirrors in his $15,000 trailer. Arrangements have been made to park the trailer at the north end of Soldiers' field tomorrow night so that Snite will be able to watch the game with the Washington Redskins.

KRAUSE, BAUGH, SMITH, PINCKERT IN BACK FIELD

Team of Veterans Starts Tomorrow.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The long search for a successor to Cliff Battles in the Washington Redskins' backfield ended yesterday with Coach Ray Flaherty's announcement that Max Krause, a 190 pound half back with six years of professional experience, will start at full back against the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field tomorrow night.

Krause, one of the three men from Gonzaga university, Flaherty's alma mater, on the Redskins' roster, will team with Left Half Back Sammy Baugh, Quarter Back Riley Smith, and Right Half Back Ernie Pinckert. His selection followed Flaherty's decision to rely on veterans to withstand the powerful All-Star team's opening rush.

Prior to coming to the Redskins last fall in a trade, Krause was a regular half back in the New York Giants' backfield for four years. He is an exceptional blocker, a powerful runner, and better than the rookie contestants for the position on defense.

Karamatic Is No. 1 Relief.

George Karamatic, another Gonzaga product, who starred in the East-West game last New Year's day, will relieve Krause. He will give the Redskins a greater threat in the open field, but Krause will have to do the heavy work.

Flaherty also announced yesterday that Vic Carroll, a former University of Nevada tackle who played every line position for the Redskins last year, will start the game at center. Carroll, beginning his third year in professional football, possesses the heft and the speed necessary to carry out the difficult defensive assignments given professional centers. He weighs 230 pounds and is 6 feet 3 inches tall.

Flaherty announced the selections at the end of yesterday's light drill on Soldiers' field, in which passing, with Baugh, Smith, and Rookie Dick Tuckey playing the leading rôles, again was the major item. The Redskins will complete their training with a light workout under the lights on Soldiers' field tonight.

Max Wins His Chance.

Krause's fire and ball handling in yesterday's drill moved Flaherty to make the decision which solved one of his major problems throughout the three weeks' training period. Replacing Battles, who retired to coach, was the first thing Flaherty attempted to do when he assembled the squad at Ballston, Va., on Aug. 12. Karamatic held the inside track until first Don Irwin, veteran full back, and then Krause showed greater line smashing ability. Irwin was eliminated by a knee injury, which probably will keep him from breaking into the lineup tomorrow.

The naming of Carroll and Krause completes Flaherty's starting lineup. Charlie Malone and Wayne Millner will be at the ends; Capt. Turk Edwards, 260 pounds of All-National league star, and Jim Barber, an All-Star product from San Francisco, will be at tackle, with Lester Olsson of Mercer and Jim Karcher of Ohio State, another All-Star graduate, at guards.

They're All Big.

This gives Flaherty a veteran eleven, which matches any club in the National league for weight and height, two important requirements in a game against such a versatile aggregation as the All-Stars. In the back field Flaherty has excellent punting by Smith and Baugh, the games' greatest passer in Baugh with a capable assistant in Smith, and superb blocking by Krause and Pinckert. This quartet will not have the running strength Flaherty would like or which might be necessary against the All-Stars.

Running, passing, and punting, however, are not the young coach's real worries now. He is more concerned over the mental attitude of the thirty-one men who compose his squad.

DIAVOLO BOY'S STRONG FINISH BRINGS VICTORY

Montsin Beats Bold Fay by Inches.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Diavolo Boy, a Texas 3 year old, was made the 7 to 5 favorite in the West Pullman purse at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. He scored a handy victory, but his backers, not familiar with his stretch running ability, had heart flutterings before he finally got home in front.

It wasn't until the field was half way down the stretch, after Diavolo Boy moved out into the center of the track, dropped his head, and started running, that his backers began to get the feeling they had invested wisely.

The son of stretch running old Diavolo had dallied around in third place well back of the two leaders, Tiger Teddy and Sly Gal, during the early part of the seven furlong test. On the turn he dropped back into fourth place and it actually appeared as if he were going to back right up into last place.

Moves Up Swiftly.

Then it was that Jocky Joe Rosen applied a few slaps with his whip. Diavolo Boy didn't like it. He rapidly lengthened his strides. As they wheeled around the last bend and headed for home Diavolo Boy was back in the thick of the tussle.

Then he shot forward with his winning charge. It mowed down Tiger Teddy, Unselfish, and Sly Gal in order. Diavolo Boy, acting as if he were just beginning to run, moved away from his enemies and eventually won under an easy finish by three lengths, with Sly Gal taking second money away from Unselfish by a neck.

Winner Pays $4.80.

The track was at its best since the season opened. Diavolo Boy ran the seven-eighths of a mile in 1:25 2-5. In the betting he paid $4.80 for a two dollar ticket.

Diavolo Boy has been slow in rounding into his best form this season, but before the fall racing has ended more than likely will make it highly interesting for many of the leaders of the 3 year old division.

While the West Pullman was the day's feature, almost as much betting centered on the outcome of the Calumet purse at six furlongs for 2 year olds. It brought defeat to the consistent Bold Fay from Millsdale stable of Chicago, which was trying for her third victory of the Washington Park season.

Montsin Wins by Inches.

The one to conquer her in a finish that goes down as one of the most thrilling of the year at Washington Park was the Kentucky filly Montsin, owned by Friedberg and Axton of Louisville.

Montsin, a daughter of Ormont-Cousin Ethel, had to run a game race to get the decision by inches in a photograph finish in which three horses finished only heads apart. Montsin moved up on the outside and was rallied into a final burst of speed by Jocky Ken McCombs. Bold Fay was second, a neck in front of the Texas filly Wafer.

Montsin had been overlooked by the plungers in the crowd and paid $15.60 to win.

Trainer Draws Suspension on Doping Charge

Trainer Nick Guarneri of New Orleans drew a ninety day suspension yesterday when it was discovered that his charge Pandonna, a winner at Washington Park at long odds on Aug. 19, had, according to the racing commission's veternarian, been stimulated with caffeine. The horse along with Baby Joe, also trained by Guarneri and owned by his wife, was ordered suspended for the same period. It was the first such case uncovered on a Chicago track in two years.

Guarneri was given an additional thirty day suspension for filing an application for a trainer's license after another person had signed his name to it and for registering the horse My Feng as his property while the horse was the property of another. Guarneri will not be eligible to participate in racing again until Dec. 17.

Because route runners that can go a mile and a quarter will be scarce in Chicago this week-end, it became necessary yesterday to cancel the $5,000 added Washington handicap scheduled for Saturday, closing day of the Washington Park season. Instead a $2,500 added sprint handicap at three-quarters of a mile will be added to the program.

Trainer R. A. Kindred announced yesterday that the next engagement for the speedy colt Olney, owned by R. A. McElvain of Chicago, will be in the $3,500 added Labor day handicap at Hawthorne.

COBB, BALKED BY RAIN; SEEKS NEW RECORD TODAY

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Balked by rain, John Cobb, London broker, set dawn tomorrow for his attempt to break the three day old world land speed record of 345.49 miles per hour set by his compatriot, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

Cobb was to have sent his low slung automobile down the thirteen mile salt course this morning, but a thunderstorm made the going too treacherous.

Cobb's car has done 300 m. p. m. in tests.

Eyston remained at the flats and indications were strong that if Cobb tops his performance he will return for another effort.

58 Play Today for Berths in U. S. Amateur

The Chicago district qualifying round for the national amateur golf championship will be decided in thirty-six holes of medal play today at the Kildeer Country club. A field of fifty-eight players, one of the fastest of the year, will battle for the eleven places allotted to Chicago in the tournament proper, to be played in Oakmont, Pa., from Sept. 12 through Sept. 17. Chicago will have twelve representatives in the main event, since Chick Evans of Edgewater, winner in 1916 and 1920, is exempt as a former champion.

Doering Heads Field.

Heading the local field is Art Doering, Stanford university star from Westward-Ho, who recently won the Chicago district crown and also finished as low amateur in the national open in Denver, Colo. Such Chicago standbys as John Lehman of Olympia Fields, Don Armstrong of Aurora, George Dawson of Glen Oak, Sid Richardson of Northwestern university, who won the 1937 Big Ten title at Kildeer; Chuck Becka of Calumet, John Krutilla of Olympia Fields, and Jack Hoerner of North Shore will compete.

The out of town delegation is expected to be paced by Ted Adams, the Missouri school teacher who defeated Sandy Somerville for the Canadian amateur title recently. Other visitors include Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., 1937 western amateur winner and low amateur in the Chicago open, and Sid Salomon of St. Louis, runner-up to Doering for the Chicago district championship.

A field of 106 will compete for 16 places in the Metropolitan New York district. This group, the largest of the 31, includes Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, the runnerup last year.

Out in Seattle one of the smallest but one of the strongest fields will tee off. A group of 12 trying for five positions includes Marvin Ward, the Walker cup team member; Scotty Campbell and Harry Givan, 1936 internationalists, and Don Moe and Jack Westland. Warn Coot Hunters of Rallying Law

BY BOB BECKER.

Mud hen or coot hunters are being warned about the new regulation which this fall will prohibit the rallying or stirring up of flocks in order to get them into the air and thus give hunters more shooting.

We referred to this new regulation some days ago. Since many thousands of coots or mud hens are shot in northern Illinois every fall we asked Ira Gabrielson, chief of the United States Biological survey, to explain in detail what is meant by the rallying and stirring up of flocks.

The Chief's Reply.

His reply follows:

"The same regulation that has been in effect for a number of years with reference to the rallying of waterfowl has been extended to the rallying of coots and the language of this regulation is 'nor shall anything in these regulations be deemed to permit the use of aircraft of any kind, or of a powerboat, sailboat or other floating craft or device of any kind, for the purpose of concentrating, driving, rallying, or stirring up waterfowl and coot.' Consequently you will see that the use of rowboats or motorboats is not permitted in the rallying of these birds or in unnecessarily stirring them up for shooting purposes.

"It would not be considered a federal violation if a hunter in rowing a boat in an orderly manner to his shooting place incidentally disturbed, or was instrumental in causing, numbers of migratory waterfowl and coot to take flight, but the rower of the boat must not so maneuver it as to deliberately rally or stir up the birds. Our enforcement agents will have to consider all the circumstances before a report to the survey"

There Are Limits.

It is quite evident from the above letter from the chief of the survey that when a duck shooter takes out across a marsh to hunt for a cripple and by his paddling puts into the air 500 or 1,000 birds, he shouldn't be arrested for stirring up such birds.

It is also evident that the survey is trying to emphasize natural hunting conditions and natural flights of birds in marshes or on lakes as against artificial means to put birds into the air when they are resting out of range of shotguns.

BONE FRAGMENTS FOUND IN ARM OF HAL SCHUMACHER

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club surgeon of the St. Louis Cardinals, said tonight Hal Schumacher, righthanded pitcher of the New York Giants, has several chipped bone fragments in his pitching arm.

The diagnosis, Dr. Hyland said, was made last week while the Giants were playing the Cardinals here. Dr. Hyland said Schumacher's elbow was in a condition similar to that of Carl Hubbell, Giants' screwball ace, who recently underwent an operation.

Boys, This IS Hell.

There was an item in the Wake a few days ago which stated, "Hell hath no fury like a wrath of a woman whose wash has been caught in the rain out on a line." The contributor who sent that knows nothing about hell or fury until he has seen the woman whose wash has been caught in the rain and the line broke where there was no grass.

Unsung Heroes.

The collar of his shirt was frayed, but it was clean—
His suit was worn, but it was neatly pressed,
His shoes were shabby, but they had been shined,
And when you talked to him you never guessed
That he'd been up and sleepless half the night
At the bedside of an ailing child,
There was a patient doggedness about his eyes,
Clear and blue, gentle, calm, and mild.

That he'd been out of work for months I knew,
And still he didn't rant or fume or curse,
"Things are bound to pick up soon," he said,
"Every nation has these slumps — or worse";
And he was on his way just then to help
To work the garden of a bedfast friend.
"I have the time," he smiled, "and like to do it—
Besides, it helps to bring the days to end."

When shafts of stone are reared to valiant men
Who do brave deeds within the spotlight's glare,
When eulogies are spoke to honor souls
Who make a name in some great world affair,
I smile within me at the very thought
Of unsung heroes from the rank and file,
Who fight their lonely battles in the night—
That they may face the morning with a smile!

COLORED STARS SHATTER PAR IN PRACTICE ROUND

Subpar practice rounds, while infrequent, were impressive enough at Palos park yesterday as colored golfers warmed up for the thirteenth annual open tournament of the United Golfers' association, which begins today.

Robert Ball of Chicago, three time champion, turned in a 66 for the par 72 course. Hugh Smith of Atlanta had a 68.

John Brooks Denby of Asheville, N. C., winner the last two years, will seek his fourth title in the medal play event. George Roddy of Greensboro, Ala., is the defending champion in the match play amateur event, which will be held at the same time.

POLOISTS OPEN PLAY TODAY IN 12 GOAL TOURNEY

The twelve goal polo tournament will get under way this afternoon at 5 o'clock, with Grosse Pointe of Detroit, Mich., meeting the 124th Field Artillery of Chicago on the No. 2 Oak Brook field, York road and 29th street.

The visitors' lineup includes Maj. Charles E. Boyle, veteran army poloist, and Cornell university coach, Alfred House and the Hammond brothers, Tom and John.

Lieut. Don Rice, Capt. Romeo Mura, and Lieut. Bill Fergus, who brought the 124th Field Artillery an indoor title last spring, and Capt. William S. Everett, will comprise the lineup for the Chicagoans. All four of these players saw service in sweeping the three game series with the Cuban army team at Oak Brook last month.

Austin Polo club of San Antonio, Tex., will clash with Santa Barbara tomorrow afternoon in the intercircuit semifinal, with 4 o'clock as the starting time and field No. 6 as the scene of battle.

MAKE NATIONAL DRAW.

Westbury, N. Y., Aug. 29.—[Special]—Winston Guest's Jaguars and Greentree will meet Sunday in the opening match of the National Polo tournament. The game is to be played on the famous turf of International field at the Meadow Brook club.

Six teams were drawn for the competition at the club tonight by the tournament committee. On Monday the second game is scheduled for Hitchcock field, with old Westbury starting defense of its title against Aknusti.

The semi-finals have been set for Sept. 6 and 7. On the first day, Cocie Rathborne's Ramblers will oppose the winner of the Jaguar-Greentree game on the big field, and on Wednesday on Hitchcock field, Seymour Knox's Aurora quartet will face the winner of the old Westbury-Aknusti contest. The final is to be played Sept. 11 on International field.

MANY CALL IT THE MORE-WHERE-THAT-CAME-FROM BOTTLE—

It's our full ½ Gallon Size—The Thing for parties and when folks drop in

By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

Add Sugars or Syrups?

WE COULD BUT WE WON'T

Our way is the old way—brewing from all grains

MAYBE I am extravagant. Because I still insist on making Meister Bräu the way I learned from my first boss. (He was the first Meister Bräu brewmaster back in 1891.) Even if it does cost more.

But when I talk to folks who drink Meister Bräu, many ask, "How can you make such a good beer at such a reasonable price?"

Well, first, it's because we know how. And then, by making so much Meister Bräu, we enjoy the efficiency and economy of large scale operation. Meister Bräu is Chicago's largest selling bottled beer.

These economies enable us to pay a premium for the best malt and as much as ⅓ more to get the finest hops.

We could save time and trouble by using sugars or syrups. That's a "modern" method—makes a beer some people may like—but may not give the "all-grain" beer flavor.

We have the very finest and latest bottling equipment, but when it comes to anything that affects the character of the beer, we still stick to old-time methods. Thus we bottle only with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself. This retains the real draft beer flavor. Gives it sparkle, foam, and zest.

Please try this old-time beer made the slow, careful way that brings perfection. Ask for Meister Bräu in cans or bottles. That name assures you the true beer flavor.

PETER HAND BREWERY COMPANY, Chicago, Ill.

Party Night get Meister Brau in ½ gallon bottles — cold and fresh from your retailer.

We recommend your neighborhood retailer. Buy your beer and other beverages from him. You'll get prompt delivery and beer that's kept in perfect condition

MEMBER BANKS' BUSINESS LOANS DIP MODERATELY

Sink 10 Million in Week Ended Aug. 24.

Loans by federal reserve member banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture at the end of the week Aug. 24 showed a moderate decline from the amount of such loans outstanding at the end of the preceding week. This was disclosed yesterday in the weekly report of the federal reserve board on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities, which showed a drop of 10 million dollars in such loans.

During the last seven or eight weeks loans made by member banks of the reserve system have not shown the sharp declines recorded in the first half of this year when business was on the downgrade. There have been several weekly increases in such loans since the first week in July.

Upturn Regarded Favorably.

The changed trend was commented on favorably yesterday by members of the federal reserve board at Washington. They expressed confidence that the improvement in member bank lending is an indication that credit expansion is under way.

For the first time since last October, they said, there has been an upward trend in the amount of loans made to commerce and industry. The recent increases, interrupted last week, totaled about $45,000,000, the reserve officials said.

Loans made by the banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture are watched by economists as being one of the best of business indicators.

Armstrong Cork.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate very much your giving me a report on the Armstrong Cork company. I am interested especially in its earnings and dividends. Is there any funded debt?—W. A. F.

Answer: The Armstrong Cork company is the largest American producer of corks, corkboard insulation, linoleum, cork pipe covering, cork compositions, and insulating fire brick. It also is an important manufacturer of cork tile, asphalt tile, rubber tile, and crown caps.

Because Spain is the principal source of cork, the civil war in that country has been a constant threat to the company's supplies of raw material. Armstrong Cork's Spanish subsidiary is still operating, however, and its property, so far as can be learned, has not been greatly damaged. Meanwhile, arrangements have been made to obtain ordinary requirements of cork from Portugal, North Africa, and other producing areas if Spanish supplies are completely cut off.

The company has been progressive. Due to an active research staf, the number of its products has been increased steadily until about 400 items are now sold. Of total sales in 1937 about 25 per cent was accounted for by new products added since 1931.

In June, stockholders approved the issuance of 60,000 shares of $100 par convertible 4 per cent preferred stock and the increase in authorized common stock from 1,524,693 to 1,624,693 no par shares. Later it was announced that Armstrong Cork would acquire the business of Whitall-Tatum company, Millvale, N. Y., for 34,500 shares of preferred. More recently, Armstrong Cork purchased the assets of Standard Wall Covering company.

Funded debt was completely paid off last year.

Net income for the first half of this year fell to $285,093 from $3,825,030 in the corresponding period a year ago. Net income was $5,157,887, or $3.36 a share, in 1937; $5,277,535, or $4.36 a share in 1936; $3,434,912, or $2.84 a share, in 1935; $1,973,098, or $1.63 a share, in 1934, and $2,386,714, or $1.97 a share, in 1933. The company reported losses of $2,259,375 in 1932, $3,053,493 in 1931, and $3,364,414 in 1930.

The common dividend ordinarily payable June 1 was passed. Only 25 cents a share had been previously paid this year and $2.50 was paid in 1937.

The company had total assets of $48,[illegible]378 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $24,183,106 and current liabilities were $2,750,274.

U. S. WILL BUY WHEAT, SELL IT TO EXPORTERS

Resale Price Based on World Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—The department of agriculture today announced additional details of its wheat subsidy export program designed to sell 100 million bushels of wheat abroad.

M. L. Wilson announces subsidy plan.

M. L. Wilson, acting secretary of agriculture, who announced the program, said it will be modeled after that of the Canadian government, with which it is intended to compete in the world market. Secretary of Agriculture Henry R. Wallace is now in Canada, discussing methods of coöperation with Canadian officials.

The program calls for purchase of wheat and flour by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation in the open market at prevailing prices. The grain will then be sold to exporters at a price enabling them to compete in world markets.

U. S. Will Stand Losses.

Wilson said the corporation will stand any losses from these operations in wheat and flour. Funds for this purpose are provided by the agricultural adjustment administration act, which sets aside 30 per cent of custom receipts for the removal and disposal of farm surpluses.

Officials of the AAA said that at least $12,500,000 is available for the program. The FSCC has also arranged to borrow $30,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to be used as a revolving fund in the exporting operations.

The first purchases were made by the FSCC last Saturday. So far the corporation has purchased 35,000 bushels of wheat, officials said. In carrying out the program the facilities of the regular wheat and flour trade, including farmer coöperatives, will be used.

Declares Program Necessary.

"The wheat export program announced today has been adopted as a necessary means of meeting a special situation," Wilson said. "That situation is the fact that, up to the present, the major exporting nations are not coöperating in a general program for meeting the world surplus wheat problem.

"The program will also supplement the 1939 AAA wheat acreage allotment in bringing about a better balance in the wheat supply situation."

The American crop this year is estimated at 956 million bushels, the second largest crop on record. The supply, including the carryover of 154 million bushels, is estimated at 1,110 million bushels, the largest stock for this country since 1932-'33. The estimated world crop for this year is the largest on record.

Urges Acreage Program.

"This export program," said Wilson, "does not remove any of the necessity for wheat producers to work through acreage allotments to bring about a better balance in the wheat supply situation. Even with wheat exports of 10 million bushels, the United States wheat carryover on next July 1 may exceed 300 million bushels."

He said that American exports of 100 million bushels would be approximately 18 per cent of the estimated world trade in wheat for this season. This compares with 20 per cent of the world trade that the United States obtained last season and an average of 25 per cent in the years from 1920 to 1929.

The types of wheat exported will depend almost entirely upon demand. There are adequate supplies of all types in the United States this year. Ordinarily, American exports consist chiefly of hard red winter wheat produced in the southwest, soft white wheat from the Pacific northwest, and durum, chiefly from the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Deal Only in Cash Wheat.

The program will operate entirely in cash wheat and it is not contemplated that any wheat will be bought or sold in the futures contract markets.

A continued drop in farm prices was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics. It was the rapid fall in prices, induced by the renewed depression, as well as the growing surpluses, that prompted officials to push the export program.

The bureau's index on Aug. 15 was 3 points lower than a month earlier and again at the rate prevailing in May and June. Grains were off 10 points from July and were equal to 62 per cent of pre-war prices.

OTHER WHEAT SUBSIDIES.

Efforts of the American government to export 100,000,000 bushels of wheat through a subsidy plan have already increased competition in the world market.

Rumania, it was announced yesterday, has increased the export subsidy on wheat from 19⅞ cents to 23½ cents a bushel. Rumania harvested about 184,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, a new all-time record, compared with 138,000,000 bushels in 1937.

Effective Aug. 1 Poland started to pay an export bounty on wheat, rye, barley, and oats in the form of custom certificates that may be used in payment of import duties on other commodities. The bounty amounts to 20⅝ cents a bushel on wheat and 17 cents on rye. Poland has an exportable surplus of various grains this season of about 992,000 short tons.

Grains Decline on War Scare, Stock Break

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .63⅞	$ .65	$1.04⅜
Corn	.52½	.53⅝	.97½
Oats	.24	.24⅛	.28⅝
Rye	.42	.42¾	.78¼
*Soy beans	.77½	.77⅝	.94½

*October delivery.

Wheat declined about a cent a bushel yesterday. The European war scare, weakness in securities, and the failure of the government to purchase much wheat were believed causes of weakness in the market. Corn also fell about a cent.

Closing trades in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of ⅞ to 1⅛ cents a bushel. Other North American markets were as much as 1⅜ cents lower. The Winnipeg market showed the most weakness. Liverpool closed slightly higher.

Corn Closes Lower.

Corn was little affected by the unexpected government loan announcement Saturday. The announcement said loans of 57 cents a bushel would be made on No. 2 yellow stored on farms. Futures received little support and closing trades were ⅞ to 1⅛ cent a bushel lower.

No. 2 yellow corn in the Chicago sample market sold at 54⅝ cents, or 2⅝ cents less than farmers could borrow on the grain if stored. Oats, rye, and soy beans declined moderately in sympathy with other grains.

Only 35,000 bushels of Pacific coast wheat were reported sold to the government over the week end.

Canadian Visible Supply Up.

Hedging sales had a depressing effect on the Winnipeg wheat market. Nearly 4,000,000 bushels of cash wheat were inspected at Canadian terminals Saturday and Sunday, and the visible supply was reported to have increased over 14,000,000 bushels during the last week.

No export sales of corn were reported. Argentina grain was said to have been offered at Liverpool slightly below American prices.

COMMODITY FIRM CHARGED WITH VIOLATING LAW

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The agriculture department announced today that a complaint charging violation of the commodity exchange act had been filed against S. W. Gongoll, Minneapolis, Minn., and eight firms it said he controled.

The department said Gongoll and the firms had been notified to show cause at a hearing Sept. 14 why they should not be barred from the commodity exchanges.

It said the complaint, signed by Secretary Wallace on Aug. 25 and served on the respondents today, stated that Gongoll and the firms failed to report, and reported falsely, transactions and open positions in commodities in violation of the commodity exchange act. It said Gongoll further violated the act by operating as a futures commission merchant without being registered with the commodity exchange administration.

The complaint included among the firms Financial Associates of Illinois, Inc., in Chicago.

ARMSTRONG CORK BECOMES OWNER OF NEWPORT FIRM

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Newport Industries, Inc., has sold its 50 per cent interest in Armstrong-Newport company, and Armstrong Cork company has become sole owner of the assets and business of the latter company, it was announced today.

Newport Industries, Inc., is engaged in the naval stores business with plants at Pensacola, Fla., De Quincy, La., and Bay Minette, Ala. The Armstrong-Newport company's plant is at Pensacola, Fla., where insulating and building board is manufactured from wood fiber obtained as a by-product from Newport Industries, Inc., operations.

Sears-Roebuck Loses Suit to Enjoin Iowa 'Use' Tax

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A three judge United States District court today dismissed a suit filed by Sears, Roebuck & Co. to enjoin the Iowa board of assessment and review from collecting a use tax on its mail order business. The use tax is a 2 per cent levy on articles purchased in another state for use in Iowa. The mail order house contended that the tax interferes with interstate commerce.

Two Companies Cut Price of East Texas Crude Oil

Tyler, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A reduction of 10 cents in the price of East Texas crude oil was announced today by the Stanolind Oil Purchasing company and the Humble Oil and Refining company. The new price is $1.25 a barrel, the Humble order becoming effective today and Stanolind's on Sept. 1.

MORGENTHAU FINDS TALKING WAR DEBTS IS BAD TASTE IN EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., upon his return to the capital today from a European vacation, said he learned nothing new about the war debts abroad. He also denied there was any immediate change in prospect in the tripartite agreement or the gold policy of this country.

"Nobody ever mentioned the war debt," Morgenthau said. "If I didn't know there was one before I left I certainly would not have known about it from talk over there."

There had been frequent rumors from abroad that Morgenthau was discussing war debt and monetary agreements with French and British officials. The tripartite agreement has the same status as before he went vacationing, the secretary said.

The secretary revealed that the treasury's September financing program will be announced on the morning of Sept. 8, but he would give no hints as to its contents. He is prepared, however, to discuss the financing with President Roosevelt at the first opportunity. The treasury does not have a tax program ready yet, he also said.

USE OF CHECKS IN CHICAGO AREA LOWER IN WEEK

Use of checks in the Chicago federal reserve district, as indicated by debits to individual bank accounts, in the week ended Aug. 24 showed a decline of 11.4 per cent from the preceding week. This was disclosed yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, which reported on debits of 159 banks in forty-one leading cities.

The total for the week was $870,074,000, compared with $981,584,000 for the preceding week. Compared with the corresponding 1937 week, when the total was $1,110,175,000, there was a drop of 21.6 per cent.

The total for the Chicago banks alone was $599,422,000, against $644,838,000 a year ago.

U. S. Will Open Chicago Office to Settle Tax Cases

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A division of the internal revenue bureau is to be established at Chicago, Sept. 1, the treasury department announced yesterday. Branch offices will be established at Springfield, Ill., Milwaukee, Wis., and Indianapolis, Ind. Treasury department officials said the bureau, manned by a staf of fifty technical and clerical employés, would have authority to settle all federal income and estate tax cases arising in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. Similar bureaus are operating in New York and San Francisco.

Utilities Power Probe Is Test of 'Death' Act

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The Utilities Power and Light corporation, Chicago utility holding company, today was being made the first subject of an attempt to enforce the "death sentence" section of the public utility holding company act.

Harley L. Clarke.

The corporate structure of this company, which was organized and once dominated by Harley L. Clarke, is being placed under the magnifying glass of the Securities and Exchange commission. The SEC enforces the holding company act under the law. Once rated to have assets totaling more than $400,000,000, the company now is being reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

Expected to Last Months.

The SEC hearing into the Chicago company's status is expected to take several months. It was opened today with the presentation by Abe Fortas, an attorney for the SEC, of voluminous documentary evidence.

After spending nearly all of the first day of the hearing on technical preliminaries, Fortas said he would begin testimony tomorrow on the value of the corporation's properties.

More than a score of attorneys representing powerful financial and utility interests lined five tables in the front of the hearing room.

Edwin C. Johnson, an examiner for the SEC, is presiding over the hearing. Seated on the bench with him is Harry N. Gottlieb, Chicago lawyer, who is acting as a special master in chancery for Utilities Power for the United States district court in Chicago. The Chicago court has jurisdiction over the reorganization proceedings.

The properties controled by Utilities Power are located in twelve middle western and eastern states. Under the holding company act, the SEC is given the power to limit a utility holding company's system to one compact area.

Offers Test Case.

In its order entered a few weeks ago requiring the simplification of the company, the SEC said that the Utilities Power case offered a good opportunity to test the death sentence section of the utilities act because the simplification could be coördinated with the financial reorganization now before the court.

There are four reorganization plans now pending before the court at Chicago. Two are sponsored by the Atlas corporation, a New York investment trust, which has been engaged in a bitter fight with Clarke for the control of Utilities Power. Atlas owns a large amount of Utilities Power debentures.

The Associated Gas and Electric company, which is another large utility holding company, sponsors another plan.

Associated Gas, which has a heavy equity interest in Utilities Power, last Saturday filed an amendment to its original plan. A fourth plan is sponsored by the trustees of Utilities Power and the Webster Securities corporation, an investment subsidiary set up by Clarke.

R. N. Golding, counsel for a group of individual debenture holders, moved continuance of the proceedings.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 44 PCT.; HIGHEST RATE IN TEN MONTHS

The nation's steel mills will operate at 44 per cent of ingot capacity this week, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. The rate is the highest in ten months and is an increase of 1.2 points over last week's production schedule of 42.8 per cent of capacity, the institute said.

The announcement that new construction projects within a short time will require more than 50,000 tons of structural steel gives promise of further advances in the production rate. More important, automobile manufacturers are expected to enter the market early next month for steel to be used in producing 1939 models.

Structural steel contracts actually placed during the last week were less than in the preceding week.

Steel mills in the country were producing at 39.8 per cent of capacity a month ago, according to the institute. A year ago the rate was 84.1 per cent of capacity.

CHIEF RAILWAYS REPORT INCOME BELOW YEAR AGO

Net operating income is before payment of interest on bonds and other fixed charges. A Class I railroad has income of $1,000,000 or more a year.

Total net income for the first seven months of 1938 was $109,335,282, against $360,451,579 in the first seven months of 1937, a drop of 69.7 per cent. Freight revenues in July declined 18.7 per cent, compared with July, 1937, and passenger revenues declined 9.6 per cent.

HEADS OF BIG FIRMS PREDICT TRADE UPTURN

Bache, MacFarlane Back from Europe.

Better business for this autumn was predicted yesterday by two business leaders returning from Europe. These were Jules S. Bache, president of Dome Mines, Ltd., and a director of the Chrysler corporation, and W. C. MacFarlane, president of the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company.

Jules S. Bache—"Things look better."

"Chrysler corporation will go along with the general business of the country, which looks a little better now," Bache said. "Generally we have a feast after a famine. We have had the famine."

Forecasts Dome Dividends.

Commenting on Dome Mines, gold producers, he predicted that the company would continue to pay the present dividend out of earnings for the next 25 years. The dividend rate is $2 a share annually. Dome Mines' earnings, he added, will be somewhat lower this year than in 1937.

MacFarlane said fall business of the Minneapolis-Moline company is expected to show an increase.

"The company's business until the middle of August has held up well," he said. "With the showing of new advanced models this September and with excellent crop conditions in the northwest, our business should be stimulated. Business of the company abroad is suffering from adverse foreign exchange conditions."

Other Concerns Earn Less.

Several firms issuing interim statements yesterday showed lower earnings for this year than for the corresponding 1937 periods. These included United Gas corporation, Pacific Greyhound Lines, and the New York City Omnibus corporation.

United Gas reported for the June quarter net income of $1,439,697, compared with $2,449,269 in the second quarter of last year. For the twelve months to June 30 the company's net income declined to $8,252,297 from $11,404,269 in the preceding twelve months.

Net income of Pacific Greyhound Lines, controled by the Greyhound corporation, amounted to $669,589 in the first six months of this year, compared with $749,748 in the first half of 1937. The decline occurred despite an increase in operating revenues to $4,384,971, from $4,056,445 in the first half of last year.

New York City Omnibus corporation's net income in July was $90,704, against $97,023 in July, 1937.

Europe Buys U. S. Dollars to Guard Funds

European capitalists, alarmed by the Czechoslovakian situation, yesterday sought a haven for their funds in event of war by transferring large balances into American dollars. The result was a sharp rise of American money in terms of most European currencies in foreign exchange dealings.

Particularly weak were the British pound and the Netherlands guilder. Despite half hearted support from the stabilization fund, the British unit dipped into new low ground for the current move in fairly active trading. It closed at $4.87, off 5-16 of a cent.

London Stocks Fall.

Alarm over the European situation also was apparent in the London stock market where declines ranged from fractions to as much as 5 per cent. Speculative favorites, led by gold, oil, and trans-Atlantic issues, lost the most ground and government loans also joined the retreat.

Prices also skidded on other European stock exchanges but trading for the most part remained small. Suez Canal and Royal Dutch, trading favorites, finished with big losses on the Paris stock market and rentes sold sharply lower. Banking and railroad shares held about steady.

Leading issues on the Berlin boerse were about a point lower at the close of a very dull session. In Amsterdam a general retreat occurred, although prices recovered a little in unofficial dealings after the close of regular trading.

More Gold Engaged.

The flow of gold toward the United States continued. Engagement of $1,050,000 of gold in England for shipment to this country was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The bank also reported that $1,988,000 of gold not previously reported had been engaged for shipment here.

These engagements brought the total of gold taken in London for shipment here since July 26, to $64,300,000. Hoarding demand in London was reported larger and a total of 490 bars of gold, worth about $6,860,000 was dealt in at the time of the fixing of the gold price. The price which was 142s 8½d was equal to $34.77 an ounce. In trading following the fixing gold was reported to have advanced to 142s 9½d, which would be the highest quotation in over three years.

DELAY RAIL WAGE HEARINGS DURING UNION MEETINGS

Mediation of the railroad wage dispute was interrupted yesterday. The delay was to give the heads of eighteen of the unions involved in the dispute an opportunity to consult with the general chairmen of each of the unions. Between 800 and 900 of the general chairmen are in Chicago for individual meetings with the union officials. Short meetings were held yesterday afternoon and the sessions are scheduled to be resumed this morning.

Dr. William M. Leiserson, chairman of the national mediation board, said that he expects to be notified this morning when the unions are ready to resume their meetings with the mediation board. If the general chairmen finish their sessions this morning he may meet with the brotherhood representatives today.

CONTROL OF SEC OVER EXTENSIONS UPHELD BY COURT

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The jurisdiction of the Securities and Exchange commission over the extension of securities issued before it came into being was upheld today by Federal Judge John W. Clancy. The case involved the Associated Gas and Electric system.

Judge Clancy granted the SEC a preliminary injunction restraining Associated Gas and Electric from extending its 5½ per cent convertible investment certificates, which fall due next Nov. 15, without first filing a notice with the SEC and receiving the commission's approval.

STOCKS TUMBLE ON NEW THREATS OF WAR ABROAD

Decline Is Sharpest Since Last March.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—Stock market prices tumbled 1 to 5 points today as a result of the aggravated political situation in central Europe. Taking the lead from the continental markets and the London exchange, which were much lower, domestic stocks started with declines of 1 to 4 points. Many issues were dumped in lots of 1,000 shares or more.

A feeble rally temporarily checked the decline, but in the middle of the second hour selling increased in intensity and the ticker was swamped. Subsequent efforts to rally the list failed and prices continued lower even in the face of newly-developing better domestic business news. It was the severest break since March. All of the gains of the last two weeks were wiped out.

Volume of Trading Expands.

Transfers totaled 1,248,850 shares. Of 788 issues traded, 684 closed lower, 31 higher, and 73 unchanged.

Brokers reported that most of the selling came from domestic professional sources, with the public participating to a small extent. Some foreign selling also appeared, it was said, particularly in the early hours.

Industrial stocks were the hardest hit, the Dow-Jones index of thirty representative issues slumping 4.89 to 137.06. Some large individual rail losses forced the average for that group to 27.48, off 1.23. The utility average lost .76 to 19.13.

Although the war scare was advanced as the chief factor in the setback, several observers maintained that some of the dumping could be traced to sources which believed that the market had outstripped the pace of business recovery.

Industrial News Favorable.

Meanwhile, industrial news continued favorable. Steel operations for this week were estimated to be higher. Heavy construction contracts, which rose sharply last week over the corresponding week a year ago, are expected to continue higher. Several large automobile corporations reported they were speeding up production in subsidiary divisions.

Despite the last-named item, General Motors and Chrysler were the two most actively supplied issues of the day. The former dropped 3 points, the latter 4½ points. Other conspicuous weak spots in the industrials included United States Steel, off 3⅜; United States Rubber, off 2⅞; Yellow Truck, off 1⅜; Anaconda Copper, off 2¼; Greyhound, off 1⅛; National Gypsum, off 1⅜.

Other Industrials Lower.

Bethlehem Steel fell 4⅛; Allied Chemical and du Pont, each off 5; Westinghose, 3½; Douglas Aviation, 2⅜; Kennecott Copper, 2, and International Harvester, 3⅜.

Although rail shares were not subjected to heavy pressure, the general weakness and several thin situations created sharp reversals in some of the leaders. New York Central was most actively traded and dropped 1½ points. Santa Fe was pushed 2⅝ points lower. Chesapeake and Ohio and Union Pacific each lost around 2 points. Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, and Illinois Central were among those to lose 1 point or so.

THREE MAIN REASONS WHY "INSIDERS" HAVE BEEN MOVING OUT

The main reasons many holders of very substantial blocks of stocks in single companies have been liquidating are as follows: (1) They find the income tax less severe this year with respect to capital gains and deductible losses and less severe than it is likely to be in the years ahead. (2) They desire a more judicious diversification in their holdings. (3) They can dispose of big blocks of stock through dealers this year more easily and at better prices.

We have been retained by a number of such holders to provide an intelligent, well-balanced program for the reinvestment of proceeds and continuous supervision thereafter. We invite inquiries from others.

All transactions are handled through the clients' own dealers, bankers, or brokers

SLOAN PREDICTS REDUCED PROFIT IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Need 'Radical Gains to Change Situation.'

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Fourth quarter earnings of the automobile industry generally will be below those of 1937, Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors corporation, predicted today. He returned from a trip abroad.

Alfred P. Sloan.

"This condition will prevail," Sloan said, "unless a very radical improvement in the general business situation" occurs before the end of the year.

Predicting no major changes in the automobile industry in 1939, Sloan said "the industry will follow the course of the last couple of years and progress through evolution—that is, the refinement of details and improved appearance—rather than by anything radical."

Will Share in Any Upturn.

If general business improves, however, Sloan said, "It is fair to assume that the automobile industry will improve with it."

Sloan estimated General Motors third quarter earnings would be below those of last year, which were $44,412,734.

For the fourth quarter last year General Motors net income was $41,478,598. This was the lowest quarter of the year. Net income for the first quarter of 1938 totaled $8,234,017, and $24,786,002 was reported for the second quarter.

The used car situation, which last year was one of the industry's chief problems, is now "relatively good," he said. He added he saw no reason for increased prices in the industry.

Not Much to Say on Models.

"There is not much to be said about the 1939 automobile models as they are just getting into production," Sloan declared. "Likewise there is not much to be said about the automobile industry at this time because it is in a blind spot between seasons when the change over is made to the new models."

World automobile business has declined this year from 1937, with the United States showing the largest decrease proportionately, Sloan said. In Germany the automobile business is better than last year, he said, and the General Motors subsidiary there is "running very much better in August and they are behind in their orders."

Automobile Industry in 1937.

The importance of the automobile industry in the American economic picture is emphasized in the 1938 edition of Automobile Facts and Figures. This document is published annually by the Automobile Manufacturers' association.

Factor sales of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada in 1937 totaled 5,016,437 units. They had a wholesale value of $2,971,027,641. In 1900 the wholesale value of the factory sale of 4,192 passenger cars was $4,899,443. There were no trucks sold that year.

Replacement parts, accessories, tires, and service equipment for 1937 were valued at $1,406,801,000. This brought the wholesale value of all products of the industry in the United States and Canada for 1937 to a grand total of $4,377,828,641.

Capital invested in car and truck factories in the United States amounted to $1,369,631,000 at the end of 1937.

A total of 517,000 persons were employed in the motor vehicle and parts factories last year. Their wages totaled $806,000,000. The number of persons employed directly and indirectly in highway transportation totaled 6,037,000. There were 44,800 dealers in the United States.

Owners of motor vehicles paid $1,584,990,000 in taxes during 1937, or more than the capital invested in the factories that built the cars.

STEEL MAKER OMITS DIVIDEND ON PREFERRED

Am. Rolling Mill Shows 'Continuing Loss.'

Directors of the American Rolling Mill company yesterday voted to omit the dividend on the corporation's new 4½ per cent preferred stock. They reported "continuing losses." The company, leading independent producer of high grade iron and steel sheets in the country, issued the stock in July, 1937.

Quarterly dividends of $1.12½ were initiated last October and were paid up to July 15 of this year. The last payment made on the common stock was 50 cents on Oct. 15, 1937.

Statement of Directors.

A statement prepared by the directors said:

"Because of losses before preferred dividends during the first six months and the continuing losses at present, together with present business conditions, no action on the preferred dividends was justifiable at this time."

Dividends were resumed yesterday by Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc. Directors ordered payment of 25 cents a share Sept. 19 to stockholders of record Sept. 8.

Wisconsin Public Service corporation. Declared quarterly dividends of $1.75 on 7% preferred, $1.62½ on 6½% preferred, and $1.50 on the 6% preferred, payable Sept. 20, of record Aug. 31. Paid same June 20. Arrears as of Sept. 20 will be $5.25 on 7%, $4.87½ on 6½%, and $4.50 on 6%.

The letter "q" in the table refers to regular quarterly payments; "s-a" to regular semi-annual payments.

BUTTER FUTURES RISE ¼ CENT; EGG MARKET STEADY

Butter futures continued their recovery movement yesterday by gaining ¼ cent a pound on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The rally began late last week after contracts had dropped to the lowest levels in five years. November futures finished yesterday at 23⅝ cents a pound.

The higher prices were influenced by word from government officials that part of the 62,500,000 pounds of butter acquired by the federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association will be sold to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation for relief distribution. This means that the butter will not be unloaded by the DPMA in commercial channels.

October eggs were unchanged at 24 cents a dozen.

GRIGSBY-GRUNOW MAY PAY MORE; TAXES SETTLED

Settlement of government tax claims last week has opened the way for further payments to bondholders and creditors of the bankrupt Grigsby-Grunow company, former manufacturer of radios and refrigerators. This was announced yesterday by A. L. Schapiro, counsel for the trustee in bankruptcy.

It was incorrectly stated in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE that $900, in addition to certain real estate still to be liquidated, would remain for bondholders and general creditors after settling the tax claims. The correct amount was $900,000.

July Business in Chicago Continues Below Year Ago

Business activity in Chicago during July followed the trend of the preceding 1938 months and was far below the rate in July, 1937. This was disclosed yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce in its monthly survey of Chicago business conditions. In only a few lines were improvements over 1937 shown.

The exceptions to the trend downward were telephones in use, airplane travel, activity at the stockyards and business on the Chicago stock exchange. A few lines were proportionately better than in June. Included was retail department store volume, which although far below the July, 1937, volume, made a relatively better showing than in June, 1938.

Carloadings showed one of the greatest declines. Last month's total was 132,667, against 207,323 in July, 1937. Electric power also was down sharply. For July, 1938, the production of electric power totaled 487,181,000 kilowatt hours, against 535,017,000 in July, 1937.

Pig iron production, which is regarded as one of the best business indices, totaled only 208,666 tons in July, 1938, against 681,426 in July, 1937. New car registrations were down more than 60 per cent. Surface car passenger riders were down.

The fact that telephones in use totaled about 17,000 more than were in use at the end of July, 1937, was held to be a favorable sign.
